BRITAIN SPURNS DEBT PAYMENT IN KIND TO U. S.

Terms Suggestion by Hull Impractical.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 27.—In a note released for publication in London tonight Great Britain turned down the American suggestion for payment in kind to settle the war debts and termed such a procedure impractical and a danger to Anglo-American trade.

The British expressed a wish for settlement of the debts problem "whenever it may appear that the present abnormal conditions have so far passed as to offer favorable prospects for a settlement."

To support their rejection of "payment in kind," the British quoted a statement made by former Vice President Charles G. Dawes while head of the reparations committee in 1924:

"In their effects, deliveries in kind are not readily distinguishable from cash payments."

Designed as Sedative.

The note, cabled to Washington today, was simply a statement of the British views on points raised by Secretary of State Cordell Hull in his recent note, which was an answer to the British announcement of default of the June 15 debts payment.

The note, designed as a "sedative" to allay any irritation which may have been caused by the British default, said "the government is sincerely anxious to remove from the sphere of controversy all or any matters which might disturb the harmony of relations between the two countries."

The next British debt step, it is believed, will not be taken until after the situation has been discussed with Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to Washington, who arrived in England today on leave.

Text of Note.

The text of the British note follows:

"After careful consideration of the note which you addressed to Sir Ronald Lindsay on June 12, his majesty's government in the United Kingdom feel that there are two questions to which it may be useful to make further reference.

"In the first place, his majesty's government would observe that in their note of June 4 they did not state that payment of the British war debt was legally contingent upon payment of the debts due to them. What they said was that it would be impossible for them to contemplate a situation in which they would be called on to honor in full their war obligations to others while continuing to suspend all demands for payment of the war obligations due to them. This was a statement not of law but of fact.

"Secondly, as regards the suggested payments in kind, his majesty's government would recall that the experience of German reparations showed that transfer difficulties are not solved by a system of deliveries in kind.

Objects to Payment in Kind.

"As the committee presided over by Gen. Dawes pointed out in 1924, 'In their financial effect deliveries in kind are not readily distinguishable from cash payments.'

"In fact, the economic objections to cash payments would apply with equal force to deliveries in kind, unless those deliveries were to consist of indigenous products of the debtor country (excluding reëxports), and unless they were to be accepted by the creditor country and consumed by it in addition to the goods taken from the debtor country in the normal course of trade.

"If the United Kingdom were not to receive payment for goods exported on commercial accounts, her exchange resources available to purchase cotton and other goods from America would be still further diminished. Therefore, while not unwilling to give further consideration to possibilities in this direction, his majesty's government do not at the present see any method of putting such a plan into practice which would be likely to commend itself to the government of the United States of America.

Amount to Be Paid Issue.

"In the view of his majesty's government, the primary question for settlement is the amount that should be paid, having regard to all the circumstances of the debts.

"They regret that up to the present it has not been possible to make further progress in this matter, but they will welcome the opportunity of resuming the discussion whenever it may appear that the present abnormal conditions have so far passed away as to offer favorable prospects for a settlement, since they are always anxious to remove from the sphere of controversy all or any matters which might disturb the harmonious relations between the two countries."

City's Police Give a Hand to NRA Code

Chicago police yesterday were notifying truck operators in all sections of the city that they must either sign the NRA trucking code or face action by the state compliance board. The registration deadline has been set for this evening.

Considerable comment was caused by the police warning, which marks the first time that this arm of the law, in Chicago at least, has been employed to enforce NRA rules.

Not Official—It's Courtesy.

"The police really aren't acting officially," said Chester G. Moore, chairman of the Illinois truck code board. "They are warning the truck operators as a courtesy measure. We requested Commissioner Allman to do this because of the difficulty of reaching each of the thousands of operators in the city."

The trucking code applies to all "for hire" trucks. It includes, in the words of the order issued by Commissioner Allman, "farmers who are paid in money or material for hauling, and it takes in all trucks, tractors, wagons, and freight carrying motorcycles."

Board Prepares for Action.

Against those who fail to register the state compliance board is preparing to take action. The national code authority has directed all registrars to prepare a list of nonsigners, to be submitted to the state board as soon as the deadline has passed.

Mr. Moore said several thousand truck operators would be outside "the code fold." He announced that they would be liable to fines of $500 for each day of operation outside the code.

The code sets up a schedule of truck hauling rates on a general basis of competition with short haul rail freight rates. Chicago, however, because of its various forms of transportation in competition with trucks, has been given a special, lower system of rates.

SHOT BEGINNING WAR FIRED 20 YEARS AGO TODAY

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Twenty years ago today a 19 year old schoolboy sprang nimbly up to an automobile in a street in Sarajevo, Serbia, and shot a passenger who sat in rigid dignity in the tonneau—Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the throne of Austria. The sharp crack of the pistol in the hands of the student, Gavrilo Princep, started the world war. Princep died in prison.

The most fateful shot of all history, it set off the succession of world shaking events which toppled a half dozen kings from their thrones, brought death to millions of men, reshaped the map of much of the globe, and gave birth to a host of problems still clamoring for settlement.

Exactly fifteen years ago today the signing of the treaty of Versailles ended the war.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 27.—Marguerite LeHand, President Roosevelt's private secretary, arrived here from the United States today to help with final arrangements for her marriage to William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to Moscow. This was learned today.

The young woman, who answers the President's telephone, was silent on the wedding rumors. She insisted she is not even going to Russia. However, plans are believed to be well along for what is hoped will be a secret wedding—probably in Paris. Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., another close associate of the President, is understood to have been picked as best man. Vanderbilt is now on the Riviera, and Miss LeHand is going there after a few days in Paris. She said she will return to America at the end of July.

Midwest Heat to Descend on Chicago Today

Summer resort temperatures, with a low of 59 degrees and a high of 70, prevailed in Chicago yesterday while nearly all other cities in the mid-continent were sweltering in heat that reached or exceeded the 100 mark. This comfort was attributable entirely to lake breezes drifting in from the north and northeast.

Two downstate cities, Peoria and Springfield, had official maximum readings of 104 degrees. At Sioux City and Charles City, Ia.; Omaha Neb., and Minneapolis, Minn., the high was also 104. St. Louis and Kansas City had maxima of 102.

Showers Deemed Likely.

At Mattoon, Ill., it was asserted the mercury had crawled up to 111, and residents were amusing themselves frying eggs on the sidewalks. Pana, Bloomington, and Zeigler, Ill., all reported 106.

The official forecast indicated that the cool breezes which first swept in late Tuesday and have since refrigerated Chicago probably will be routed today by southwest winds, which will bring the heat to the city. The day, it was stated, will be generally fair, but showers are regarded as likely tonight or tomorrow.

The cool area extended only a few miles inland. Even the western edge of Chicago had readings in the high 70's, still comfortable, and at Joliet there was a climb during the afternoon to 94.

Few Heavy Rains.

Only slight hopes for cooler weather were held out over the baked plains and the corn belt for today. Scattered showers are anticipated in the Dakotas in the lake regions.

There were some rains yesterday. Fort Wayne, Ind., had 1.52 inches, Lima, O., 1.47 inches, and Cutbank, Mont., 1.42 inches. Heavy showers fell in western Canada. None was reported in Illinois.

MARIE DRESSLER IS NEAR DEATH AT HOME OF FRIENDS

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 27.—(AP)—The condition of Marie Dressler, veteran actress of the stage and screen, at the home of friends here, took a turn for the worse this afternoon. It was announced there is little hope for her recovery. She is suffering from a heart and kidney ailment and has been in ill health for more than two years. Several months ago she was compelled to abandon her studio work.

FIGHT TRACTION STRIKE MOBS IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., June 27.—[Special.]—Milwaukee policemen battled tonight with tear bombs and clubs to disperse a crowd of 5,000 which had assembled to storm the Kinnickinnic station of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company, whose American Federation of Labor employés are on strike.

Eight policemen were injured and many of the strikers carried from the battlefield the marks of the night sticks of the forces of law and order.

There were other riots in the vicinity of car barns owned by the company and the situation became so serious early in the evening that officials announced a shutdown of all street car and bus service from 8:30 p. m. until daylight. With these methods of transportation deleted, every available automobile in the city was pressed into service and there were serious trafic tieups in sections otherwise unaffected by the strike.

1,000 Police on Duty.

Every one of Milwaukee's 1,000 policemen is held constantly on call for duty, with additional trouble feared tomorrow. A large reserve is being held in the police gymnasium ready to be sent to any point where the disorder gets out of bounds, and Sherif John Shinners at 9 p. m. ordered all his deputies called in from patrol duty on the country roads.

His entire force was placed at the disposal of Chief of Police Jacob Laubenheimer.

At the end of the struggle about the Kinnickinnic station the police had driven the rioters back at least one block on Kinnickinnick avenue, Mitchell, and First streets. The crowd retreated sullenly. At one time a group of strike sympathizers caught tear bombs thrown at them and tossed them back into the police ranks.

Ask People to Go Home.

Late tonight there was a report that a mob of 8,000 had congregated in the vicinity of the car barns at South 84th and Lapham streets, in West Allis, a residential suburb of 35,000 population. The small police force there was unable to cope with the rioters and contented themselves with urging the people to go home.

The advice was not heeded. Seizing six cars as they approached the barns, the crowd smashed all the windows, tore off the doors, and broke the trolleys. Mrs. Violet Wheeler, a passenger, was struck on the head with a brick and knocked unconscious. She was taken to the county general hospital.

At the barns at West 35th street and Fond du Lac avenue strikers and their helpers staged another riot. After storming the waiting station adjoining and smashing all the windows, they attempted to climb over the concrete walls surrounding the barns. Company guards turned streams of water from large hoses upon the leaders and they were forced to retreat.

Smaller groups of the rioters seized street cars as they were being taken to shelter after the order to discontinue service was issued. All through the city pickets danced and jeered at the police, waving ropes they had cut from the trolleys. One motorman, nearing the Kinnickinnic barns, fled with his cash box and left the car to the vandals. Passengers also fled hurriedly.

It was confidently asserted by the authorities that only a small proportion of the great throngs around the different barns actually were strike sympathizers. Most of the persons present, it was said, had come only out of curiosity. It was this fact, probably, that enabled comparatively small detachments to force them back beyond the established deadlines.

Find Communistic Element.

However, it was equally plain that communistic elements were taking advantage of the opportunity to foment violence. It was realization of this fact that caused the police heads to order their men to use clubs tonight. Hitherto there had been no direct resort to such weapons.

More than thirty arrests were made.

There was considerable activity among the sherif's forces late tonight when it was announced that a mob was pushing on the vicinity of the great Lakeside power plant, on the lake shore south of the city. A heavy guard was hurried there at once, with Sherif Shinners in direct command. This plant is the key to all local sources of light and power, and its shutting down might result in severe disruption of supplies.

8 Tons Blow Up; 2 Women Are Victims

Olympia, Wash., June 27.—(AP)—Eleven persons were killed and five others were injured today as two explosions, one of them setting off eight tons of newly mixed dynamite, wrecked the plant of the Denn Powder company on Hawks prairie, eight miles northwest of here.

All the dead—including two women—were employés of the plant except a 12 year old boy, Oliver Wilson, stepson of Henry Denn Jr., a truck driver.

The other dead were:

Charles Carpenter, 55, Hazel Eppley, 31, H. J. Denn, 67, Alvin Smith, 23, Andrew Hayden, J. O. Adams, John Clausen, 24, Clarence Ulery, Pearl Ulery, his wife, and Ed Parker.

Two Seriously Injured.

William Barto, chemist, and Glen Moyer, plant superintendent, were injured critically. Roscoe Deed, Scott Yarbor, and George Denn suffered burns and cuts.

The plant manufactured explosives for clearing stumps and other agricultural purposes.

The blasts occurred in the plant's mixing room, the first setting off the dynamite, mixed and ready for packing into sticks.

The explosions leveled the plant, spread wreckage over a wide area and started several brush fires.

Witnesses said the second explosion sent clouds of smoke and debris several hundred feet into the sky.

Heard All Over Tacoma.

The blast was heard in all parts of Tacoma. Telephone exchanges and newspaper switchboards were flooded with calls.

Hawks Prairie is about 22 miles southwest of Tacoma. In the same direction, about half as far, is the huge powder plan of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

Some of the bodies were found as far as 75 feet from the scene of the blasts.

The company's main storage magazine, containing several tons of powder and located about 200 yards from the plant, escaped destruction.

Parts of the plant that were not blown to bits by the main blast were razed by fire later.

Fight Brush Fires.

To prevent the spread of brush fires started by the explosions squads of Olympia police and firemen and state patrolmen were hurried to the scene. All the available ambulances in Olympia were rushed to the plant.

The state patrolmen, after working with Olympia police and firemen in removing bodies from the wreckage and gathering up others who had been hurled clear, remained to combat brush fires.

The plant, owned by J. A. Denn, was a comparatively small one, employing 15 on a shift. The loss was estimated by authorities at $75,000.

The explosions were preceded by a fire that ignited the clothing of Roscoe Deeds, mixing room employé. He leaped into a safety tank, and while fellow workers turned into a fire fighting unit he was rushed to the hospital by Henry Denn.

Denn had barely reached the road from the plant when the major explosion occurred, he said.

Helps Load Him in Car.

Hazel Eppley, one of those killed, assisted in loading Deeds into an emergency car, and had just returned to the plant to assist in fighting the fire when the explosion occurred.

The origin of the fire was not immediately determined.

Oliver Wilson, the boy victim of the tragedy, was ordered to a point of safety by his stepfather but returned to the fire in time to be caught by the explosion.

The death toll was believed by authorities to have been made larger by the confidence of workers in the nonexplosiveness of the powder through fire. A recent blaze destroyed the company's plant without exploding the dynamite and powder.

VOTE TO INDICT 19 AS MEMBERS OF ARSON GANG

Six True Bills Hit $1,000,000 Ring.

The grand jury was reported last night to have voted six true bills against 18 men and a woman, alleged members of a wholesale arson ring which has collected a percentage on more than $1,000,000 of fire insurance. Five of the bills charge groups of the defendants with arson. The other bill charges attempted arson and conspiracy.

Sixteen of the defendants are in custody after their arrests by Lieut. John L. Sullivan and Sergt. Thomas Kelly, who were assigned to the case by State's Attorney Courtney. One of the defendants is reported to be in Leavenworth prison and another one is in Greece. The 19th defendant is being sought.

Seven Accused of Conspiracy.

Seven of the alleged members of the arson ring are reported named in the true bill charging attempted arson and conspiracy.

They are: Abe Blank, 1850 Humboldt boulevard, an insurance adjuster; Rudolph Pisani, 2316 Washington boulevard, kidnaper, torturer and incendiary; his mother, Mrs. Elsie Pisani; Joseph De Cicco, 3800 West North avenue, a contact man for the ring; Jack Brown, 4137 Drexel boulevard, alleged to be a professional incendiary; Valentine Notari, 1538 West 68th street, said to be the gang's leader, and Nick Basuris, owner of the Metropolitan Press, 3811 West North avenue.

It was at Basuris' plant that Lieut. Sullivan put out a fire last Friday and that Rudolph Pisani, his mother, Notari and Jack Brown were captured.

Other Defendants Named.

Named in one of the arson true bills are Notari, Harry Siegel, 3310 Douglas boulevard, an insurance adjuster; Milton Goldberg, 5009 Sheridan road, an insurance adjuster; Harry Brown, 1125 Loyola avenue, an adjuster for 30 years; and Louis C. Oliver, owner of the Oliver Printing company, 1834 West 69th street.

Pisani and Notari have confessed to setting fire to Oliver's plant. Oliver is in Leavenworth, according to state's attorney's investigators.

Another true bill, charging arson, involves the burning of a building at 3821 Wentworth avenue, on which Steven Girlich, 258 West 33d street, owned a mortgage. Those named in the bill are Girlich, Andrew Ratkowich, 3258 South Wells street, involved with Girlich; Notari, Pisani, and one Delfino, a contact man, who has not been apprehended.

Owner of Concern Hit.

Another fire confessed by some of the prisoners was in a restaurant equipment concern at 167-173 West Lake street on Dec. 6, 1931. Those named in the true bill based on this fire are Notari, Goldberg, Siegel, Romalo Pisani, father of Rudolph Pisani, and Deterios E. Alex, one of the owners of the concern, who is now in Greece.

The true bill reported voted for a fire in a restaurant at 1105 Granville avenue, which was burned last January, names Vaselios Alexopoulos, owner of the restaurant; Notari, Jack Brown, and Rudolph Pisani.

Two other men said to be implicated in the restaurant fire may be included in the indictments when they are returned. Their names were not included in the true bills voted yesterday, however, because they have not been arrested and their exact connections have not been established. So far they have only been identified as John Doe and Richard Roe.

The Sixth True Bill.

The sixth bill reported voted is based on a fire in a grocery and meat market formerly owned by Sam Esposito, who lives at 1638 West 69th street. In addition to Esposito, those reported named are Tony Ambrosino, 6832 South Marshfield avenue, brother-in-law of Esposito; Notari, Rudolph Pisani and Harry and Jack Brown.

The bond for each defendant in the bill reported based on the burning of Alex's premises, in which $69,000 insurance was collected, was set at $20,000.

Bonds for each of the defendants in the other five true bills were set at $10,000.

Notari signed an immunity waiver and was one of the witnesses called before the grand jury. He is named in all of the true bills and is reported to have implicated all the other defendants.

The evidence was presented to the grand jury by Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash. He said that he had discovered new information concerning other recent fires which another arson ring is believed to have plotted. There are several women members of this ring, Mr. Nash said.

and his investigators are now on their trail.

As Mr. Nash, investigators and witnesses were entering the grand jury room to present their arson evidence the Criminal Court building was thrown into a turmoil by an announcement that Paul C. Lang Jr., 14 years old, of 933 Ashland avenue, Wilmette, had been kidnaped from in front of his home.

The boy is a son of Paul C. Lang, assistant manager of the Cook County Loss Adjustment bureau, at 175 West Jackson boulevard, a clearing house for insurance companies. The bureau, it was revealed, has been aiding the state's attorney's office in investigating arson plots. It was feared the boy had been seized as a reprisal.

Young Lang was returned to his home an hour later, however, by three men who said the boy had gone with them voluntarily to show them where he and several companions had hidden $200 worth of fireworks stolen from a warehouse in No Man's Land, between Wilmette and Kenilworth. The men, who said they owned the warehouse and operated five fireworks stores on the north shore, were released after being questioned by the Wilmette police. They identified themselves as Alfred Friedman and his brother, Louis, both of 1312 North Campbell avenue, and Al Stein, 856 North Hoyne avenue.

Threat Letters Disclosed.

When it was feared that the Lang boy had been kidnaped by men in sympathy with members of the alleged arson ring, Clark Munn, manager of the Cook County Loss Adjustment bureau, disclosed that he has been receiving threatening letters within the last few days. These letters warned him to desist from aiding the state with the bureau's records.

Another letter was received from a "torch"—the police name for an incendiary—who gave him information on suspicious aspects of other fires, Mr. Munn said. This letter was given to Frank E. Doherty Jr., first deputy state fire marshal, for investigation. Munn and his family live at 874 Grove street, Glencoe.

CONVICT REEVES OF SKYSCRAPER BURGLARY AGAIN

A jury in the court of Chief Justice Finnegan of the Criminal court last night found Melville Reeves, 45 years old, who is said to have developed a technique of looting skyscraper offices many years ago, guilty of burglary. A motion for a new trial was made and will be argued Saturday. The conviction carries a penalty of one year to life in prison.

Reeves was charged with breaking into the offices of H. W. Kastor, 360 North Michigan avenue, and stealing $53 worth of stamps on May 30, 1932. Tried in the court of Judge Rudolph Desort, he was found guilty on Nov. 29 of the same year. He was granted, however, a new trial.

His second trial was set for last November, but he demanded delay on the ground that he was too ill. When investigators reported he could go to court Judge Desort ordered him brought in, but he fled. His $10,000 bonds were ordered forfeited. He remained at liberty until June 13, when he surrendered in the court of Judge Walter Steffen.

Two Killed, 2 Seriously Hurt in Gasoline Blast

Columbia, Mo., June 27.—(AP)—M. M. Morton, 36, bulk manager here for the Skelly Oil company, was killed; Leland Neely, 4, was burned fatally, and two other persons were burned so severely they may die when a gasoline tank car exploded here tonight. Lee Baine, 57, and Margaret Crane, 9, were burned dangerously by the flaming gasoline which sprayed out.

LIGHTS FIRECRACKER, LOSES EYE.

Quincy, Ill., June 27.—[Special.]—The 11 year old son of City Fireman Harry Mangold lost an eye last night when he put a firecracker in a bottle and it exploded. Mayor Leo Lenane in a proclamation has forbidden merchants to sell any kind of fireworks until the morning of July Fourth.

FACTOR FREED TO HELP FIGHT KIDNAPING GANG

Judge Halts British Move to Voice Objections.

John Factor, wealthy speculator, yesterday won at least a temporary victory in his three years' fight to escape extradition to England for trial on charges of defrauding British investors of $7,000,000. He was released from the Sycamore jail on order of Judge Evan A. Evans of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Factor left the jail closely guarded by deputy sherifs assigned to forestall any attempt at revenge by members of the Touhy gang, four members of which he helped send to prison for ninety-nine years for kidnaping him. Taken by automobile to Waterman, twenty miles south of Sycamore, Factor boarded an airplane and returned to Chicago.

The speculator refused to disclose how long he would remain in Chicago, but said that he planned to take a month's vacation with his family.

Fears Touhy Gangsters.

Factor was questioned concerning the report that Tommy Touhy, tuberculous brother of Roger Touhy, convicted gang leader, is in Chicago prepared to exact revenge for the sentence of the gang members.

"Of course I still have a feeling of danger as long as Roger Touhy's pals are free," he said. "They probably will be gunning for me until they are brought to justice. I'll stay on the job until they are rounded up."

Judge Evans, in signing the release order, held that the British government had forfeited the right of extradition by failing to obtain a removal order during Factor's sixty day stay in the Sycamore jail as the American-British extradition treaty requires.

U. S. Explains Situation.

Before the order was signed United States Attorney Dwight H. Green read a letter from Washington setting forth the position of the state department. The letter said that the warant had been delayed at the request of State's Attorney Courtney that Factor remain in the United States on the possibility that his testimony would be needed in the Touhy case.

Touhy, Al Kator, Gus Schaefer, and Basil Banghart, who have been sentenced in the kidnaping case, have appeals pending.

Attorney Franklin R. Overmyer, representative of the British crown, who was accompanied into court by British Consul Lewis Bernays, opposed the release. He was told by Judge Evans that the British government had no legal part in the action as the state department was the defendant.

Judge Rebukes Crown.

Attorney Overmyer was allowed to file an intervening petition for the purpose of the record in case England reopens the case. His motion that the petition be dismissed because the court had no jurisdiction was overruled by Judge Evans.

The continued attempts of Attorney Overmyer to take part in the hearing drew a rebuke from Judge Evans.

"I think the British government is presumptuous to ask the court to overrule the decision of the United States government and ignore the wishes of that government," the judge said.

"I think I have been tolerant in this matter. I am not taking away your rights. The secretary of state always will observe the rights of the British government, but the secretary of state in this case does not want the party returned at this time."

DILLINGER'S PAL IS SEIZED IN BED BY FEDERAL MEN

Minneapolis, Minn., June 27.—[Special.]—Department of justice agents today unlocked the door of an apartment in Minneapolis.

They walked in and arrested Albert, better known as Pat, Reilly, a Dillinger gangster, while he was in bed.

Expecting a fight, the agents were armed and backed up by several squads of police. Reilly did not stir until awakened by his captors. He was unarmed.

Held at Secret Place.

Reilly, a former mascot of the St. Paul American association baseball club, was held incommunicado by federal agents at some undisclosed place. He was not put in any jail. Agents refused to divulge the source or nature of the tip leading to Reilly's capture.

Reilly's status with the Dillinger gang is believed to have been that of an "advance agent" for hangouts and also somewhat of a "contact man" in the Twin Cities underworld.

For hours after the raid federal agents remained in the apartment hoping that some other member of the gang would show up, but none did.

Called Dillinger's Guide.

Reilly, indicted by the federal grand jury last spring, is charged with having escorted Dillinger and John Hamilton to the home of Dr. N. G. Mortensen, the St. Paul city health officer. There gunshot wounds suffered by the outlaws in raiding one of the several banks they looted were examined.

The department of justice also credited Reilly with having made arrangements for the Dillinger gang to hide at Mercer, Wis. There they shot their way out of a federal trap, killing one federal agent and wounding another. Two other persons were wounded in the gun fight.

CLEARS TEACHER WHO SPANKED PUPIL FOR NOTE

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 27.—(AP)—"Alfalfa Bill" Murray today pardoned a rural school teacher who had been fined $25 for whipping a student. He declared the pedagogue "should have receieved the thanks of the school community" for administering the chastisement.

The student, Bennie Joe Petters, was accused by the teacher of an indecent note.

In remitting the fine and costs against Floyd E. Sasser, teacher of the school at Canadian, Okla., Gov. Murray said:

"In the performance of his function as school teacher, to train the pupil and to correct bad habits, the teacher was obliged to punish with a switch. It is the only method by which to teach an incorrigible or semi-incorrigible being."

The governor has taken similar action in other school spanking cases. Federal Judge Robert L. Williams of Muskogee frequently has expressed the opinion that a little paddling might not go amiss and County Judge Jere G. Crowley of Enid actually has spanked a few wayward lads.

JAPANESE MOB 2 BRITISH POLICE IN SHANGHAI RIOT

Beating of Woman Results in International Row.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 28.—[Thursday.]—Two British police sergeants, J. W. Bellamay and D. M. Ferguson, connected with the police department of the international settlement, were assaulted by a mob of Japanese including Japanese marines tonight.

The incident occurred in the Hongkew section of the settlement, scene of the crisis which resulted in the Japanese invasion of Shanghai early in 1932.

The Britons attempted to arrest two Japanese marines beating a Chinese woman. The Japanese claimed she had made a remark insulting the imperial navy. A mob of 300 Japanese gathered and attacked the police with bricks, bottles, and clubs. The disturbance attracted a crowd of more than 1,000 Chinese, who sided with the Britons.

Charge Britons Drew Guns.

Finally someone telephoned a police station and brought Maj. F. W. Gerard, retired British army officer, now commissioner of Shanghai police, to the scene.

The Japanese charged that the British sergeants drew guns, which was denied. Maj. Gerard was still closeted with Japanese marine and naval officers at 4 oclock this morning, while between 200 and 300 Japanese surrounded the Japanese naval office, where the conference was taking place. The Japanese insisted that the police of Shanghai had no authority to arrest Japanese sailors.

The British police, who normally guard the Hongkew section, resent the Japanese action in establishing independent naval patrols throughout the area, thus interfering with the regular settlement police.

Hold Night Maneuvers.

The situation in Hongkew section has recently become critical, due to the Japanese navy's so-called "night maneuvers." These go through the motions of occupying the area, establishing machine gun barricades and patrolling the streets with tanks, armored cars and artillery. The Japanese claim the maneuvers are only normal military practice, but they have caused apprehension among the local populace.

The Japanese have some 2,000 sailors and marines housed in permanent barracks which were recently completed. They are located in the Chinese territory adjacent to the Hongkew section.

MAC DONALD BIDS KING FAREWELL; LEAVES FOR 3 MONTH HOLIDAY

LONDON, June 27.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald said farewell to King George today and started on a health-seeking holiday, the result of which may determine the future course of the British government.

If MacDonald is unable to resume leadership of the National government after his three month's rest, a general election is regarded as likely. An election probably would mean a realignment of the parties and a change in the government.

The prime minister turned over to Stanley Baldwin, former conservative prime minister and now lord president of the council, the duties of his office. Although there was no official announcement of the prime minister's itinerary, the Herald said he has "practically decided" to spend most of the time in Canada, indugling in a walking trip through the Rockies.

RIOT BREAKS UP CONVICTS' GAME; FIVE SLASHED

A game between two baseball teams from rival cell blocks at the Stateville prison was called on account of a riot yesterday. Five injured prisoners were sent to the jail hospital and one was lodged in solitary confinement.

The rioting started when Ignatius Strazdas, serving 25 years for murder from Cook county, stabbed Sol Mazzia, who was in for robbery, during a quarrel at the game. Other prisoners joined the battle, and when guards restored peace five prisoners were found to be suffering from knife wounds and bruises.

Harry Miller, up for larceny from Cook county, was at bat the time the rioting started. He was locked up when two of the wounded charged he had struck them with his bat.

Although most of the contestants were under the impression that the battle was over the ball game, Strazdas later accused Mazzia of having taken $20 from him for a prison job which he never got. Officials began an investigation of this story.

BROKER-SAILOR SUED BY MOTHER OF EX-N. U. CO-ED

Girl Missing 3 Months; Asks $100,000.

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—Suit for $100,000, charging seduction, has been brought against F. Walter Rowe Jr., broker and yachtsman, by Mrs. Nettie P. Seeley, on behalf of her 18 year old daughter, Betty Clark Seeley, former Northwestern university co-ed.

Mrs. Seeley says her daughter has been missing since Easter. She reported to the police, but they have failed to locate her. Miss Seeley had been modeling at times and acting as hostess in a hotel.

Rowe is now piloting William S. Gould's schooner, Skylark, in the New London to Bermuda race. Before he departed police questioned him concerning Miss Seeley's whereabouts, but he disclaimed any knowledge of her beyond an acquaintance.

Warant Is Denied.

The mother's suit for $100,000 was filed three weeks ago, but did not come to light until today. It was also disclosed that she had appealed to Magistrate Overton Harris for a warant for Rowe's arrest on the seduction charge, but that she failed to get the warant.

Rowe is a customer's man for the stock exchange house of Billings & Olcott.

He was sued for divorce at White Plains last month by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Sedar Rowe, fashion editor of the Delineator. An interlocutory decree was issued after hearing testimony from two of Rowe's friends that they dropped into his room in the Hotel Shelton one night in April and found him with a young woman clad only in a slip.

The identity of this young woman was not disclosed at the trial. Mrs. Rowe, reached at her home today, said that she never did learn the identity of the girl.

In her complaint Mrs. Seeley charges that Rowe seduced her daughter at the Hotel Shelton. She charges also that Betty is an expectant mother.

Rowe Issues Denial.

Rowe made a general denial of the allegations in an answer by himself as his attorney.

Betty, according to her mother, is an accomplished pianist and French student. She won honors at Northwestern university during her two years there. Because of economic conditions the mother and daughter came to New York about a year ago, where Mrs. Seeley's plans to open a private school for children were upset, she says, by her daughter's affair with Rowe.

Her daughter went out nightly with Rowe, and when she and Betty quarreled over this the girl left home, the mother said.

The yachtsman went to Bermuda in January to race his boat, Liza, in the international dinghy races. While he was away Betty returned home, says Mrs. Seeley, but shortly after his arrival in New York in February left her again.

"When I went to him and pleaded with him to let my daughter alone, Rowe told me in her presence," said Mrs. Seeley, "that I was too narrow minded. He said that my daughter had the right to live her own life."

BOTH N. U. STUDENTS.

The Seeleys, mother and daughter, were well known in Evanston in 1930 when they were enrolled as students in Northwestern university.

Betty Clark Seeley, the daughter, was only 14 when she was admitted to the university's school of speech. She was graduated from Woodrow Wilson High school in Long Beach, Cal., and her mother had come with her to Evanston.

"We had always planned to go to Northwestern together," Mrs. Seeley, who was 38 years old, explained to the registrar, "and I have just been marking time until Betty finished her high school courses. I plan to go back to teaching after Betty graduates. She'll go on the stage."

LIGHTNING FIRES BUILDINGS DURING BALTIMORE GALE

Baltimore, Md., June 27.—[Special.]—Wind and a thunderstorm swept over this city today, injured several persons and caused considerable property damage. A lightning bolt struck a large paper storage house and set fire to the building. Employés fled to the street. Fires started in several other buildings after they had been struck by lightning.

The roofs of six houses near the corner of Harlem and Raynor streets were blown off by the wind. Trees and shrubbery were uprooted.

An unidentified Negro was found on the street unconscious. It is believed he was struck by a lightning bolt. A Chinese woman was injured when lightning hit a building in which she worked.

2 WOMEN HELD IN ATTEMPT TO PASS FAKE BILL

Mrs. Rose Notara, 37 years old, 1950 Hudson avenue, and Mrs. Elaine Streit, 25 years old, 2122 Lincoln avenue, were arrested yesterday in the Notara home as suspected members of a ring passing counterfeit money. The arrests were made by Policeman Ambrose Mahoney after Mrs. Notara's 12 year old daughter, Catherine, attempted to spend a fraudulent $10 bill in a grocery at 1858 Cleveland avenue. Morris Panzak, the grocer, notified the police and the child led Mahoney to her home. Five additional $10 bills of the counterfeit series were found in the house. Both women declared they did not know the bills were illegally printed.

RAY OF STOLEN LIGHT PUTS 11 HOBOS IN JAIL

A ray of stolen light yesterday placed eleven casuals in cells of the Chicago avenue police station.

The ray attracted the attention of Patrolman James Cahill as he was inspecting the lower level of Michigan avenue at Grand avenue. He discovered eleven hobos reading newspapers by the light of an electric bulb in an impromptu shelter made from crates and boxes. One beam of light was escaping from a chink in the structure.

Policeman Cahill found that the men had tapped a city electric wire to get current for their light.

PARENTS TESTIFY IN STENO'S SUIT AGAINST PREMIER

Assert Her Health Failed After Living in Edmonton

EDMONTON, Alta., June 27.—(AP)—Parents of Vivian MacMillan testified today in her seduction suit against Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta that the girl's health gradually failed during her residence in Edmonton, where she worked as a government stenographer.

The 67 year old gray haired mother, Mrs. Maud MacMillan, said that her daughter weighed 155 pounds when she came here in 1930, at the invitation, she claims, of Brownlee, and now weighs only 122.

"It is terrible," Mrs. MacMillan said of the girl's health, and the father, Allan MacMillan, co-plaintif in the suit, testified that "she is just a wreck."

Surprise Witness Appears.

Each time his daughter returned home for a visit, he said, he noticed that her health was failing.

A surprise witness was Jessie Elgert, formerly employed as a maid in the Brownlee home. She told of seeing Miss MacMillan enter the Brownlee car one evening in October, 1930.

"How did you recognize the car?" asked Neil MacLean, counsel for the girl.

"I was in it myself that night."

"Ever with Mr. Brownlee before? Where had you gone?"

Justice W. C. Ives, presiding, stopped the questioning along this line, and also would not allow her to tell whether Brownlee had ever asked her to come back to his employment after she left.

Tells of Brownlee Visit.

Mrs. MacMillan testified that in July, 1933, after Brownlee had been advised of the suit, he visited the MacMillan home in Edmonton with his wife while she was there alone.

"He wanted to find out the charges Vivian had made against him, he told me," she said. "I told him I had nothing to say. I couldn't talk because it was in the lawyer's hands.

"'If it's money you're after, I haven't got any,' he said to me. He said he couldn't see any reason for the charges, and asked me if I realized Vivian's name would be ruined. I replied, did he realize his own name would be ruined."

"What was Mr. Brownlee's manner?" asked MacLean.

"He looked a sorry man to me."

Girl's Father on Stand.

A. L. Smith, defense counsel, brought out on cross-examination that Mrs. MacMillan had told her daughter the Brownlees "crept out like a couple of criminals."

The father said that he started the action against Brownlee after his daughter revealed to him her relations with the premier last July. He said that neither Vivian nor John Caldwell, a medical student, had anything to do with starting the suit.

Miss MacMillan claims that Caldwell withdrew a proposal of marriage after she told him of her relations with Brownlee. The premier is suing the girl and Caldwell for $10,000 on a charge of conspiracy against him.

The plaintif's testimony was concluded this afternoon after two and a half days, during two of which Miss MacMillan was on the stand.

Russian Prince Ordered to Pay Costs in Tilly Losch Case

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 27.—Sir Boyd Merriman, president of the divorce court in which Edward Frank Willis James was yesterday granted a decree nisi against Tilly Losch, famous Viennese dancer, today ordered Prince Serge Obolensky to pay the general costs of the action. The Russian prince, named as co-respondent by James, was deemed guilty of misbehavior with Miss Losch by the jury.

The jury, in granting the decree nisi—becoming final in six months—held that Miss Losch had failed to establish her counter charge of cruelty against the wealthy James, who is a brother of Mrs. Marshall Field. Sir Boyd today ordered the dancer to pay the costs of her counteraction.

"These charges," declared Sir Boyd, "were pressed ruthlessly and abandoned when they seemed hopeless, and in a way that by no means was calculated to remove the sting of the charges. Were I to say all I think about it I would have some difficulty in restraining my language."

The judge spoke of Miss Losch as a $50,000 a year woman in pointing out that she was as rich as her husband. Counsel for Prince Serge, seeking to ward off the financial blow to their client, protested ineffectually that the prince is a "poor man who has to work for his living."

The total costs of the suit and countersuit were estimated at $50,000. The general costs, to be paid by the prince, are limited to those involved in James' suit based on adultery charges.

James was present in court today but Obolensky and Miss Losch did not appear.

HUBBY SHOULD RULE THE HOME, PROFESSOR (MALE) TELLS WOMEN

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—Paul Popenoe, director of the Institute of Family Relations, told nearly 1,000 women delegates at a general session of the American Home Economics convention today that happiness in marriage was largely a matter of masculine domination. The husband should head the home, Prof. Popenoe said.

"Marital coöperation fails when it comes to the attitude adopted toward relatives," he asserted. "The husband expects the wife to be nice to his family, but does not offer the same affection to her family. It is the old mother-in-law situation, and most important in married life."

"The figures show that coöperation is rare, even in highly educated families," he added. "There should be a special branch of education for marriage. The educated wife cannot seem to make up her mind what she wants to be.

"One day she decides she will be the 100 per cent good wife, next day she wants to be the 'new woman, who will submit to nothing.' Her husband is always several laps behind, trying to catch up to what her attitude is."

Adjourn Fay Webb Vallee's Suit in Separation Pact

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—The trial of the suit by Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee against Rudy Vallee to set aside a separation agreement under which she receives $100 a week was adjourned today before Supreme Court Justice Cotillo, until Nov. 19. The adjournament which was sought by Mrs. Vallee, who is at her home in Santa Monica, Cal., was consented to by her husband on a stipulation that she will take no proceedings in her divorce action in California until after the suit here is determined.

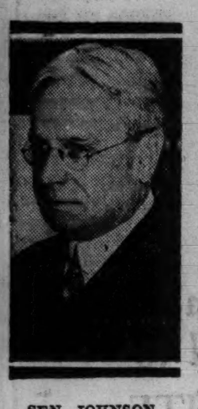
RADICALS VS. CONSERVATIVES IS PARTY TREND

Smith and Glass Seen in Liberal G. O. P.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—America's great political parties today seem fated swiftly to change their standards to make way for the new struggle of conservatism versus radicalism.



SEN. JOHNSON

Even party names, long revered, may disappear in the drastic shuffles brought by the Roosevelt revolution, for as the political game has burst out in full crescendo during the last few days the New Dealers have given every indication that they will embrace the radical Republicans fondly into the fold.

The political maestro of the New Deal, Big Jim Farley, has openly avowed his friendliness toward the senatorial candidacies of Hiram Johnson of California, Bronson Cutting of New Mexico, and Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, all old label Republicans who have swung under the Roosevelt banner. Another senator, George Norris of Nebraska, already has commenced his crusade through the country on behalf not only of radical Republicans like himself but of all those he is pleased to call progressive advocates of the New Deal.

Snell Blasts New Deal.

To all these manifestations of a new political union of radicalism a Republican leader today replied with a terrific blast of condemnation against the New Deal and an acceptance of the challenge to make the fight one outside the lines of the old parties.

Bertrand Snell of New York, Republican leader of the house of representatives, in a long discussion of the issues of the 1934 congressional campaigns, to be published in the Congressional Record tomorrow, inveighed against the New Deal throughout, and not at all against the Democratic party.

Mr. Snell's statement, in which he held that the normal recovery of America from depression is being hindered and delayed rather than aided, was taken in many quarters as an invitation to the conservative members of the Democratic party to come in out of the seas of radicalism into the economic safety of Republicanism.

See Glass and Smith Recruits.

Some of the greatest of the old time Democratic leaders, such as Carter Glass, Alfred E. Smith, and Albert C. Ritchie, are said to belong, by all their past and present utterances, in the new Republican party which has adopted some forward looking advances along liberal lines, rather than in the radical New Deal party. Similarly, the Democratic voters in such states as Wisconsin, California, Nebraska, New Mexico, and similar places where the New Deal is embracing radical Republicans are to be welcomed into the Republican fold.

Congressman Snell also invited into his party the youth of America, whose future, he declared, is being imperiled by the New Deal.

The burocrats in Washington, declared Mr. Snell, will fix the point of advancement in business, industry, and agriculture, and will permit none to rise beyond the points they fix.

"No one," he went on, "would be permitted to step ahead of his associates. Ability would count for nothing. Initiative would be ruled out. Individualism would be a penal offense, under the regimentation visioned, and partly realized, by the New Deal.

"All would be reduced to a mere cog in the machinery of a Russianized form of government. They would be working for the state, not for themselves. They would be reduced to the dead level of that mediocrity which prevails in every country which denies to the individual the right to exercise his talents to the utmost, to risk, to venture, to pioneer, and, if successful, to reap the profits of his initiative."

Asking that all other issues—the old time issues of the opposing parties—be swept aside, Mr. Snell asked that all loyal Americans "stand and fight until it is demonstrated that the country shall remain a nation with a constitutional form of government that protects the liberties of the most humble citizen and guarantees to him the right to win his place in the world."

Draining, Not Priming.

Ridiculing the Roosevelt assertion that billions being spent by the government are "priming the pump," Mr. Snell said they were "draining the pool of public credit."

The Republican leader took from the national Democratic platform, which he said Mr. Roosevelt had accepted "100 per cent," the clause promising "to remove government from all fields of private enterprise," and he then enumerated the many special corporations set up under the New Deal, along with new administrations and bureaus which have invaded, he said, every field of private business.

There is a desperate need, Mr. Snell declared, for a new congress to be elected which will be independent, and he said that the departing congress, instead of being a coördinate branch of the government, "has become merely a rubber stamp for the executive."

Tried to Make Dictatorship.

"It went as far as it could," he continued, "to set up a dictatorship, excusing itself on the ground that an emergency existed, and hiding behind the plea that, after all, the dictatorial powers it had vested in the President would not, in his wisdom and benevolence, be used.

"It was content, even eager, upon receiving orders from the executive and of the government, to abase itself until it has become a body with less power than some of the bureaus and burocrats which have been set up by reason of its abdication."

"It is especially significant," he declared, "that while the United States began to lose ground in almost every field of endeavor in July and August of 1933 and continued to lose ground throughout the remainder of the year and, in so far as official figures have been completed, up to and through the month of April this year, other countries have enjoyed a much happier experience.

"In common with the United States, the leading commercial and industrial countries of the world showed a marked improvement during the first of 1933. Unlike the United States, that improvement continued throughout 1933 and has continued with some unimportant variations through the first part of 1934."

Three Way Race

Fargo, N. D., June 27.—(AP)—A fast mounting lead for Gov. William Langer in tonight's unofficial tabulations of North Dakota's primary election vote strengthened indications that the chief executive, recently convicted in the federal courts, had won the Republican renomination over two opponents.

Returns from precincts scattered over 21 of the state's 53 counties showed a decided trend in Langer's favor.

Second was State Senator James P. Cain, independent Republican. T. H. Thoresen, candidate on the anti-Langer ticket of the split Nonpartisan league, was running third.

Returns from 137 precincts of 2,242 in the state were: Langer, 7,434; Thoresen, 5,582, and Cain, 5,312.

United States Senator Lynn J. Frazier, candidate for the Republican renomination in a three sided race, took a commanding lead in early returns. C. S. Buck, independent Republican, was second, and Nelson Mason, former secretary to Frazier, was running a poor third.

U. S. WILL ADD 50,000 TO CCC IN 22 STATES STRUCK BY DROUTH

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—As a further measure of federal drouth relief, the government today prepared to enlist 50,000 young men from those stricken areas of the country, 22 states, in the Civil Conservation corps.

Such plans were announced today by Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work. An initial allotment of 12½ million dollars from the 500 million dollar drouth relief fund, appropriated by congress, will be utilized in recruiting and maintaining the added CCC workers in the drouth areas, it was said. Additional allotments are to be made as required.

Of the 50,000 enrollments, 45,000 will be between 18 and 25 and 5,000 are to be war veterans. The new 50,000, added to the existing roster of 316,000 workers, will bring the conservation army to a total of 366,000 men—the highest total since the CCC began.

New camps will be located only within the 22 drouth states. Illinois will get a large share.

DENIES MAKING OFFER TO SPLIT ARMY AUTO SALE

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—Norman K. Haig, General Motors official, termed "absolutely false" today charges made to a house committee that he suggested a "get-together" of General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler bidders for a "three-way split" of army motor contracts. The charges were made yesterday before a house military affairs subcommittee by R. P. Sabine, local Ford agent, who added he had turned thumbs down.

Haig, managing director of fleet sales for General Motors and now in Detroit, issued his denial through Joseph Woodside, Washington manager of fleet sales for General Motors, and former Assistant Control General McCarl.

"The meeting to which Mr. Sabine apparently had reference took place at Camp Holabird, Md., Jan. 22 last. Mr. Haig and I were present and so was Mr. Sabine. The bidders were meeting in the office of the Holabird army officers and obviously no such proposition could have been made in such a public place as that."

SON, 3, VISITS CONVICT MOTHER; SHE DIES TODAY

Ossining, N. Y., June 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anna Antonio, 28, awaiting death in the Sing Sing electric chair tomorrow night for hiring Vincent Saetta and Samuel Feraci to murder her husband in Albany in 1933, was visited today by her son, Frank, 3; her brother, Peter Coppello of Schenectady, and his wife. She expects to see her daughters, Phyllis, 9, and Marie, 6, for the last time tomorrow.

Saetta and Feraci also are scheduled to die tomorrow. Counsel for Saetta announced Gov. Lehman had been asked to stay execution so Saetta might be examined by alienists. The governor also has been asked to commute Mrs. Antonio's sentence to life imprisonment, but has not indicated what his decision will be. The last woman put to death by the state was Ruth Snyder in 1928.

SAYS NEW DEAL CONGRESS SPENT THIRTY BILLIONS

Rep. Chester Bolton Hits at Burocracy.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—The New Deal congress which closed its session a few days ago was a 30 billion dollar spending body.

Figures made public today by Representative Chester C. Bolton of Ohio, Republican member of the house appropriations committee, showed that during its two sessions, the 73d congress approved direct appropriations totaling $18,781,602,703, authorized appropriations of $3,295,075,000 to be paid for through the sale to the treasury of Reconstruction Finance corporation bonds, and imposed contingent obligations on the government of 8 billion dollars.

Those sums, Congressman Bolton pointed out, represent the cost to the taxpayer of President Roosevelt's New Deal.

Cites "Broken Pledges."

They also represent, the Ohio Republican charged, a staggering repudiation of the President's pre-election pledges of economy and his promises to fight the growth of burocracy.

Representative Bolton's, of course, was a Republican interpretation of the enormous cost of government under the Roosevelt administration. A Democratic recapitulation of appropriations and a Democratic defense of the New Deal program was given out by Representative James P. Buchanan of Texas, Democratic chairman of the house appropriations committee.

Chairman Buchanan's report embodied only the sums directly appropriated by the second session of the 73d congress. The gross appropriations, he declared, were $9,665,682,422. But he pointed out, which Representative Bolton did not, that of that amount 2 billion dollars for the treasury's stabilization fund and $139,299,357 for payment to the federal reserve banks in connection with the making of industrial loans came from the 2 billion 811 million dollars gold profit realized when the dollar was remonetized. Chairman Buchanan estimated, therefore, that net appropriations for the second session only were $7,526,382,866.

New Bureaus Created.

Representative Bolton asserted that in spite of promises to check the growth of burocracy, curtail the cost of government, and avoid the dangers of government borrowings and deficits, President Roosevelt had launched an experimental program "calling not only for expansion of existing agencies and bureaus, but the creation of many more."

"Instead of reducing burocracy," Representative Bolton said, "the administration has reverted to the spoils system in its worst stage, ignoring the civil service requirements and proceeding to give many, many thousands of positions to members of its own party at the expense of the merit system.

"Instead of using the established agencies of the government for the purpose of handling in an orderly way the billions of dollars which have been and are being spent, new agencies have been set up at such a pace that it is well nigh impossible to tell how many there are or whether they conflict with each other. While some transfers of commissions and offices have been made betwen the departments, reports show the number of civilian employés in the executive branch of the government has increased from 563,000 on March 1, 1933, to 644,000 in April, 1934.

Visualizes the Cost.

"Figures are not available for those agencies not reporting to the civil service commission. Neither does this include the enrolled personnel such as the army, navy, and Civilian Conservation corps. Over 40 new agencies have been created, such as the AAA, the PWA, the NRA, and other alphabetical designations, acting under authority granted to the President, responsible to the President, but not under budgetary control. The cost to the government is not difficult to visualize."

Representative Bolton called attention to the fact that the figures for the 73d congress did not include or show the 1 billion 879 million dollars appropriated by the last session of the 72d congress for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934. These funds have been available to the present administration.

The Ohio congressman also pointed out that the figures do not show the huge sums collected during the fiscal year 1934 in processing taxes by the Agricultural Adjustment administration and paid out in benefits to farmers. Latest statistics from the AAA show that $328,379,506 has been collected in processing taxes, out of which $216,233,867 has been paid to farmers. The budget estimate of 840 million dollars for the AAA program during the fiscal year 1935, however, were included in the congressman's figures.

28 Billions in Two Years.

Disregarding the RFC allotments, but including the 1934 appropriations by the 72d congress, Representative Bolton pointed out that the total for the first two years of the New Deal reached the enormous amount of 28 billions of dollars, or more than twice the amount of the monetary gold in the world. He declared administration claims of economy were misleading, since cuts in regular appropriations were accomplished through transferring such items as roads, public buildings, rivers and harbors, etc.—normally carried in the regular appropriations—to the "emergency" budget.

"Instead of meeting charges for these tremendous outlays and activities as we go, in accordance with the statement that "revenues must cover expenditures, by one means or another," said Congressman Bolton, "the administration is expanding its activities on borrowed money in the same way for which it has criticized private enterprises and which it has acted, dramatically, to prevent private business from doing in the future. This, again, is another of the many inconsistencies of the administration's policies.

Recalls 1932 Campaign.

During the campaign of 1932 attention was directed to the tremendous increase in the debt of the state of New York under the administration of Gov. Roosevelt. Despite all campaign promises, he and his administration have brought to the federal government the same extravagant policy. The most exaggerated prophecies of opponents in the campaign of 1932 are far exceeded by the orgy of spending which we are experiencing. A policy of spending our way to prosperity through government expenditures and government borrowing has been adopted. Such a policy is predicated on vast expenditures of the taxpayers' money and places a burden upon business and industry, which prevents its return to a normal basis and normal conditions and all that that implies."

"No government can continue to operate on borrowed capital," he continued. "The people must eventually pay the way and if definite plans are not established to meet the rising cost of government and to provide for carrying out our current national debt charges, either through drastic reductions in government operations, or by increased taxation, we will have not only seriously threatened our national credit, but mortgaged future generations to a point where the development and progress of our country will be retarded for many, many years."

Four Billions for Emergency.

In his report Chairman Buchanan pointed out that of the seven and a half billions of net appropriations by the second session, nearly four billions were for emergency purposes.

On the basis of regular appropriations alone, he declared, the 73d congress had appropriated a billion dollars, or nearly 25 per cent, less than the 71st congress, while expenditures in 1934—"emergency" items again excluded—will be a billion dollars less than in 1932.

Chairman Buchanan declared that if the public debt does not exceed the estimated figure of $31,834,000,000 by June 30, 1935, it will mean an increase since President Roosevelt took office of $10,900,000,000. But from that increase, he contended, there should be deducted the $6,500,000,000 in assets against loans which the government is expected to hold at that time, and such portion of the gold profit fund as is left when stabilization operations have been completed.

NEW YORKER DENIES MENACING SAFETY OF U. S. PRESIDENT

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—The only thing Alfred L. Savage of Fishkill, N. Y., ever said against the present administration was that it was "a durned shame the NRA let barbers charge fifty cents for a haircut, so a poor fellow has to have his hair chopped by his wife, who didn't know the first thing about it."

Mr. Savage, 66, so swore today at a hearing before United States Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter in the Federal building.

He stoutly denied he has ever said "Roosevelt should be taken out and hung to a telephone pole and riddled with bullets."

Mr. Savage is charged with having expressed that view of the country's chief magistrate over the fried chicken and hominy on a boarding house table in Largo, Fla.

As a result, he is under indictment in that state for "threatening bodily harm to the President of the United States."

The proceedings before Commissioner Cotter are to determine whether or not Mr. Savage shall be delivered to the Florida judges. The commissioner, after postponing the case for two weeks, indicated that the accused will not be removed.

ROOSEVELT GETS READY TO TALK ON AIR TONIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

At the same time he gave attention to the radio speech he is to make at 9:30 o'clock [Chicago time] tomorrow night and to the appointments he has under consideration for the various boards and commissions created by congress.

Refuses to Talk Jobs.

Mr. Roosevelt refused today, at his meeting with newspaper men, to discuss the appointments he is to make, except to say that he would dispose of as many as possible before sailing next Saturday for his summer vacation. He said he might do the usual thing of making appointments by radio from the battle cruiser Houston while it is plowing through the high seas bound for southern waters.

There is also a possibility, he disclosed, that he may not leave until Monday. If he cannot wade through the mass of pre-vacation chores the vacation will have to wait, he said.

Meanwhile, the President received recommendations from several New Deal congressional leaders for appointments to the new communications commission. Representative Joseph Byrns of Tennessee, majority leader of the house, promoted Harvey Hannah of Nashville, chairman of the Tennessee railroad and utilities commission.

Meets with Social Planners.

The President held a long conference with a committee of officials whom he had charged to investigate the problems of social insurance and of land and water resources. Among those present were Secretaries Morgenthau, Wallace, Ickes and Perkins, and Harry Hopkins, relief administrator. They were reported to have given the President data to be included in his radio speech tomorrow night.

The President is expected to devote considerable time in his speech to a discussion of the work of the next congress along the lines of public insurance to protect against unemployment, old age and ill health, and an extensive program of using and conserving natural resources.

Passes Up Mortgage Bill.

The President failed again today to act on the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium bill, but it was said by legislative leaders that they had been informed the bill will be vetoed.

Among the measures signed by Mr. Roosevelt was on establishing a "federal credit union system," aimed at extending credit to small borrowers at nominal cost; a joint resolution authorizing the federal trade commission to make certain investigations: an act to authorize the creation of a federal memorial commission to build a memorial in Washington in honor of Thomas Jefferson; a resolution to provide funds for sending army units to participate in the international exposition at Fort Niagara, N. Y.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

JOHNSON REPLY TO ATTACKS BY DARROW: 'HOOEY'

Language Is Restrained in Second Answer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—The once mighty battle between Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and Clarence Darrow over the sins and shortcomings of the NRA today died down to a hollow echo as Johnson published his reply to the second Darrow report.

Dragging out the old epithets and the old accusations of untruth which he hurled in his reply to the first Darrow report, Johnson and his NRA staf, like a chorus repeating its routine, once more denied in general and in detail each and every charge made against them by the national recovery review board under Darrow.

While Johnson's first reply had rung with accusations like "communists" and "demagogs," his second retort called Darrow and his board nothing more offensive than "back seat drivers," a term applied to them by Donald Richberg, NRA general counsel, in his section of the reply.

Just Pooh-poohs Board.

Even charges that Johnson is a high handed and militaristic dictator—the most serious allegation made in the second Darrow report—brought only minor eruptions from the volatile general. Leaving the bulk of the detail of refutation to his subordinates, Gen. Johnson confined himself to pooh-poohing the Darrow board and to saying it has revealed nothing detrimental to the NRA.

"The fact is," wrote the general in a letter transmitting the NRA's reply to President Roosevelt, "that after three months of suppression of all favorable testimony, omission of testimony from the record, refusal to permit NRA opportunity to defend itself, incitation of malcontents, and encouragement of exaggeration, this board has not been able to produce so much as one little dachm of evidence that there is any monopoly or oppression at all.

"The evidence thus multiplies that the board is using its high office—not to perform its function of showing us our errors, giving us the truth or in any way protecting the little fellow—but solely to manufacture false material for any politician who may be demagog enough to use this kind of political coin as honest money."

"More Inaccurate Than First."

"This report is even more inaccurate and inconsequential than the first," Johnson told the President. He then cited a statement by the Darrow board saying that it had received 600 complaints against the NRA in three months, adding, "there are more than 2½ million concerns operating under codes. The ratio of complaints, therefore, is 6 out of every 25,000, or 99 77-100 per cent of non-complaints.

One of the most serious charges made by the Darrow board's second report was that Johnson had arbitrarily written into the retail trade code provisions relaxing the control over advertising which the industry had desired to set up for the curbing of competition.

Richberg, who summed up the 87 page NRA reply, poked fun at the Darrow board for what he called inconsistencies in its stand. With evident glee, he declared that Darrow and his associates are swinging around into the NRA's own camp.

Urges More Price Control.

"The board," wrote Richberg to the President, "having denounced most vehemently various limited measures of price control as written in some codes, now, with charming inconsistency, demands more and tighter price control for the retail trades and the petroleum industry.

"Since the review board now recognizes the evils of 'cut throat competition and ruinous price cutting' in some businesses, we may assume that in time the board will come to recognize the necessity of protecting decent hours and wages in all trades and industries by preventing unfair competition and destructive price cutting.

"As the board grows in wisdom, its reports—with political arguments, rhetorical phrases and passionate verbiage deleted—should prove more helpful and less obstructive to the recovery program."

Moscow Orders 2 Shot; Stole Iron Worth $100,000

MOSCOW, June 27.—(AP)—Death by shooting was the sentence imposed by the Moscow City court today on two men convicted of the theft of $100,000 worth of iron from a subway warehouse. A third, convicted of buying the stolen material, was sent to prison for 10 years.

GEN. JOHNSON BACKS NRA ANTI-TRUST CODE IN ALUMINUM TRADE

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—An NRA code containing specific anti-monopoly provisions was approved by Hugh S. Johnson today for the aluminum industry, in which the Aluminum Company of America, a Mellon interest, is recognized as the most powerful factor.

The code was approved only for a trial period, becoming effective July 11. Johnson said that in view of objections filed it would run only 90 days pending an investigation of "past practices" of the industry and modifications which the code might make in these practices.

During the 90 days, Johnson said, he would receive and investigate "complaints of unfair competition in the sale of products at prices constituting unfair competition or oppressing small enterprises or tending toward monopoly."

The aluminum code contains a special provision on the subject of monopoly which says:

"No provision of this code shall be so applied as to permit monopolies or monopolistic practices or to eliminate, oppress, or discriminate against small enterprises."

FURNITURE MEN MEET TO TALK NRA, BUT DON'T

Code Chief Does Most of the Speaking.

Three hundred members of the National Retail Furniture association met yesterday in the Furniture club of the American Furniture Mart at 666 Lake Shore drive. Advance publicity gave notice that the meeting was called to give retail men an opportunity to express themselves freely on the NRA code governing their business.

Herbert E. Bennett of Los Angeles, president of the association, who opened the meeting, announced the subject for discussion as "The Feasibility of Scrapping the NRA Retail Code."

Code Director Gives Talk.

Several members rose to speak. Mr. Bennett said that he would recognize them later, but that the program called for a few remarks from Richard M. Neustadt of Washington, managing director of the national retail code authority.

Mr. Neustadt had been told that several members of the association had prepared speeches setting forth grievances against the code.

"You have a code for keeps," Mr. Neustadt told the assemblage. "The NRA is one year old, going on two, and going on forever.

"The Law of the Land."

"Codes cannot be turned into a battle ground for local grudge fights. The code is the law of the land, and its effectiveness is just as good as our administration of it makes it good."

Mr. Neustadt concluded by pointing out what he termed advantages of the code. After he had resumed his seat the chair called for discussion. There was a short silence, and then several members got up to praise the NRA. Others looked somewhat bewildered.

"Neustadt's opening finished me," said one of the latter after the meeting. "When I was told the code is going on forever I saw that this was not the time to offer criticism. If I'm going to have to live with the code administrators for sometime, I told myself I better keep my criticisms to myself."

WALES ATTENDS JULIANA'S DANCE; LONDON WONDERS

LONDON, June 27.—(AP)—Matchmakers who have been worrying about the single state of the prince of Wales had something new to talk about today.

Wales, who turned 40 Saturday without so much as an inkling that he was even thinking of matrimony, attended a dinner dance last night at the Dutch legation in honor of Princess Juliana of Holland, who is in London for the season. The prince and the princess, who is 25, have been linked in marriage rumors before. For that matter, both have been mentioned by matchmakers with nearly every royal house containing an eligible.

Recent rumors linked Princess Juliana with Prince Bertil of Sweden, but the Swedish legation in London issued a denial. Princess Juliana is the daughter of Queen Wilhelmina and in direct succession to the throne. In appearance she is tall and inclined toward heaviness.

HOSIERY UNION CHIEF SEIZED; WARNED TO QUIT

Ordered from Tennessee —Mill Peace Sought.

Harriman, Tenn., June 27.—"It's too bad Hugh Johnson is not here to get a dose of this, too."

That remark, emphasized by a "big, mean looking pistol in the hands of a mill worker" helped Fred Held, vice president of the American Federation of Hosiery workers, make up his mind this afternoon that he would leave Harriman.

Kidnaped from a train he was boarding here shortly after noon today, threatened with death by "lynching" and warned that he had "better leave the state and not come back," Held blamed employés of the Harriman Hosiery mills, closed Monday, with his abduction.

"They told me that the union was responsible for all the trouble which led up to the removal of the Blue Eagle," Held said.

Told to Leave County.

After he had promised to leave Harriman, Held was released in an adjoining county, officers picked him up and took him to Oakdale where he boarded a train for Chattanooga.

Held said that after the group had left Harriman, a stop was called and a conference held.

"They told me I could go if I would promise never to return," Held said. "I believed my life in danger and there was nothing else to do."

When Held first stepped from the train to the crowd awaiting him on the platform he inquired:

"Do you men believe in the NRA?"

"We don't care a damned thing about it," was the reply, Held said.

Held was safe and sound in Chattanooga. Prosecution will be instigated against the kidnapers if Held demands it, Harriman law enforcement officers said.

In Nashville, Attorney General Roy Beeler and Commissioner of Labor W. E. Jacobs conferred on the situation.

Writes Johnson Again.

T. Asbury Wright Jr., attorney for the Harriman mills, tonight made public a second letter written this week to NRA Administrator Hugh S. Johnson.

"We would welcome prosecution by the government in a court of justice so that your persecution of us could be shown under oath and all perjurors punished for their crime," the mills informed Gen. Johnson.

"We are disappointed that you have not answered in writing our various protests against your dictatorial and un-American method of disregarding our constitutional rights. Does this sacred instrument mean nothing to you and the NRA?

"On April 20 you telegraphed the company you would personally investigate this case. You have not done so, although two months have elapsed."

T. W. LAMONT'S SON ARRESTED AS PICKET; FIVE HOURS IN JAIL

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—Corliss W. Lamont, son of Thomas W. Lamont of J. P Morgan & Co., and Paul Crosbie, broker who made complaints of police persecution recently, were arrested today charged with picketing. Lamont was arrested in Jersey City and Crosbie in Astoria.

Lamont stayed in the city prison for 5 hours, then cashed a check for $1,500 after A. L. Wirin, attorney for the Civil Liberties union, asserted $1,500 bail was too high.

Lamont was arrested at the plant of the Miller Parlor Furniture company. There is no strike there, but members of the Furniture Workers Industrial union of New York have picketed it in protest against what they consider improper treatment of the employés inside. Other pickets were arrested, so Lamont, a Civil Liberties union director, took his turn.

Crosbie, an insurance broker, wrote a letter to Commissioner John F. O'Ryan about two months ago complaining of police brutality to radicals. He charged on June 17 that because of his letter, he was being hounded by the police of the alien squad.

Crosbie served in the war in France and is a Harvard graduate. He was a college mate of President Roosevelt and former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills. Lamont graduated from Harvard in 1924.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

BLUE EAGLE JUST A CHICKEN HAWK DOWN OZARK WAY

MountaineersResent NRA "Cracking Down."

Jefferson City, Mo., June 27.—[Special.]—To the industrial population of St. Louis and Kansas City the Blue Eagle may be a fine old bird. To the folk in the fastnesses of the Ozarks he is "wuss'n" a chicken hawk. That seems to be the consensus in the rural districts of a state which gave Roosevelt the thundering majority of 525,000 in 1932.

The NRA code authorities of the state have not hitherto made any particular effort to "crack down" in the smaller cities and towns of Missouri, but the campaign to bring "the little fellow" into line is in full swing now and resented by a large proportion of the population. Springfield, capital of the Ozarks, is a hotbed of antagonism to the Blue Eagle and all his works. That town, on the edge of strongly Republican territory, center of a trade area which raises fruit and chickens instead of wheat and cotton, is ready to kick the dog, even though it be a hound.

Adjuster Hits Town.

The retailers of Springfield are not feeling too happy. George R. Dickerson has been in town as "field adjuster" for southwest Missouri, and George threatens to make good in a big way. There have been 80 complaints of code violations in Springfield.

"Things have been drifting in southwest Missouri. My advice to all employers is to 'get in line' and help enforce these codes," he says.

Dickerson is authority for the statement that $41,000 has been collected in St. Louis from noncomplying employers in the form of back wages. There is considerable popular support for the NRA in the state's largest city. Now 10 agents are being sent out by the code authorities of St. Louis to convert the state which has sullenly refused to hit the sawdust trail.

In the smaller cities, from Springfield and St. Joseph on down, efforts to enforce compliance with NRA codes have been pitiably feeble. Suboffices will soon be opened in the rural regions with "crackers down" in charge. There are no local compliance boards any more. Retail merchants in smaller communities have not "peached" on each other, nor have their employés, apparently.

Truckers Complain Loudly.

The truckers of the state have been raising loud complaint against the code. Recently St. Louis tried to create a $90,000 fund for the enforcement of the truckers' code by assessing a $3 fee for each truck, including thousands owned by "little fellows," individual operators in the rural regions. That $3 is a lot of money to an Ozard mountaineer and Dickerson has had his hands full trying to placate all hands. The wife of one wrote President Roosevelt a letter about it all, wanting to know if Gen. Johnson intended to take the bread out of the mouth of a hard-working woman. To date Gen. Johnson has not replied, thus failing to satisfy the hill folk. Farmers and small shop keepers in the central part of the state have heard of the NRA, but they don't believe it yet. That is why St. Louis is getting ready to "crack down," sending an army of "adjusters" out into the great open spaces of the state.

GIRL IS GUILTY AS AID IN BANDIT KILLING AT BANK

Dedham, Mass., June 27.—[Special.]—Norma Millen, a preacher's daughter, who became a killer's consort, was found guilty as an accessory after the fact of murder in the bloody holdup of the Needham Trust company for which her husband and his two co-machine gunners are awaiting the electric chair.

The verdict was returned by the jury of twelve Norfolk county business men at 12:48 a. m., after they had deliberated seven hours.

Declared guilty on all three indictments, the 19 year old bride of Murten Millen faces a possible 21 year prison sentence.

Because of her relationship to Murton Millen and his brother, Irving, their names were erased from the indictments. Norma was found guilty of being an accessory to Abe Faber, third member of the triumvirate.

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—Eugenia Bankhead was preparing tonight to sail for Nice, on the French Riviera, where the man she has married three times, Morton Hoyt, is reported to be ill. And, she says, as soon as she can she will marry him for the fourth time.

Miss Bankhead, daughter of Representative Bankhead of Alabama, altogether has been married six times.

The couple first were married in 1920. That union was annulled. They were remarried a few months later, In 1928 they were divorced, but remarried the same year. Another divorce followed in 1929.

FEDERAL AGENTS IN ST. PAUL FOR INQUIRY ON PWA

St. Paul, Minn., June 27.—[Special.]—Federal investigators today moved into the Twin Cities and opened an inquiry into handling of public works funds in Minnesota.

Ordered here by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, two agents who conducted the inquiry which resulted in the conviction of Gov. Langer of North Dakota set up headquarters and immediately started checking complaints that funds allotted Minnesota have been used for political purposes.

Their first objective was to question Ward F. Senn, Hennepin county Republican chairman, who first made the charges which brought the investigation. Senn, vacationing at Webster, Wis., was to return here tomorrow and lay his evidence before the investigators.

While waiting for Senn, the investigators began to lay the groundwork for their inquiry, and it is expected that scores of public officials will be questioned. It has been charged that men wanting work on federal projects have been forced to join the Farmer-Labor associations and contribute to the war chest of that party. Gov. Floyd B. Olson branded charges by Senn as "a lot of cheap politics."

SEEK REHEARING ON DISBARMENT IN HIGH COURT

Attorney John L. Fogel, counsel of the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association, yesterday prepared a petition for a rehearing of the recent decision of the Illinois Supreme court ruling that sworn charges are necessary to bring disbarment proceedings against attorneys. The decision has delayed findings in the disbarment proceedings brought by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes against Attorneys Lucius J. M. Malmin and C. W. Larsen.

Secretary Ickes did not swear to the petition in which he charged the two attorneys had attempted to blackmail him into giving Malmin a federal post. Six members of the bar grievance committee heard the charges against the two attorneys at which the secretary testified. The committee was preparing to make public its report when the Supreme court made its ruling requiring sworn charges in the case of Attorney James W. Casey.

From Washington Secretary Ickes declared Tuesday that he is through with the case.

BANKERS SILENT WHILE TUGWELL DEFENDS VIEWS

He Lauds the New Deal at Des Moines.

Des Moines, Ia., June 27.—[Special.]—Describing the New Deal as a fluid evolution of society to establish "such a just and understood relationship among men and groups that none shall be exploited and that all shall enjoy the fruits of our modern victories over nature," Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture today fired the opening gun in the New Deal campaign of reassurance.

Speaking here before a large crowd at the final session of the Iowa State Bankers' association convention, Dr. Tugwell stated the essence of the New Deal as "the determination that the government shall become an active and intelligent partner, using its position to help, not only big business, but also others interested in the enterprise—the farmers, the workers, the investors, and the consumers."

Fails to Get Applause.

The undersecretary of agriculture omitted all reference to the material aspects of the New Deal—the billions of dollars being spent to test its theories.

Uninterrupted by applause, Dr. Tugwell presented the case for the New Deal on the basis of a distinct definition of just what planning means.

"Social management," Tugwell explained, "would therefore involve the social organization of the processes of production and distribution, taking advantage of ordinary and useful motives—as well as existing machinery and methods—to achieve first a wider distribution and use of goods, and later whatever further aims seem desirable."

Partnership of government and business is the vital part of the New Deal, according to this brain truster. The part of government in this program, Tugwell admitted, is not clearly defined. Nor does he think it should be, other than to give to political organization the right and power to maintain continuity in the program of keeping purchasing power in at least rough proportion to the volume of goods.

Talks Community of Interests.

"Industrialists have not learned yet," he said, "nor will they in any short time, that the interests of all can be the interests of each, that the exploited group turns on its oppressor with the deadly weapon of incapacity to buy, so that oppressor and oppressed suffer together in the long run."

Dr. Tugwell's voice was so low that his words were almost indistinguishable at times.

Dr. Tugwell charged that such concerns as meat packers, canners, millers, and milk dealers had caused the defeat of amendments to clarify the licensing provisions of the AAA act. He called that action "preliminary to an attempt to overthrow the agricultural program at its foundation."

Dr. Tugwell also accused the same interests of sweating farmers, labor and consumers.

DENY ATTACKING AAA.

In an official statement the Institute of American Meat Packers yesterday admitted it had opposed the "lost amendments" to the AAA act, but it denied it had attacked the act itself.

The statement said the institute "was and is honestly and openly opposed" to the proposed amendments and regards them "as an unwise extension of power." It admitted that its organization had helped make the facts of the plan known to the farmers and ranchers.

"Dr. Tugwell has stated that some big businesses have been 'sweating' labor, farmers and consumers," the statement asserted. "This is certainly not true of the packing industry."

The institute's statement reported that the meat packing industry operated at a loss during 1931 and 1932 and the profits made during 1933 were only a little more than enough to offset these losses.

PECORA HEADS LIST TO BE CHIEF OF STOCK EXCHANGE CONTROLERS

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—At the top of a list of prospective members of the new stock exchange control commission today was written the name of Ferdinand Pecora as chairman.

Word went to President Roosevelt that Pecora, counsel for the senate banking committee which conducted the long inquiry into stock market practices, would be willing to serve one year as head of the control agency. His appointment for the place seemed likely.

Another person who has been assigned a virtually certain place by Washington observers is James M. Landis, a member of the federal trade commission. Landis had much to do with writing the measure that was enacted.

Many have predicted he would be the chairman, but if Pecora took that post for one year, it was pointed out, Landis might be advanced to head of the agency at the expiration of Pecora's term. Pecora has recently expressed a desire to get back to the private practice of law.

Numerous other names have been submitted to the President, among them other members of the federal trade commission.

FIRM GUILTY OF NRA VIOLATIONS; FACES HUGE FINE

Recovery Act Is Called Constitutional.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 27.—[Special.]—A federal jury today found Harry Sley and Sley System Garage, Inc., guilty of NRA violations and put them in line for fines totaling a possible $74,000.

According to NRA attaches at the trial it was the first criminal conviction under the national industrial recovery act.

Judge George A. Welsh, in declining to instruct the jury of nine men and three women to acquit Sley, had ruled the recovery act "constitutionally sound."

"You are to judge," he told the jurors, "whether the congress was to sit supinely by and watch the country drift into industrial crises, or whether they should act with the powers vested in them in the greatest crisis since the birth of the nation."

Evidence Goes Unchallenged.

Evidence that Sley, in the face of code requirements of $15 minimum salary and a 54 hour maximum week, paid his employés as low as $9 and forced them to work up to 88 hours, went uncontradicted.

The jury was closeted for more than two hours before deciding the chief point in dispute—that Sley was responsible for the code violations even though he did not sign the code. He was convicted of 74 specific violations, each count carrying a maximum fine of $500. Under the law he could be fined the full $37,000 and the corporation a like amount.

The trial, which began yesterday, wound up with testimony of two witnesses, Elwood Kieser, chairman of the code administration agency for Philadelphia county, which instigated the prosecution, and Solomon Barkin, technical adviser to the NRA labor advisory board.

Kieser related how Sley "in a flowery patriotic speech last September urged the members of the Central City Garagemen's association, of which he was elected president, to support the President and sign his re-employment agreement.

"They all signed," said Kieser, "but Sley didn't, and it put him in a good competitive position because the other members were under obligations to follow the President's plan and Sley wasn't."

Ordered Jailed Over Wages.

York, Pa., June 27.—[Special.]—Fred C. Perkins, owner of a storage battery firm operating under his name, was sent to jail in default of bail today on the order of Commissioner Horace G. Ports for failing to pay wages demanded by the storage battery code. According to the prisoner his employés are satisfied with the wages they are receiving.

NEW DEAL MISSES LESSONS OF PAST, SAYS ECONOMIST

Critic Assails Policies in N. U. Talk.

Drawing examples from the economic pages of history for more than 3,000 years, Dr. Arthur Stone Dewing, noted authority on corporate finance, criticized the present national administration last night for its failure "to draw a lesson" from the mistakes of earlier generations.

Speaking before students and professors in Harris hall at Northwestern university, the economist asserted that in his opinion the "conscious political steps" now being taken by the government" will not seriously affect the historical trend of the business cycle."

Dr. Dewing pointed out that the utilization of the savings fund of the community is the essence of the investment problem, which in turn is the basis of modern civilization.

"Modern civilization is actually the product of the creation of social capital," he explained, "and the Athenian and the Chicagoan differ only in their economic environment."

In the present attempt to create social capital, the economist stated, the government has endeavored to eliminate the risk involved in the individual accumulation of capital by law. He outlined three major difficulties to be overcome.

"First," he said, "society cannot forecast accurately what will happen to any type of investment.

"Second, inflation affects only the dollar figures, and not the earning capacity of either the individual or the corporation. Consumer's goods will only be produced when the incentive exists—namely: earning capacity.

"Third, the attempt of the government to interfere with economic law is a well known historical failure. It was tried in ancient Sparta and by a famous Macedonian king. The policies of Hitler and the Italian dictator were used in Ptolemaic Egypt."

Dr. Dewing declared that Lydia, about 700 B. C., tried to adopt the policy of inflation shortly after money was invented. He added that Gresham's law was in effect then, as it is now, proving that governments cannot obliterate economic law.

CCC WORKER SHOCKED; DYING.

Dixon, Ill., June 27.—(AP)—L. D. Stultz, 34, of Rock Island, a landscape foreman of the CCC at Pines state park, was shocked, probably fatally today, when he threw a wire drill over a 2,300 volt power line, mistaking it for a 110 volt line. Inhalators from Dixon and Sterling were applied, but it was feared he would not recover.

HOUSING CHIEF HERE DENIES KNOWING OF PURCHASES BY U. S.

Although reports from Washington indicate that the government is seeking to purchase in Chicago's congested areas 1,000 plots of ground on which to construct low cost housing projects, no evidence could be obtained in the city yesterday that the Federal Housing corporation has started buying property in Chicago.

Charles E. Fox, member of the Chicago housing authority named by Mayor Kelly on June 7, said that the Illinois State Housing commission of which Alfred K. Stern is chairman has not yet officially approved of the municipal authority. Until that action is taken, Mr. Fox explained, the Chicago body cannot function officially and so has held no meetings. Mr. Stern could not be reached yesterday.

"Members of the Chicago Housing authority have not been informed of Washington's plans for Chicago," Mr. Fox asserted.

Congressman Fred A. Britten has suggested the area bounded by Chicago avenue and Wells, Division and Larrabee street, and it is known that Cardinal Mundelein also believes this area needs housing badly.

FARLEY EXTOLS NEW DEAL ERA IN TALK TO ROTARY

Detroit, Mich., June 27.—[Special.]—In an address before the Rotary International this noon, Gen. James A. Farley, Postmaster General, pointed to the nation's recovery since President Roosevelt took office.

"I am not telling you that business has reached a status satisfactory to any of us, but I am telling you that had you dreamed that within a year you would be doing as well as you are doing you would have thought it a vision of paradise," he said.

Farley flayed critics of the "brain trust" and took Great Britain sharply to task for failure to pay its war debts.

In a sense the postmaster general's speech attempted to answer the criticisms of Mark Sullivan, columnist and commentator, who flayed the "brain trust" in the key-note address before the Rotarians Monday afternoon.

"I am, of course, aware that there has been some criticism of some details of the Presidents recovery program," the postmaster general continued. "For the most part, these have emanated from special sources with a particular interest, though I would not suggest anything like a reflection on all of the administration critics."

Robert J. Hill of Columbia, Mo., was elected president of Rotary International by acclamation today.

G. O. P. SPEAKER ASSAILS HEAVY NEW DEAL TAXES

"Every child who comes into the world these days is born with a $300 tax burden on his shoulders," said Jacob D. Allen, nominee for clerk of the Probate court at a meeting of Republican candidates at the Hotel Bismarck yesterday.

"By the time that child reaches the voting age of 21 years, the burden will be $2,400. That is the condition into which the present national administration is plunging us."

Congressman Oscar De Priest said that the appropriations of the now expiring congress exceed by five billion dollars all appropriations made by any of its predecessors even in war times.

The weekly meeting of the candidates will not be held next week because Wednesday is Independence day. But the meetings will be resumed the following Wednesday and continued throughout the summer.

JAP AMBASSADOR GIVEN COLORFUL GREETING AT FAIR

Spectacle Thrills Saito; Troops Fire Salute.

BY EARL MULLIN.

The success of A Century of Progress Exposition will have much to do with bringing about economic recovery in the United States and this will be followed by an economic revival throughout the world. This is the belief of Hirosi Saito, Japanese ambassador to the United States, who visited the World's Fair yesterday.

Addressing more than 50 city leaders, foreign representatives and Fair officials in the trustees' lounge, the ambassador said economic progress of Japan is closely tied up with economic conditions in this country. Friendship between the two nations naturally follows this economic interdependence, the diplomat said.

The ambassador and his party arrived at the Court of Honor entrance to the Fair grounds at 11:30 a. m. and were greeted with a military reception and a salute of nineteen guns.

Escorted by Troops.

The black horse troop escorted the party into the grounds where army troops from Camp F. D. Roosevelt passed in review as the diplomatic salute was fired. Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, officialy welcomed the ambassador as the band played the Japanese anthem.

Included in the party were Mme. Saito, two daughters, Saki, 7 years old, and Masa, 5 years old; Kenji Nakauchi, acting Japanese consul general, and Mme. Nakauchi.

Introducing the ambassador to guests at the reception, Mr. Dawes said the Exposition expressed the character of the century it represented. It was in that century, he said, that intercourse between Japan and the United States started. During the last half of the century, he said, that relationship has flowered a mutual understanding and a spirit of coöperation for the enrichment of the world and the enlargement of human knowledge.

Calls Fair a Triumph.

The ambassador expressed himself as vastly pleased with the exposition and hailed it as both a cultural and an economic triumph.

"Here," he said, "I find, happily combined, objects of education, objects of beauty, objects of entertainment and opportunities for commercial development. The name, A Century of Progress, is a very happy one and appropriately indicative of its importance and significance.

"I think that the success of this enterprise will surely help greatly to bring about economic recovery in this country.

"With the remarkable ingenuity and indominable courage of the American government, and with the indefatigable endeavors and spontaneous enterprise of the American people, the United States seems to be in a position to lead the world in economic resuscitation. I am happy to see that A Century of Progress exposition is contributing greatly to that cause."

With the diplomatic ceremonies of the ambassador's arrival as the most colorful program of the day, acting as the lure to thousands of visitors, attendance at the Fair exceeded figures of all previous Wednesdays. At midnight 66,678 had passed through the gates. The total for last Wednesday was 56,995 paid admissions, the previous record for that day.

AIR LINES PLAN NEW PASSENGER SERVICE JULY 1

Air line companies announced yesterday that on July 1 they would open a new airplane passenger service between Chicago and New Orleans and renew an abandoned line between Chicago and Peoria.

The Peoria service will be resumed by American Air lines, according to C. A. Rheinstrom, general trafic manager. Two round trips will be flown daily, with planes leaving the Chicago airport at 9 a. m. and 5:15 p. m.

Pacific Seaboard Air lines, which already flies the mail between Chicago and New Orleans, is preparing to establish daily passenger service on this route. Tentative plans are for a daylight service, with stops for passengers and mail at Jackson, Miss., Memphis, Tenn., and St. Louis.

World's Fair Notes

The World's Fair fire department and city engines were hurried early today to the Schlitz Palm Garden on Northerly Island when a blaze was discovered in the kitchen of the concession. The fire, which had started in a rubbish pile, was extinguished with only a few dollars' damage. There were no patrons in the place at the time.

An indoor baseball league has been organized among the employés of A Century of Progress and games are played every Monday and Wednesday in Grant park. Later the games will be played in Soldiers' field. The games are scheduled for either 8 a. m. or 5 p. m., depending on whether the contestants work the day shift or evening shift.

Naomi E. Schoemaker, 19 years old, of Woodbine, Md., who was crowned national style champion of the Four-H clubs at the live stock exposition last December, visited the Fair yesterday following a 4,000 mile tour of "The Shrines of American History," the award in the contest.

A detachment of 100 men and four officers of the United States navy will arrive in Chicago at 9:50 this morning over the Pennsylvania railroad and then proceed to the Fair grounds. They will be stationed at Camp Franklin D. Roosevelt for the rest of the Exposition season.

A wedding will be performed at 4 p. m. Monday before the Havoline thermometer at the Fair. The two beginning their matrimonial career are Francis D. Sauerby and Henrietta Pinneke, both of Guttenberg, Ia.

The murals in the Hall of Religion, painted by Howard Church, will be dedicated at 3 o'clock this afternoon with the Morgan Park Military academy drum and bugle corps taking part. Rufus C. Dawes of the Fair will speak during the ceremonies.

Today is to be "Enit" day at the Italian pavilion, sponsored by the Ente Nazionale Industrie Turistiche, or tourist information organization. A model of the city of Rome will be on exhibition. At 9 p. m. Mme. Raioli of Naples will give an illustrated lecture on Italy.

World's Fair visitors yesterday were given an introduction to toad racing on the Midway boardwalk. Twenty-five toads were placed in the center of a 25 foot circle, and the first to cross the line was declared winner.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra will begin a ten weeks' engagement in the band shell on Swift bridge Sunday afternoon. The orchestra will play twice daily, seven days a week.

CHARGES CITY'S FIRST FEDERAL BUILDING 'STOLEN'

Book Says Owen Is Real Founder of Chicago.

Some of the political scandals of Chicago's early days, including the charge that the frontier settlement's first federal building was "stolen" by converting the title to private parties, are aired in a volume entitled "Chicago's True Founder," released for review yesterday by the author, James Ryan Haydon of Lombard.

Mr. Haydon worked three years to gather materials for the book, which is a biography of Thomas Jefferson Vance Owen, United States Indian agent at Chicago.

The theme of the book is that Owen, and not John Kinzie, the Indian trader, was the real father of Chicago.

Named to Indian Post.

Owen had been sherif of Randolph county and a member of the Illinois legislature when it passed Chicago's first charter act in 1830. He was appointed Indian agent in 1831 to handle government negotiations with the tribes which at that time lived about Fort Dearborn. He succeeded Alexander Wolcott, son-in-law of John Kinzie, who had died a short time before.

Mr. Haydon charges that when Agent Owen arrived in Chicago, he discovered that "Cobweb Castle," the nickname of the federal structure in which the Indian agents had had headquarters was being held as private property by members of the Kinzie family, into which the preceding agent, Wolcott, had married.

How Lots Were Juggled.

Wolcott, the author charges, had accomplished this by having the property included in one of the canal lots laid out by the state legislative commissioners and sold to defray the expense of building the proposed Illinois and Michigan canal.

Mr. Haydon attacks what he terms the "Kinzie mythology," and charges that far from being the founder of the city, Kinzie, whose own interest was in the fur trade with the Indians, had urged a few years before that all whites be barred from Chicago, with the exception of licensed traders.

TEACHERS VOTE FOR MORE U. S. AID TO SCHOOLS

The American Federation of Teachers, in convention at the Morrison hotel, yesterday demanded widespread support of education by the federal government and condemned the sales tax as placing an unfair burden on worker consumers.

After debate the convention approved a resolution calling for $600.-000.000 federal aid for schools annually and asking that the money be distributed to all school districts in need on a basis of school population and taxable resources in the community.

Passage of the sales tax resolution followed an address by Prof. Harold M. Groves, of the University of Wisconsin, a former tax adviser to the federal treasury, who attacked such method of raising funds.

Education for tomorrow must fully utilize the contributions of social science if the American form of democracy is to be saved, Dean E. O. Melby, of the school of education, Northwestern university, told the federation at its annual banquet last night. American public schools, he said, can be a real barrier against fascism and dictatorship.

OXEN GEE-HAW COVERED WAGON THROUGH LOOP

La Salle street, near the entrance to the city hall, went back to covered wagon days yesterday as "Old Charley" Ward, 80 years old, a pioneer from Madison, Wis., drove his ox wagon to the city hall to be greeted by Mayor Kelly. Old Charley drove his yoke of oxen all the way from Madison to advertise the Wisconsin Outdoor exposition July 2 to 8 in the Wisconsin capital.

Congregationalists Swing to Left in Social Program

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oberlin, O., June 27.—[Special.]—The name "Pilgrim church" was suggested as one to replace the cumberson title of Congregational Christian churches today as seven days' sessions of the general council of that church came to a close. Proposals for a shorter name for the denomination will be acted on at the next biennial meeting.

As sessions came to their close many resolutions were passed which tend further to push the church's position toward "the left." Chief among these resolutions was one presented by the seminar on the social gospel and economic problems. It asks for the overthrow of the present economic system, including principles of private ownership which "depend for their existence upon exploitation of one group by another, create industrial and civic strife, precipitate periods of unemployment, and perpetuate insecurity and all its attendant miseries."

Text of Resolution.

The resolution adopted reads as follows:

"We set ourselves to work toward the abolition of the system responsible for these destructives elements in our common life by eliminating the system's habits, the legal forms which sustain it, the moral ideals which justify it. We set ourselves to work toward the inauguration of a genuinely coöperative social economy, democratically planned to adjust production to consumption requirements, to modify or eliminate private ownership of the means of production or distribution wherever such ownership interferes with the social good."

The council action set up Monday to dominate and permanently control practically every other agency of the church will be responsible for the extension of this resolution among Congregationalists of th country. This council held its first meeting today. By some members of the general council the social action group already has been dubbed "the Congregational brain trust."

Two from Chicago.

Among its members are Dr. Paul Hutchinson, managing editor of the Christian Century, and Prof. Arthur E. Holt of Chicago Theological seminary and originator of the council. The Rev. Allan Chalmers of New York is chairman.

A strong pacifist resolution also was passed. It declared that the church "is through with war" and that "the mind of the church has moved to this solemn conviction. We call upon the people of the churches to renounce in all its ways and works and to refuse to support, sanction, or bless it."

The Legion of Decercies war against dirty motion pictures was commended and the Catholic hierarchy was praised for launching the legion. A Congregational pledge for the legion will be devised by the council of social action, it was stated today.

BOARD ASKS BIDS ON EQUIPMENT FOR LANE SCHOOL

$680,000 Is Available; Opening Date Set.

The board of education yesterday called for bids on $680,000 worth of equipment for the new Lane Technical High school, Addison street and Western avenue, and announced that the building, seating 6,200 students, will be ready Sept. 17, at the beginning of the fall term.

The $680,000 allocated for Lane school equipment is $120,000 under figures set when construction was started under a previous board. The new figure was reached by a committee of Chicago industrialists called by James B. McCahey, president of the board, to advise on the purchase of school equipment.

This committee, Mr. McCahey said, will continue to advise when bids are received, and he expects that the total costs will be further reduced.

All accessories required for the opening of Lane, including shop and lunchroom equipment, are cared for under the $680,000 allocation, Mr. McCahey said.

Contractors are now rushing work on the $3,000,000 Lane building and appear certain to have it ready for the opening of school, he declared.

Four other new high school buildings will be completed near or shortly after the Sept. 17 date.

The board also prepared to meet Monday to give final approval to an application for a loan of $25,447,240 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to pay teachers overdue salaries. The application will be transmitted to Washington Tuesday.

Richard S. Folsom, board attorney who is preparing the application for the loan, said that the forms will be completed early Monday in time for board action.

Mr. Folsom will take the application to Washington whether or not an Illinois Supreme court ruling on the validity of the move has been received.

This will permit RFC authorities to study the extensive data on school properties to be posted for the loan while the court decision is pending, he explained.

URGES ENLISTING 2,600,000 PUPILS FOR CLEAN FILMS

Cincinnati Prelate Talks to Catholic Educators.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Archbishop John T. McNicholas of Cincinnati, chairman of the motion picture committee of the Roman Catholic bishops, counseled with the members of the National Catholic Educational association, at their thirty-first annual meeting at the Stevens hotel yesterday, on the extension of the campaign against indecent motion pictures, to include 2,600,000 children in parochial grammar and high schools.

He called on the school heads of the 105 dioceses to act in this matter under the lead of their bishops. Vigilance was necessary, he said, and aggressive action must be continued if the producers fail to live up to their latest promises.

"We have given our best thought on the subject," he declared. "Representing the body of bishops of the Catholic church, we have proceeded cautiously. It is not our purpose to destroy any industry or business. It is our purpose to protect the souls of the children committed to our keeping.

Hopes Industry Awakens.

"Legitimate recreation is necessary, almost as much as bread or air, but it must be wholesome and good. We must array ourselves against that which is detrimental to the mind, heart, and soul of our children.

"It is hoped that the industry will see the utter futility of making this kind of pictures."

The Rev. James F. Byrne of St. Paul, chairman of the section, referred to the motion pictures as the largest supplementary educational system in America.

"It is a force that challenges the best we have," he said, "inasmuch as it may work for or against us in shaping the moral attitudes of millions of young people in whose spiritual interests we are laboring."

Opposes Federal Thumb.

At another session of this section, the Rev. George Johnson, associate professor of education, Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., said he opposed federal aid for education because it would inevitably mean control of the schools and mounting taxes. He was a member of the federal advisory committee on emergency aid in education, which recommended aid of $50,000,000, a recommendation in which he did not concur.

"Once you yield power to the federal government even for emergency purposes, to control the administration and direction of education within the states," he warned, "you have embarked upon an adventure fraught with gravest consequence for the future destiny of the nation."

If the present tendency toward centralization of power in Washington is allowed to proceed unimpeded, he declared, "it is bound to destroy democracy and make for some form of bureaucratic collectivism."

Mark 400th Anniversary of Luther Bible Work

The four hundredth anniversary of the translation of the Bible into modern languages by Martin Luther, was observed yesterday at the eighteenth annual convention of the Northern Illinois district of the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri Synod, in session at Concordia Teachers' college in River Forest. Prof. Martin Graebner, Concordia college, St. Paul, Minn., warned the delegates that the modern tendency of removing all barriers of denominational demarcation leads to a rejection of the Bible and Bible teachings.

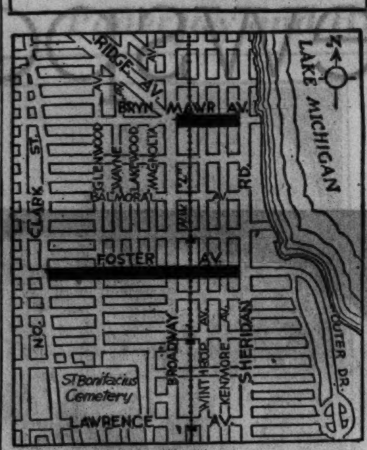
Joseph Brabec and Walter Hansen, larceny of an automobile, sentenced to one to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Donald McKinlay.

Harold Jasper, forgery, sentenced to one to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

STREET REPAIRS



The blacked portions of the above map show the extent of repair projects under way on Foster and Bryn Mawr avenues near Sheridan road. Although in some instances north and south intersecting streets are barely passable, many others come to an abrupt end with no warning, forcing motorists to turn around and seek other streets.

STUDIO CEASES PRODUCTION OF "BARBARY COAST"

Not a Child's Picture, Says Goldwyn.

New York, June 27.—[Special.—United Artists corporation announced today the indefinite postponement of the production of "Barbary Coast" in deference to the current clean motion pictures crusade.

In making the announcement, Samuel Goldwyn said:

"The dramatic possibilities of the story are too great to sacrifice in a clamor for clean pictures for children. 'Barbary Coast' is not a child's picture."

Stoppage of production of "Barbary Coast" brings to about a dozen the number of films scrapped or ordered revised as a result of the cleanup campaign. The United Artists picture was to have featured Anna Sten and Gary Cooper; the script, adapted from Herbert Asbury's story, had been completed and most of the cast assembled.

Would Be "Misconstrued."

"Under normal circumstances the vigor of 'Barbary Coast' would be considered an artistic asset," Mr. Goldwyn said. "In view of today's disturbances, however, it would be detrimentally misconstrued. We will hold production until it can be done with full justice to a great story without having to be penalized for the sins of other pictures and other producers."

Will H. Hays, director of the MPPDA, declined to comment on criticisms of his association, but a spokesman defended its work and predicted Hollywood would show an improved output this season. He indicated there was no possibility that the film industry would come under control of a national censor.

Two church publications, the American Lutheran and the Churchman, made public the texts of editorials which will appear in their July issues condemning the motion picture industry for its indifference to public morals and scoring the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors association for its failure to clean up the screen.

Mrs. Belmont Resigns.

Mrs. August Belmont, president of the Motion Picture Research council, announced her resignation in order that she may devote more time to the national crusade for clean pictures which she opened here last March. She said she would continue as member of the executive board of the council and "do everything in my power to advance its work."

At the same time, Mrs. Belmont disclosed she had arranged a meeting in Washington next Thursday with former Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton and many national organizers to formulate a program to fight unclean movies.

Seize Man, 36, Eloping with Detroit Girl, 19

Charles Yeo, 36 years old, formerly of Weehawken, N. J., was arrested yesterday by the police of the Hudson avenue station at 1208 North Dearborn street. He is alleged to have persuaded Marian Hueston, 19 years old, 1998 Glendale avenue, Detroit, to run away from home with a promise of marriage. The arrest was made at the request of the girl's parents. The police said that Yeo had been arrested previously in New Jersey as a bigamist.

Bereft of Detour Signs; Many Are Ensnarled.

Absence of proper detour or direction signs about the Foster avenue paving project transforms streets adjacent to this important thoroughfare into a labyrinth which baffles most motorists, a survey yesterday disclosed.

With the exception of a few "street closed" signs erected by the state highway department and a profusion of wooden barriers, most of them unmarked, scattered throughout the district, there is no trail marked to lead the bewildered motorist out of this welter of torn up streets.

Consider, for instance, the driver traveling east in Foster avenue, which is United States highway 41 and state route 21, in an effort to reach Sheridan road and the outer drive.

How to Dodge Trap.

He arrives at Clark street and Foster avenue where one portion of the improvement of the latter street begins, extending eastward to Sheridan road.

To avoid being trapped, the autoist does well not to go inside the rectangular area bounded by Balmoral avenue, Clark street, Lawrence avenue and Sheridan road.

If he drives east on Foster avenue, intending to turn south to get to outer drive, he must go south at Clark street and continue to Lawrence avenue, which will take him directly to outer drive. He may proceed farther south and strike east along Wilson avenue or Montrose avenue, both of which run straight through to outer drive.

Plight of Uninitiated.

If one traveling east on Foster avenue wishes to go north on Sheridan road, it is best to detour north at Clark street and go four short blocks to Balmoral avenue, which carries one east to Sheridan.

Unaware of these detours, however, and with no signs to guide him, many a motorist going east starts exploring when he reaches at Clark street the torn up portion of Foster avenue. He turns left into Clark street, going a block north to seek another east and west street on which he may continue his journey to Sheridan road. The street is Farragut. He continues east to Glenwood avenue where, if attempting to turn right, a "road closed" sign greets him.

So he jogs to the left again and eventually comes to Berwyn avenue. He continues east in Berwyn until he comes to Kenmore avenue.

More and More Trouble.

Here two wooden barriers, extending but half way across the street and unmarked, confront him. One is across Berwyn avenue and the other across the east half of Kenmore avenue on the south side of the intersection.

Hesitating to turn north again and thus go still further from his objective, he turns south in Kenmore hoping eventually to reach some east and west street connecting with Sheridan road. With no preliminary warning, however, he finds Kenmore completely closed at Foster avenue, where the paving project is going on.

Here is a scene of confusion as perspiring motorists, many honking their horns impatiently, seek to turn around in a narrow street, both sides of which are lined with parked cars. Tempers are frazzled and fenders scraped during the process, as the motorists seek to extricate their machines from the mess.

Approach from North.

The next move is to continue north for a block past Berwyn, turn east in Balmoral avenue and emerge on Sheridan road. It is possible to gain Sheridan road by continuing east on Berwyn avenue instead of turning south into Kenmore avenue, but a warning barrier discourages this, inasmuch as the end of the street is partly torn up.

Any motorist driving south in Kenmore avenue from other points, of course, finds himself in the same predicament upon reaching Foster avenue. He must turn around and retrace his steps for two blocks to Balmoral avenue.

The Bryn Mawr avenue project is less confusing but no signs are to be seen here. Emerging from Ridge avenue into the intersection of Bryn Bawr and Broadway the motorist may turn either north or south and reach a street which will carry him to Sheridan road. The Bryn Mawr job extends from Broadway to Sheridan road.

Kendrick Harger, district engineer of the state highway department, announced yesterday that the paving on Foster avenue between Central Park and Damen avenues has been completed and will be open to trafic in about a week after the proper curing period has taken place.

CENTRAL PARK CASINO TO STAY, AWAITING ACTION OF THE COURTS

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—Under a stipulation approved today by Supreme Court Justice Edward Dore, further ouster proceedings against the Central Park casino were postponed until Oct. 15, when the case will come up for trial.

The stipulation was agreed to by Corporation Counsel Paul Windels, acting for Park Commissioner Robert Moses, and Henry A. Friedman and Marton M. Mandel, attorneys for the casino management.

Mr. Moses said later the stipulation and court order did not mean that the park department had modified its contention that the casino management should be ousted from city property because of high prices charged its patrons.

"We will go ahead promptly on Oct. 15 with the trial," Mr. Moses said. "If any further court proceedings result from the verdict reached in the trial, every effort will be made by us to expedite final determination of the case. I am of the same opinion now as I have always been regarding the casino. We have got to have a change and we will not give up our efforts in that direction."

Mr. Mandel said he regarded the action of the court in approving the stipulation as a victory for Sidney Solomon and the Dieppe corporation, operating the Central Park casino, the stipulation provides that "the city and the park commissioner will take no steps whatever to interfere with the possession and operation by the plaintiff of the casino restaurant in Central Park until the expiration of thirty days after final determination of this action."

PAROLE EXPERTS RUSH TO ADOPT NEW U. S. LAW

Conference Here Moves to Shut Loopholes.

Making first use of a new federal law designed to aid states in fighting crime, the central states parole conference yesterday took action to permit the return of parole violators to their original domains without encountering the customary red tape.

Illinois, among other commonwealths, has at times found it extremely difficult to obtain the return of a parole violator from a sister state because of legal difficulties.

Experts attending the conference at the Illinois Host house, on the World's Fair grounds, believe they have found a way through the Ashurst law, signed by President Roosevelt June 7.

Philip Lutz Jr., attorney general of Indiana and chairman of the conference's reciprocal relations committee, pointed to one sentence of the Ashurst law as authority for such state bargains.

Provision Raises Hopes.

It read: "The consent of congress is hereby given to any two or more states to enter into agreements for coöperative efforts and mutual assistance in the prevention of crime and in the enforcement of their respective criminal laws, and policies, and to establish such agencies, joint or otherwise, as they may deem desirable for making effective such agreements and compacts."

Mr. Lutz's committee will present its report to the conference this morning. Predictions were that it would immediately be adopted. A. L. Bowen, Illinois director of public welfare, said that the model law would be drafted in time for presentation to the next session of the general assembly next January.

Speakers included Dr. Paul L. Schroeder, state criminologist; A. C. Lindholm, chairman of the Minnesota parole board; Superior Court Judge Francis B. Allegretti of Cook county, and Frank D. Whipp, superintendent of prisons of Illinois.

Today the conference will listen to Indiana's official explanation of John Dillinger's parole. Wayne Coy, secretary to Gov. Paul McNutt, will speak on the parole at the afternoon session.

DILLINGER CAPTORS AT FAIR

Capt. Mark Robbins and Patrolman James Herron, members of the Tucson, Ariz., police department which captured John Dillinger and members of his gang last February, visited the Fair yesterday and spent much of their time in the Arizona state exhibit.

Herron was carrying the gun he took from Dillinger at the time of the capture. It is a .38 caliber Colt automatic and on its side is engraved the inscription: "Taken from John Dillinger, Feb. 12, 1934."

OLD SAXON KING GIVES LOWDOWN ON ADAM; HE 'DYED OF GOWTE'

LONDON, June 27.—(AP)—Adam and Eve had a lot of trouble over an apple, but evidence came forward today that it was gout that finally put the first man in his grave.

This theory was advanced by an ancient manuscript put on display in London's historic College of Arms. The exhibition was opened in celebration of the 450th anniversary of the association, known as the Kings, Heralds and Pursuivants of Arms organization. It dabbles in coats of arms, genealogy, ancient manuscripts, and such.

The lowdown on Adam was offered in an ancient vellum pedigree of a Saxon king, who proudly traced his family tree back to Adam. He added illuminatingly at the end that the ancestor of us all "dyed of gowte."

The manuscript was illustrated by picturesque drawings of Adam and Eve—an apple in their hands—surrounded by an assortment of animals.

The Bible says "and all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years; and he died." [Genesis v., 5.

5,000 PAY TAXES IN DAY, PAYING TOTAL OF $419,471

County Treasurer Thomas D. Nash yesterday opened three more cages in the county building offices yesterday to facilitate tax collections. Yesterday nearly 5,000 men and women appeared there and paid $419,471 in tax bills.

It is anticipated that this number will be increased greatly within a few days when the revised 1931 tax bills, which will reflect the 15 per cent in assessed valuation of homes and small flat buildings, are sent out.

In yesterday's collections there were $265,197 of 1932 taxes and $50,784 of 1931 taxes. The remainder constituted real and perseonal taxes for the years 1928, 1929 and 1930. New hearings on a number of petitions, through which the county treasurer is seeking appointment as receiver for 850 properties, will begin today before Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle in the Circuit court.

IF the front page doesn't get their eye, neither will the want ad section. A newspaper must sell itself as a newspaper before it functions as an advertising medium.

Dealing in the same commodity . . . news . . . as all other Chicago newspapers, the Tribune in Chicago and suburbs alone has 52% more daily circulation than any other Chicago daily newspaper. It has 36% more Sunday circulation than any other Chicago Sunday paper.

Because the Chicago Tribune prints the news this community wants, when they want it, it consistently delivers the best results for want advertisers. The many experiences outlined on this page are typical of the quick action which Tribune want ads produce at low cost.

When you advertise in the Tribune you reach more people . . . and more people with money to spend. You get all the benefits of doing business in the established marketplace in which readers place confidence . . . in which want ads have by far the best opportunity to reach their mark.

Because Tribune want ads get the best results, they are the most economical. If you have something to sell or to trade . . . if you have vacant apartments to rent or a lost article to find, use a Tribune want ad. Call

WHY SEND POLICE FOR PODERJAY? ASKS LA GUARDIA

"Don't Even Know There Was a Murder."

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia today took a left-handed slap at the police handling of the Tufverson-Poderjay case. The mayor was asked if he would authorize the sending of two detectives to Vienna to question Poderjay on his bigamous marriage to Miss Agnes Tufverson, and to get other data in an effort to solve the woman lawyer's disappearance sixteen days after she became a "bride" in New York last December.

Cables from Vienna have reported that Poderjay might have to be released unless an indictment is returned in New York, or formal charges are registered.

Mayor Wants Evidence.

"We ought to have the corpus delicti," the mayor said when asked what he intended to do about extraditing Poderjay. "Certainly there ought to be some indication that a murder was committed within the five counties of New York City.

"There must also be some indication of who committed a murder, if there was one committed. And, fourthly, there must be a requisition on the governor, and, fifthly, a requisition on the secretary of state. Sixthly, a formal demand must be made on the Austrian government.

"If it is an extraditable offense it is entirely within the province of the authorities enforcing the common law [the district attorney's office] and diplomatic channels."

La Guardia Waxes Sarcastic.

Asked directly if he would permit Police Commissioner John F. O'Ryan to send two men to Vienna, La Guardia retorted:

"Why don't they go out and get 'Dutch' Schultz in the meanwhile."

"At least there is an indictment in that case, and I can think of a lot of crimes right here in New York to be solved."

Meanwhile scrapings from a porthole in the steamship Olympic were in the hands of city chemists to determine whether they may have been spattered with the blood of the missing Miss Tufverson. The scrapings were taken from the cabin occupied by Poderjay, who sailed for Europe on Dec. 22 last, presumably without his bride.

"If you want my opinion about the case for what it is worth," said Ernest Churcher, the steward, "I think it is a lot of baloney, to use an American phrase."

The body of a woman was taken from the North river this afternoon. Police were comparing the woman's teeth with those on the dental chart of Miss Tufverson. The body was in such condition police said the only check could be made through the teeth.

HARRIMAN GETS FOUR AND A HALF YEAR SENTENCE

Judge Errs, Returns to Correct Mistake.

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—Joseph W. Harriman, 67 year old former president of the defunct Harriman National bank, was sentenced today by Federal Judge John C. Knox to serve four and a half years in a federal penitentiary. The elderly banker was found guilty last week on all sixteen counts of an indictment charging him with misapplication of the funds of the bank, and falsification of the records.

Orders Four and One-Half Years.

Judge Knox, visibly moved, ordered that Harriman serve four and a half years on each of the sixteen indictment counts, and then hurried from the bench without stating that the prison terms were to run concurrently. Counsel and court officers followed him into his chambers, where the error was corrected. Had it not been, the sentence would have totaled 72 years.

Immediately after the sentencing, George S. Leisure, Harriman's attorney, took steps to carry an appeal to the higher courts. Judge Knox stayed execution of the sentence until next Tuesday meanwhile continuing the bail under which the banker has been free during the trial.

Declines to Grant Bail.

He declined to grant bail pending the filing of the formal appeal, however, referring Mr. Leisure to the circuit court of appeals. The attorney went before Judge Learned Hand of that court, who set next Friday morning for a hearing before the full circuit court bench.

Harriman seemed scarcely to realize his plight today. He took the guilty verdict of the jury last week with a dazed expression, and the sentence today was received with the same blank, uncomprehending look.

Mrs. Harriman, a sweet faced, gray haired woman, is deaf. She did not hear the sentence and there was nothing on the face of her husband to reveal whether the hoped for leniency had been granted.

KENTUCKIAN DECLINES TO TAKE BUS RIDE; THREE SHOT TO DEATH

Prestonburg, Ky., June 27.—(AP)—Three men were shot to death at Lackey, near here, late today when one of the trio declined another's invitation to take a bus ride with him.

The dead are Menifee Bradley, 22; Malcolm Allen, 37, and Len Nolen, 30.

Ep Lafferty, policeman at Garrett, a half-mile from Lackey, said he was told that Bradley stopped at Nolen's restaurant to wait for a bus to Hindman, Ky., and that Bradley asked Allen to accompany him. Allen said he could not go, and the officer was told Bradley then threatened to kill Allen unless Allen went.

"Then you will just have to shoot, because I can't go," Allen is said to have replied. Bradley allegedly fired one shot with his pistol, wounding Allen fatally. Nolen reached for his pistol at this juncture, and Bradley received three shots in the abdomen. Nolen was shot three times in the chest and once in the head. Nolen was killed almost as he finished shooting. Bradley died within twenty minutes and Allen about an hour after the shooting.

INSULL'S TRIAL IN STATE COURT SET FOR OCTOBER

Few at Arraignment; U.S. Acts Monday.

Samuel Insull's trial in the Cook county Criminal court on charges of larceny and embezzlement was set for Oct. 22 by Judge James F. Fardy yesterday.

Next Monday the former utilities magnate will be arraigned formally before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, at which time a date for his trial with 16 others on federal mail fraud charges will be set.

The arraignment in state court yesterday gave an indication of waning interest in the Insull case. Judge Fardy's courtroom was almost deserted, there being none of the curious fans who thronged the courtrooms after his arrival from Turkey a few weeks ago.

Insull was obliged to wait 15 minutes for the judge to arrive, and during this time he chatted amiably with his prospective prosecutor, Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright, and his own attorney, Floyd E. Thompson.

Discuss Lieber Decision.

They discussed the Lieber grand jury case in which the state Supreme court recently reversed itself and dashed Insull's hope of escaping prosecution on the ground that the grand jury which indicted him was illegally drawn.

"It seems that the Supreme court's decision was based on expediency rather than a strict interpretation of the law," Insull observed. Prosecutor Wright and Mr. Thompson offered no comment.

Insull displayed his erudition in matters of jurisprudence, discussing John Marshall, the great chief justice, and indicating a belief that courts act wisely in mixing expediency with technicalities.

Insull Airs Knowledge.

"Most of Marshall's decisions were like that," he said. "Such decisions helped build up the framework of the constitution."

Then Mr. Insull's motion to quash two indictments on the ground that the grand jury was illegally constituted was called, and Judge Fardy remarked that, in view of the Supreme court's decision, there appeared to be no need for arguments.

Mr. Thompson agreed; the clerk sang out the numbers of the indictments, and the defense attorney entered pleas of not guilty for his client.

Martin Insull, brother of Samuel, is also named in the indictments, but a Canadian extradition court limited the charges to $20,000 in one and struck out the other. Martin will go to trial on a third indictment Sept. 17.

BOY, 6, DROWNS IN WELL.

Taylorville, Ill., June 27.—[Special.]—Eugene Nation, 6 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Nation, three miles east of Pawnee, was drowned today when he fell into a well. Fire Chief Troy Grant of this city went to the residence with a pulmotor, but all efforts to revive the child failed.

360 IDLE STAGE FOLK TO GET JOBS AMUSING ILLINOIS INSTITUTIONS

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission has approved work relief assignment of 264 idle actors and singers and 100 musicians to entertain persons in public institutions, hospitals, CCC camps, schools, and other public and philanthropic institutions. Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, who announced the project yesterday, said it was designed to stimulate culturally those whom adversity has deprived of such diversion.

The project is to get under way Monday by organizing actors and musicians into suitable groups for immediate rehersals.

Sixty of the 100 musicians, according to Secretary Reynolds, will form two bands of 30 members each, one to give concerts at state institutions and the other at county institutions.

CITY DISCHARGES CUSACK AND TWO OTHER POLICEMEN

Three city policemen, including Edward J. Cusack, sentenced to 7 years in prison on June 15 for shooting a government witness in a robbery case, were discharged from the force yesterday by orders of the civil service commission.

Cusack, formerly of the Seventh district, was arrested for the hijacking of an interstate shipment of merchandise. He and another defendant in the case took the main government witness for a "ride," shot him and left him for dead on the banks of the Calumet river.

The second policeman discharged was John J. Ahearn of the detective bureau, who was involved in a shooting with Alderman Mathias (Paddy) Bauler, in front of the latter's saloon at 343 West North avenue last Dec. 19. Ahearn's partner, Edward Hayes, was found not guilty.

The third was Policeman Frank Strauss of the Fortieth district who was found guilty of being absent from duty on several occasions without permission from his superior officer.

FLORIDA CHAIN GANG FUGITIVE SET FREE HERE

James La Rue, who escaped from a Florida chain gang, was released yesterday from the Cook county jail with the assurance that as long as he remains in Illinois he will be safe from return to Florida. The state Supreme court ruled a week ago that the record forwarded by Florida officials was legally insufficient to warant extradition in the case.

"Are you planning to go south?" La Rue was asked as he left the jail.

"I am not," he replied, "I wouldn't even live on the south side. I'm going home to my wife and baby and then look for a job."

Five Killed by Chicago Train in Massachusetts

North Grafton, Mass., June 27.—(AP)—Five North Grafton residents were killed by a train this noon at a crossing half a mile east of the North Grafton station of the Boston and Albany railroad station when the Chicago express struck their automobile.

19 ALIENS HERE GRANTED STAYS IN DEPORTATION

Nineteen residents of Chicagoland who were scheduled for deportation on July 1 will be permitted to remain until congress, at the next session, has an opportunity to adopt recommended legislation which might modify their status.

The legislation, proposed by the department of labor, would give the secretary a limited discretion in applying the deportation laws with respect to persons of good character who are not now entitled to remain here. It was defeated in the house at the last session.

Fred D. Schlotfeldt, district director of immigration and naturalization, said yesterday that the amendment would be resubmitted in the next congress and that in the meantime some 465 aliens who are illegally in the country would be permitted to remain. Deportation of these selected individuals would work exceptional family hardships.

8 NEW OFFICERS APPOINTED BY FEDERAL COURT

Appointment of four referees in bankruptcy and four masters in chancery of the federal court was announced yesterday by James H. Wilkerson, senior judge of the United States District court. The appointments were made necessary by the rush of business caused by the newly amended federal bankruptcy law.

Those appointed as referees in bankruptcy are Carl R. Chindblom, Wallace Streeter, Charles True Adams, and Archie H. Cohen. They will serve with the present referees, Garfield Charles and Edmund D. Adcock.

The new masters in chancery are George E. Q. Johnson, former United States district attorney; John Potts Barnes, a former assistant district attorney; Charles A. McDonald, and Irving Herriott. They will serve with Masters Jacob I. Grossman and Thomas J. Peden.

Reopen Cusack Divorce Case as Reconciliation Fails

Los Angeles, Cal., June 27.—[Special.]—After a private session in the chambers of Superior Judge Isaac Pacht, who is hearing their disputed divorce case, Charles Edmund Cusack, son of a wealthy Chicago billboard advertising family, and Mrs. Ann Hamilton Cusack decided that a marital reconciliation would not succeed.

HEARINGS TO START TODAY UPON ROUTE OF NEW SUPERHIGHWAY

Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the city council committee on trafic, announced yesterday that the first of a series of meetings to determine the route of a west side superhighway will be held by his committee this morning in the city hall. The hearings probably will continue throughout the summer.

"Gov. Horner has indicated that the state will construct a superhighway for the west side out of gasoline tax funds," said Ald. Massen. "It is up to the city to determine the route to be followed and the design of the structure, and these are difficult decisions on which snap judgment cannot be given.

"We want every interest to come before the committee and tell us its desire and why so that the aldermen can have full information before voting on these questions. An agreement is vital because a superhighway is going to be built."

HUSBAND GIVEN RIGHT TO STAY AT WIFE'S HOME

Justices of the Appellate court have ruled that George C. Weston, 61 years old, may continue to live in his home at 688 Groveland Park until the end of his life. The decision was made after a niece, Mrs. Alma Van Winkle, had attempted to evict him from the premises.

The eviction suit was started following the death of Weston's wife, Mrs. Grace Reed Weston, last June 14. At the time of her death Mrs. Weston was 70 years old. She married Weston in an elopement in 1931 and separated from him one year later, going to a Beverly Hills sanitarium. She filed suit for a divorce early this year, but died before the hearing. In her will she disinherited her husband, leaving her entire $225,000 estate to her sister, Mrs. Josephine Van Winkle, and her niece.

When Mrs. Van Winkle was successful in obtaining the Municipal court order directing her uncle to vacate the property, Weston's attorney, Frank A. O'Donnell, carried the case to the Appellate court. The justices reversed the lower court ruling, holding that Weston had a life interest in the estate.

GEMS AND FALSE TEETH SOLD AT POLICE AUCTION

The auction sale of property recovered by the police department during the last year and not claimed, conducted yesterday in the auction rooms, 2200 Cottage Grove avenue, gave the appearance of an old fashioned rummage sale. Automobile accessories, radios, jewelry, household articles, clothing, and false teeth were some of the articles sold.

The voice of the auctioneer, A. J. Crowley, was hoarse as he went through the auction formula in disposing of a roomful of property. A woman bought a leather handbag for a dollar and a typewriter for $5. Other bargains were obtained from the time the auction started at 10 o'clock in the morning until late in the afternoon.

James McSweeney, police secretary, will receive a report today as to the amount of money obtained from the sale.

DR. C. B. SAWYER, DENTAL PIONEER, CLOSES OFFICE

Jacksonville, Ill., June 27.—[Special.]—Dr. Charles B. Sawyer, dental surgeon of this city who has supplied the museum of Northwestern university with many old dental instruments, closed his office here today. He was demonstrator of prosthetic dentistry in 1887 and 1888 at the Chicago College of Dental Surgeons, located at Madison and Dearborn streets.

Dr. Sawyer read many of the proof sheets for Dr. Greene Vardaman Black, father of modern dentistry to whom a statue was erected at the south end of Lincoln park near Clark street, Chicago.

Dr. Arthur D. Black, son of that pioneer, is dean of Northwestern university dental school.

Dr. Sawyer recalled the days when a farmer would drink a pint of brandy just before having a tooth pulled.

Dr. Sawyer is a member of several medical societies. He will begin his retirement tomorrow at his home, 355 South Diamond street.

Percy King, 64 years old, a Gary building contractor, was robbed of $100 by two men who seized him at State and Van Buren streets early yesterday.

FISH BAR SEEKS PERMIT TO OPEN SIDEWALK CAFE

The first application for permission to open a sidewalk café on Michigan avenue was received yesterday by south park officials. Bert Thorud, manager of a fish bar at 32 South Michigan avenue, sought the right to open such a café with twelve tables.

William L. Bell, acting superintendent of south parks, said he was unable to predict when the permit would be granted. "We are not sure that the south parks can authorize the opening of sidewalk cafés if liquor is to be sold in them," he explained. "We must wait for an opinion of the park district attorney." George E. Gorman, the attorney, was out of the city yesterday.

At the Stevens hotel Otto Eitel, manager, reported that he is preparing to seek permission of the park district to open a café with 26 tables on Michigan avenue.

FINE DR. ZEISLER AFTER DISORDER AT CONSULATE

Dr. Martin Zeisler, 36 years old, a physician with offices at 3256 Lawrence avenue, who was arrested June 11 after a demonstration in front of the German consulate's office, 520 North Michigan boulevard, was found guilty of disorderly conduct by a jury in Municipal Judge William E. Helander's court yesterday and fined $5 and costs.

Dr. Zeisler testified at the hearing that he was chairman of the Albany Park Anti-Facist group and was on his way to the consulate office to present a resolution protesting against Chancellor Hitler's policy of racial persecution. He said that in front of the office the police stopped him and learning of his mission assaulted him and took him to the East Chicago avenue station where they kicked and beat him.

Sergts. Harry Scholz, John Adair and George Larson of the industrial squad testified that they dispersed a number of well known communists who had gathered in front of the place but that Dr. Zeisler refused to "move on." They declared that he struggled with them and offered resistance when he was placed under arrest. They denied assaulting him. A motion for a new trail will be held tomorrow.

Threatens Bremer, Given 10 Years in U. S. Prison

St. Louis, Mo., June 27.—(AP)—Jack W. Neely, a former convict, pleaded guilty in the Federal court here today to writing extortion letters to Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, and was sentenced to ten years in Leavenworth penitentiary. One asked $200,000, the other $2,500 after the banker had been released by kidnapers. The last letter threatened Bremer, his wife, and daughter with "grave danger."

"Newspapers are the sentinels of the liberties of our country."—Benjamin Bush.

THE STATESMAN OF MONTPELIER.

Virginians and their guests are at the burial ground in Montpelier today to do honor to James Madison, fourth President of the United States, who died June 28, nearly a hundred years ago, lacking two, on his Orange county plantation.

If it is inconsiderate of the full justice due to others to call Madison, as he is frequently called, the Father of the Constitution, he was in the first rank of that authorship and responsibility. Virginia was the philosophical source of the new nation. Madison was one of the Virginia thinkers.

The New Englanders were realists. They found a situation they did not like. They did not go to their libraries to discover why they would do what they were about to do or what would come of it or how to justify it. Their progenitors virtually seceded from Great Britain as they crossed the sea with the charter, the officers and the stockholders of the joint stock company of Massachusetts Bay, a corporation which was to become a state. They were children of two English revolutions—of Cromwell and of Orange. They did not stop to philosophize. They took down the musket.

With Hamilton as a towering alien alongside, the group of Virginians undertook to discover the reasons which might ease the conscience in revolt against authority and thereby sustain the authority which followed, which would prove the right of people to their freedom and give enduring foundation to a government of free men.

In their day the ideal was high and desperate. Could men cut loose from every conception of authority and make themselves wholly its source? Many planned societies had preceded their intention. Feudalism was a plan in which each man, villein or lord, had his place, his precise and detailed duties and responsibilities all written into codes, all articulating and producing order. Roman law before feudalism had produced a planned society; societas and universitas, guilds and corporations, in which each man was put in his place, with his duties and responsibilities to his government and his fellows.

Wherever Madison and his fellow philosophers looked for precedents for what they sought to embed in principles and work out in action they could find words but no deeds. No one had put equality of rights, privileges and opportunity, subject only to the inequalities of mind and body, into a body of substantive law. So they proceeded to do the undone thing.

Magna Charta was a limited charter. Cromwell tried a plan of government and gave it up. English liberties were parliamentarian and neither complete nor secure. No theory of monarchy, aristocracy, dictatorship, fascism, proletarianism, sectarianism, or ecclesiasticism was tolerated in the program for humanity as worked out by these American philosophers. They cut themselves away but not adrift from everything which had controled in the world before their time.

It wasn't of much consequence in what they did that philosophers from the time of Plato to that of Rousseau and Voltaire had tried to prove that there were ideal or natural rights of man. None had succeeded in putting these ideals and rights in the living flesh.

No mistake could be greater than that of the idea that Jefferson, Madison, Mason, and the other American philosophers had not considered the integrated and coördinated society when they made the free man a reality instead of a remote possibility. They were acquainted with every attempt previously made to put in submissive regiments all men for a common purpose. It had been done under the church. It had been done with feudalism and under monarchy. Before their time there had been labor laws, trade laws, doles, regulations of competition, controled monopolies, price fixing, suppressed initiative, and subsidized enterprise.

These American philosophers did not create the free man without a knowledge of the planned society. They created him as an answer to it, a defiance of it, a betterment of it. Madison, a major force in the Virginia convention which set the example for the American constitutional convention, was devoted to the principles of liberty, the yeast of all worth while life.

His report of the federal constitutional convention is the source of virtually all that is known of those great deliberations which brought forth the only charter of human liberties definitly formulated for the guaranty of the free man. Heresy to this document reverts to forms of tyranny and despotism which Madison knew and understood in their essence better than Tugwell, Wallace, Johnson, Ickes, etc., could possibly know.

The old American philosophers were better informed. Their thoughts were clearer. Their understanding was deeper. Their work was more lasting. The attempt to undo it is a reversion to the errors which they understood and rejected. The New Deal is not new. It is the old deal discarded by the builders.

BABES IN THE WOODS.

It can be imagined with what embarrassment Mr. Farley, P. M., N. C., S. C., P. P., F. A. [no first aid to these titles will be given], went to Hyde Park to remind his chief that there are elections in November. No one in the New Deal knows how elections are carried. The New Dealers are fresh from the academic cloister. Mr. Farley's cloister was Madison Square Garden. He's almost as much a farmer as the undersecretary of agriculture, Dr. Tugwell, and he concedes that Dr. Tugwell is as much of a politician as he is himself.

The elections are important. When the people choose their congressmen in November they will for the first time act consciously upon the changes made in their governmental forms, principles and practices. They had no warning of what was impending when they voted in November, 1932. Then they thought they were voting Republican politicians out and Democratic politicians in. They did not know they were electing the professors. They did not know Mr. Farley was a professor. They thought he was a politician. Now there are professors, all professors; of politicians none.

The professors, naively, have provided themselves with the biggest campaign fund in party history, seven billions or thereabouts. If Mr. Farley discovers what a precinct is and does a little figuring with a pencil he will find that the pro rata is considerable; the quid pro quo can be made handsome. One of the discarded national committeemen might whisper to him how to go about it, Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, Robert Jackson of New Hampshire, or even Nellie Ross of Wyoming.

If Prof. Farley, Prof. Tugwell, Prof. Ickes, and the other academicians can hook up with a little surreptitious advice from the old dealers bounced out of the New Deal they ought to be able to put the subsidized vote in the bag before election. The babes in the woods may find their way home with the bacon.

STUDENTS AT LARGE.

The University of Chicago announces that hereafter it will admit what are to be called "students at large." If they can demonstrate competence to absorb university education the customary requirement of high school credits will be waived. Students at large may take examinations if they wish to, but they need not do so. Likewise, they may work for degrees or not, as they choose. Apparently they will differ from the "unclassified students" of previous generations in that their presence will be encouraged rather than discouraged by the university administration.

It is expected that the relaxing of the rules will lead to the enrollment of many adults who have been prevented from entering college by formalities or discouraged from continuing in college by the arbitrary requirements imposed upon candidates for degrees. Perhaps one effect of the new regulation will be an increase in attendance and therefore in university revenues. Perhaps another, and in the long run a far more important result, will be an increase in the average age of college students. That would be most desirable because it would impose a sterner discipline upon college professors.

As matters stand, the college professor, particularly in the social sciences, can and frequently does get away with murder. He lectures to adolescent innocents. Their youth tends to make disagreement an impertinence. They cannot check him from experience. This is bad for them and worse for him. Dogmatism becomes his habit. Disagreement, however well founded, is resented. The tyrannical behavior of Woodrow Wilson and the current professoriat indicates what can happen to a professor's mind from too much contact with the immature.

The students at large may serve as a greatly needed corrective. If so, this innovation may prove to be an important contribution to American education.

THE REAL MAE WEST.

Among Mr. Kinsley's discoveries in excavating Hollywood was that of the real Mae West, as she or the publicity department desires her to be real, a heart of gold in the finest tradition. Miss West's personal compensation for Diamond Lil is the distaf, the hearth, domesticity, plain cooking, and the consolations of a devout life. Her favorite text is from Proverbs: "She perceiveth that her merchandise is good; her candle goeth not out by night."

IT SHOULD BE FORBIDDEN.

Horse drawn vehicles are worse than an anachronism in the loop. They are a public nuisance. A teaming company saves a few dollars at the expense of all other users of the downtown streets. A plodding team holds back street cars and motors geared to modern requirements and the small saving of its owner is turned into loss in money and convenience that is large in the aggregate.

Parking in the loop is rigidly restricted and public policy urges every practicable measure to expedite movement in the congested districts of the city. Why should an exception be made in the case of the outdated horse drawn vehicle?

Editorial of the Day

LAYING OF THE DUST.
[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Thirty-five years ago there was no vehicle on our streets more familiar than the sprinkling wagon. Boys and girls now do not even know what it looked like. They are perfectly familiar with the term water wagon, but its derivation is unknown to them.

We did not have hard surfaced streets and in dry weather they were so dusty it was necessary to sprinkle them to lay the dust. The storekeepers on Fourth street in 1890 complained that the clouds of dust were ruinous to trade and asked for more and larger sprinklers. In the suburbs the sprinkling wagons were operated as private enterprise, the owner of the sprinkler charging the householders so much a month to dampen the street in front of their residences. Now the sprinkler is as extinct as the mammoth or the dodo. In his collection of vehicles of the past Henry Ford might well have one of the old water wagons.

The thing to be remembered is that we have conquered dust. Dusty highways were the rule up to a time within the memory of all men over 45 years old. If you took a country ride it was necessary to wear a long linen garment called a "duster" in order to protect your clothes. Dust was an intolerable nuisance. Probably in 1890, if the people had been told that in 1934 there would be no heavy dust in the city or on the country roads, even in the driest weather, they would have thought such a thing beyond possibility. But then, if you had told them of the moving and sound pictures, or of the radio, they would have thought you equally crazy, talking the way Jules Verne wrote.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE PANIC out at Hollywood over the clean movie campaign is said to be so extreme that the only plays now being filmed are "How to Know the Wild Flowers," "The Small Family Cook Book," "The Chicago Telephone Directory," "Two Hundred Tasty Ways of Cooking Fish," "Shorter Course in Analytics and Calculus," "Rollo in the British Isles," "Elsie Dinsmore at College," "Influence of the Moon Upon the Tides," and "The Amateur Gardener's Handbook."

"CORN POPS on Stalk in Nebraska Heat."—Headline. Thank goodness, that's over! It had to happen sooner or later and now we can all turn over and go back to sleep.

"AND FEVVEN'S SAKE! don't tell any of the patients," said the attendant at the asylum, "that you are a piece of white paper." "Why not?" queried the startled visitor. "Because," replied the attendant, "these patients here all think they're rubber stamps and if they think anything is a piece of white paper they slam themselves right down on it." "I understand," said the visitor, "this must be the congressional ward?" "Oke," said the attendant.

AFTERLIGHT.

How many times these hours will be remembered
When we shall sit before a fire that dies,
Gazing into the mind's illumined distance,
O love, with quiet, deeply wistful eyes.

Strangely the pain, the blundering and heartache
Will be as wasting shadows impotent
At last to mar the loveliness and laughter,
The bright unutterable wonderment.

When we shall weep a little, love, remembering,
It will not be old griefs that bring our tears
But all the grace and glory of these hours
Sending their afterlight across the years.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

IT MUST BE PERPLEXING to be a beauty queen judge these days. The gals have finally got the thing down to a fine point and they all look so exactly alike, and dress alike, and talk alike, and walk alike, how in the world are the judges going to say which one is any different from the other? But maybe it's the one that shows the most teeth?

"DO YOU RECALL that night in June," were the words of the dear old song, "upon the Danube river?" If the Danube river was anything like the rivers in these United States are today that night in June wouldn't have been so exciting. They probably had to get out of the boat and walk ashore with the sand getting into their shoes. Nothing is so really unpoetical as a river that hasn't got any water in it. Say what you will, but a river without water in it is no more romantic than a cow pasture or a dandelion patch.

"BEER INDUSTRY Price Cutting Called Problem."—Headline. Wish we had a problem like that in the Scotch industry. And the rye and the bourbon industry. To say nothing of the sherry and port industry.

NOM CHARMANT.

("The party was met at Southampton by Ronald Dimple, M. P., for ———")

Thou'rt a joy to me, Dimple, M. P.,
And some boy to me, Dimple, M. P..
For I cannot but tingle
To make up a jingle,

TOM P. FLYNN'S ASSISTANT.

WHY INFORMATION CLERKS Have to Be Put in Straitjackets. She was a lady tourist from California and she hurried up to the information desk and said, "I'm going through to Pittsburgh, but I want to detour to Springfield, Ohio." "It's well off your route," said the clerk. "I've got to go there, anyhow," said the lady tourist; "I'm writing a paper about Abraham Lincoln for my woman's club and I want to visit his old home town." Which proves that I wouldn't last fifteen minutes as a clerk at an information desk. I would have brightened up and said, "Oh, you're thinking of Shakespeare!"

NOW, WHAT WEEK is this? It's just got to be some kind of week! Hastily running through the news of the day in all the exchanges and seeing very little about it, one may be pardoned for jumping to the conclusion that this is "Ease Up on Gen. Johnson Week."

MOST of the heavy rains that have descended lately seem to be over Lake Michigan. But Lake Michigan has plenty of water while lots of farming country is black with the drouth. Which illustrates so well the truth of the old saying, "To him that hath shall be given while to him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath not." Nature is like that. (Dr. Tugwell please write.)

RECOVERY.

I who loved you mightily
Now approach you quietly.
I who was all heat and pain
Am become myself again.

Little does it trouble me
Where you walk, or whom you see,
What you say the long day through.
I am far removed from you.

Now the whips that lashed me sore
Have no power any more,
And the countless knives you fling
Do not cut enough to sting.

I have left you, and gone on,
Seeking now a different dawn;
Free of love and free of pain,
Free to be myself again.

TOO MUCH FOOD.

Bad health habits are sometimes acquired by following lines of least resistance. One cannot work hard all day and then burn the midnight oil and do so for long. Burning the candle at both ends may give temporarily a brighter light, but it is the added illumination that too often precedes total darkness.

Too much food may place as great a strain on the system as too much exercise, both resulting in overfatigue. Overloading the digestive system may be compared to the unskilled stoker who chokes his fire by piling on too much fuel. Overeating usually results in storing food within the body. The tissues cannot use excess baggage. Furthermore, overeating taxes the excretory functions of the body and lays a particularly heavy load upon the liver and the kidneys. This liver and kidney load calls for more blood, as increased activity of any part of the body demands increased circulation.

The burning of food within the system calls for more oxygen, just as the burning of more fuel in the furnace calls for a heavier draft. A sudden or steady gain in weight just as a sudden or steady loss in weight should be promptly investigated. In excessively fat people there is a tendency for the heart muscle to become infiltrated with fat, causing the muscle fibers to wither [atrophy], thus weakening the contracting power of the heart.

In this eating matter we are inclined to consult our appetite rather than to consider our health. We should be concerned with how little food may maintain normal body weight and activity. A careful analysis of the food intake of normal individuals will show, as a rule, a daily consumption of 20 to 30 per cent more food than the body requires. This has been shown by surveys made among classes of individuals. Hunger in the normal adult may not be an accurate criterion as to whether or not one needs food, and cannot be safely relied upon. It is far wiser to stop eating before that "full feeling" is experienced. Substantial, ordinary food is usually the more nourishing delicacies the more pleasing. Few of us realize that our total daily food consumption is not alone that eaten at the home table. Account must be taken of the bit of candy, the bar of chocolate, and the ice cream soda, all of which may amount in calories during a day to startling proportions. When food is consumed in this form a corresponding decrease in amount must be observed at regular meal time.

There are, of course, those who need an excess of food in order to build the body to a resistance that will withstand infection or disease, but even in this situation food is only one factor in combating infection and may even, unless properly regulated, prove a deterring factor to recovery. Much will depend on the state of the digestive system.

A small proportion of our population is definitly undernourished. This proportion, however, is minimal when one considers the wide economic distress. In the absence of disease most adults will find that less food than is usually consumed will maintain the body weight at a normal level and will result in greater muscular and mental alertness.

BABY AT 45.

J. F. writes: Would it be safe for me to have my first baby? I am 45 years old.

REPLY.

You may not become pregnant. If you should, and if you are in good health, a well trained obstetrician can care for you properly. A Caesarean section may be necessary. It would be wise to consult an obstetrician before the onset of pregnancy.

BELCHING.

J. M. P. writes: Lately I have been troubled every few minutes with belching. What are the causes?

REPLY.

Belching is usually due to air that is being swallowed with the food. Eat slowly and take but little fluid with your meals.

PARTICIPATING POLICIES.

Chicago, June 5.—[Friend of the Insured.]—1. How do participating policies differ from nonparticipating?

2. When and how are dividends paid? H. D.

1. An examination of participating and nonparticipating policies issued by the same company shows that they are identical in their general provisions with the exception of the dividend stipulations. This clause reads as follows: "This policy shall be entitled to share in the divisible surplus of the participating business of the company at the end of each policy year while it is in force."

2. Dividends are payable annually, and can be applied, at the option of the insured, in one of three ways which are usually stipulated in the policy.

1. Dividends can be applied to the payment of any premiums or paid in cash.

2. Applied to the purchase of paid-up additions to the policy.

3. Left with the company to accumulate at a rate of interest declared by the company. Accumulated dividends with interest will be payable with the sum insured, or may be withdrawn on demand at any time during the continuance of the policy; but no premium shall be construed as paid by reason of dividends remaining with the company. In the event that no choice has been made, dividends are usually applied in accordance with the first option.

FORM OF POLICY.

Chicago, June 5.—[Friend of the Insured.]—What is the difference between the written and printed portions of a policy? Can the agent change the printed portion in any way? B. G.

The written portion is a description of the risk and the property to be insured and its location. It takes precedence over the printed portion, which contains the conditions and provisions of the policy. The policy is only issued through, and not by, the agent, and he therefore has no more right to change the policy than the policy holder would have to run his pen through any condition he may object to. Such a proceeding would instantly void the policy.

BENEFITS OF AIR CONDITIONING.

Chicago, June 22.—The self-assumed subtitle of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is evidence enough that it is not handicapped by an excess of modesty. However, if any one thinks that it is overdoing the beating of the drum about the newly installed air conditioning equipment throughout its office building that person has not yet fully realized how much may be added to the joy of living by control of summer and winter temperatures of the air and the amount of moisture it shall contain.

How great a part in restoring business prosperity the general adoption of air conditioning may play is open to argument. The money must come from somewhere to purchase the equipment. The technological difficulties are now so far mastered and available as to be within the realm of reasonable demand by office workers and apartment dwellers and likewise factory workers. Of course, it is merely a matter of time until the use of such equipment is as general as electric lighting is now. But it needs a lively appreciation of this boon and still more it needs pioneers like THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to lead the way and demonstrate what can be done to alleviate climatic discomfort.

Apart from the matter of allaying such discomfort, the effect upon health must not be forgotten. Sufferers from pruritis, from rhinitis, sinus disease, bronchitis, and other respiratory ailments will reap rich dividends from the investment and the need for medical treatments will be proportionately lessened, which is all to the good.

The erection of the Chicago Tribune building was a splendid architectural example to Chicago and the instalment of an effective air conditioning plant therein blazes a new trail, sets a new record and example that may well justify the pride with which the accomplishment is set forth and reiterated.

FRIGHTENED BY THE TRUTH.

Chicago, June 15.—I came to the Fair last year with a party of about forty. We were looking forward to A Century of Progress and to better times. Indeed, better times seemed to accompany us to Chicago. But when we settled ourselves in this city a feeling of depression descended upon us, caused by one reason only: your paper. Surely the world was coming to an end.

This is a new Fair. Conditions are better than they were last year. We have more money and we come to the Fair again to spend more money. And we find your paper worse! Surely the world will end tomorrow. You have a large portion of the visitors to this city in such a state of mind that they are afraid to spend a nickel more than absolutely necessary for fear they will need that nickel when they return home.

The world is not coming to an end. The newspapers in other cities we enter when en route to Chicago always have a cheerful note. It is only when in Chicago that we get a sour mouth. It's a fine thing to issue a paper like that the first thing in the morning. How do Chicagoans manage to start the day off in a cheerful mood? PAUL ADAMS.

THE VIRGIN ISLANDS SHOW.

Chicago, June 19.—I was certainly surprised to see at the Fair, in the Hall of States, a purported exhibit of the Virgin Islands, which is displaying and offering for sale products of the Puerto Rican industry, such as cigars, drawn work, fruit juices and many others.

As a straight shooter American and a friend of Puerto Rico, which I visit regularly every year, it seems to me the authorities at the Fair should stop this kind of thing which does not bring any credit to the Virgin Islands and certainly harms Puerto Rico. Americans, as a rule, do not know the difference between the Virgin Islands and wonderful little Puerto Rico, and the way the Virgin Islands exhibit is run it certainly savors of bad faith, since it clearly deceives the visitors as to what these islands, that are costing Uncle Sam so many millions a year to keep them from starving, really are.

Right at the entrance, pictures of Puerto Rico are displayed featuring San Juan's beautiful entrance with Morro castle standing majestically at the entrance to the harbor. There are also many other pictures of Puerto Rico with signs on the top reading "Virgin Islands." FRIEND OF PUERTO RICO.

MR. HENNING'S DISPATCHES.

Chicago, June 22.—Will you please accept the appreciation of a university student for the articles and broadcasts by Arthur Sears Henning? Newspaper articles have had to take the place of hitherto infallible textbooks for this year's student of political economy, and Mr. Henning's concise information has filled that need exactly. I have read THE TRIBUNE since I was 4, but it proved its greatest value during the preparation for last week's examination.

WATER SUPPLY.

Chicago, June 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Should every house have its own individual water supply pipe, running from the street to the house? 2. My house, and the one west, have only one pipe which is divided under the sidewalk, on my side, so the man next door has his shut-off on my property. 3. Can you tell me what can be done about this as we get very little water upstairs. C. T.

1. We know of no law requiring it.

2. Such a peculiar arrangement may have originated in an agreement between the property owners and the facts may be such that subsequent purchasers may be bound by the agreement.

3. Try to ascertain the history of the situation and then take the matter up with the city water department.

ABANDONED BUILDING.

Chicago, June 22.—[Friend of the People.]—There is an old frame building next door to my property which is an eyesore and a detriment to the neighborhood. It has been unoccupied for several years. Windows are broken and the inside wrecked. Please see what can be done to have this removed. M. M.

Our inspector reports that a notice has been sent to the owner to board up all openings on the building in order to prevent vandals and other trespassers from entering the building. JOHN E. ERICSSON, Department of Buildings.

GERMAN SECRET POLICE ARREST AID OF VON PAPEN

Seize Man Who Got Data for Attack on Nazis.

BERLIN, June 27.—(AP)—The arrest by German secret police of Edgar Jung, the publicist who assembled material for Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen's Marburg speech criticizing Nazi policies, was revealed tonight.

Jung was arrested yesterday morning at his apartment, where before accompanying secret agents he requested to be allowed to go to the bathroom of his quarters and wrote "secret police" on the wall.

The feeling in political circles was that radicals of the Nazi party, stirred to action by the vice chancellor's promonarchist statements of June 17, had seized one of his collaborators, not daring to touch Von Papen himself.

It was intimated at Von Papen's office, however, that Jung had carried his tongue rather loosely and probably said something that offered secret police an excuse to nab him.

STORM TROOPS ATTACKED

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 27.—Rivalry between the Nazi storm troops and the older and more conservative war veterans' organization, the "steel helmets," threatened to flare into open violence today. Police street patrols were strengthened in the German capital and all police leaves were canceled. Steel helmet organizations were prohibited in the Ruhr district.

Franz Seldte, reichminister of labor and leader of the veterans, publicly attacked tactics of the storm troopers and backed up Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen in the latter's recent broadside against Nazi policies in behalf of monarchism. He demanded that efforts to bring about dissolution of the veterans' organization be stopped.

Hitler Sides with Seldte.

Recognizing the seriousness of the situation created by the strained relations between the two "armies," Chancellor Hitler conferred this noon with Seldte. Reports of the results of the meeting indicated that the chancellor sided with his labor chief and decided not only to refuse to listen to requests for the dissolution of the veterans' organization but to act to prevent further encroachments on its activities by the storm troopers.

Following his conference with Seldte, Hitler met Von Papen. This lent further strength to rumors that the storm troopers themselves are doomed to dissolution and that Hitler is casting his lot with the more conservative Nazi elements. The storm troops will start a compulsory vacation of one month July 1, during which their uniforms will be stored, and it is reported that they are in any event slated for a big slash in numbers.

Recalls Pact in March.

Seldte, in his public statement today, recalled that on March 28 he joined with Hitler, President von Hindenburg and Col. Ernest Roehm, chief of the storm troops, in a signed agreement guaranteeing the preservation of the integrity of the steel helmet body, which then became known technically as the "National Socialist Veterans' League."

This agreement, Seldte pointed out, assured the veterans they would be considered "a member of the commonwealth with equal rights and duties" in the Nazi state.

The labor minister referred to the Pomeranian clash which resulted in the imprisonment of a steel helmeter for assaulting a storm trooper named Quetzin.

Asks Honor for Vets.

"It is not the desire of an old fighter at the front to create difficulties," Seldte declared. "But the wide publicity given the Quetzin clash is only a link in the chain of unfriendly actions against members of the steel helmet. Veterans of the war are honored and respected in all countries. They should as a matter of course be also honored in Germany. We demand acknowledgement of our services and a possibility to do our share to build up the third reich."

The Steel Helmet, a veterans' organ, published under the eye of Seldte, also lashed out today at the storm troopers. It rejected the version that a steel helmeter attacked Quetzin and offered to prove that instead storm troopers attacked the veteran.

Long Rivalry.

The current struggle for existence between the storm troopers and the veterans, who are Nationalists and monarchists at heart, is the outgrowth of a rivalry which dates back to the days of the republic. The veterans looked down upon the younger group as upstarts who had never smelled the smoke of battle. Nevertheless they were forced into a merger with the Nazi troops in September, 1933, although their separate identity has never been destroyed.

The competition between the rival organizations came to a head when Berlin storm troopers invaded a celebration of the birthday of former Kaiser Wilhelm and attacked the one time imperial officers who were present. Recently the state police in the government district of Arnsberg imposed a ban on steel helmet meetings. This was followed by the clash in Pomerania.

PORTRAIT OF MARION DAVIES MUST STAY IN EXHIBIT, VOLPI ORDERS

VENICE, June 27.—(AP)—The portrait of Marion Davies, American motion picture actress, must remain in the American section of the international art exhibition here, it was ruled today by Count Volpi di Misurata, exposition president.

His decision was communicated immediately to Mrs. Juliana Force, director of the Whitney museum of New York, who had objected to the presence of the Davies portrait. Mrs. Force, now at London, said it had been hung without her authorization, and she threatened to remove other pictures if the portrait remained.

Italian authorities, in carrying out the ruling of Count Volpi, will resist efforts to take down other pictures. The count ruled that everything must remain as it is in the American pavilion. The portrait of Miss Davies, if Count Volpi's order is not amended, will remain in the vestibule of the American pavilion. A card explaining it is not a part of the Whitney collection will remain under it.

NAZIS TO REMOVE 400,000 JOBLESS OUT OF BERLIN

BERLIN, June 27.—(AP)—Some 400,000 jobless Berliners, for whom the government has been unable to find employment, are to be shifted to adjoining provinces. They will engage in road construction, soil improvement and other emergency work.

Young people are to be put to work on farms and in households, while married men and older bachelors will engage in furthering the emergency program.

Any person refusing to accept a job in the country will have his unemployment dole greatly reduced or canceled altogether.

The employer in the country may deduct 50 pfennings [about 20 cents] daily for room and board, but only one warm meal daily is required. Wages will vary from 80 to 120 marks [$32 to $48] monthly on a 48 hour a week basis. Ten marks [$4] weekly will be deducted from each worker's wages and sent to the family he left behind. In addition, if necessary, the family will receive a dole of 75 pfennings [30 cents] weekly for a wife and one child, and 2.75 marks [$1.10] for each additional child.

ACCUSES NAZIS OF PLAN TO GAS LONDON AND PARIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 27.—Sensational allegations that the German war office has been conducting experiments in London and Paris with the object of infecting cities with mustard gas or bacteria in wartime are made by Wickham Steed, former editor of the London Times. The allegations are made in the July issue of "Nineteenth Century," a monthly review out today.

The experiments were declared to be based on the utilization of strong air currents set up in the underground railway systems of the two capitals. Steed quotes from secret documents in his possession from which it appears that the experiments were made with a harmless germ which is easily identified.

German agents are reported to have ascertained the results by stationing themselves at various points. Harmless germs were said to have been released from automobiles, after which culture plates were used underground to determine the percentage of germs sucked into the subways.

ITALY STAGGERS UNDER TAX LOAD; GOLD FLOWS OUT

Note Circulation Is Cut to Keep Cover Ratio.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, June 27.—How much longer Premier Mussolini and his government will be able to stagger along under their increasing financial burdens is the question on the lips of every one in Italy.

The statement of the Bank of Italy, issued today, shows that gold reserves are 6½ billion lire [$556,075,000]. At the beginning of this year, the bank had reserves of over 7 billion lire [$598,850,000]. A total of 75 million lire in gold [$6,406,250] was lost during the period between June 10 and June 20.

Reduce Note Circulation.

Against this diminishing supply of gold, which is evidently being used to cover the adverse balance of trade, bank note circulation on June 20 had been reduced to 12,480,000,000 lire [$1,067,000,000], a drop of 400 million lire [$34,220,000] in 10 days. The decrease was to maintain the legal percentage between gold reserves and note circulation. Four or five years ago bank note circulation was around 17 billion lire.

These figures are causing dismay in financial and industrial circles of northern Italy. The Turin newspaper La Stampa declares Italy's adverse trade balance will reach $128,325,000 for the first six months of this year, and states with unusual frankness:

"When exports and receipts from tourists and the movement of interest and capital do not put at the disposal of Italians money to meet the obligations which they have contracted abroad, there are only three ways out—"first, contract more debts, second, ship gold, and third, go bankrupt." Germany Already has gone through this cycle."

Meanwhile, La Stampa declares, Italy is living beyond her means, and calls for a halt in unnecessary purchases abroad, one way of stopping gold losses.

Predict Call for Securities.

From Milan also come reports that financial circles there are disturbed over intimations that the government is about to take drastic steps to deplete its holding of foreign securities. Reports are current there that the Italian treasury will compel every holder of Italian securities floated in a foreign market to turn them in and receive in exchange the equivalent of the money in government stock floated in the home market. The recent order compelling holders of foreign securities and Italian securities floated in a foreign market to register them with the government seems to be the cause of Milan's alarm.

A forced exchange apparently would apply to more issues than the Morgan loan for $100,000,000 at 7 per cent, floated in New York in 1927 to stabilize the lire. This loan, due in 1951 and now largely held in Italy, was quoted at par the first of the year but now stands at 92.

BRITAIN BRANDS GENEVA DISARM PARLEY FAILURE

Announces Plans to Build Up Air Force.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 27.—The British government has given up hope of a disarmament convention at Geneva and has decided it can no longer delay increasing the air defense of the country. Plans and arrangements to strengthen the air force are already fully under way.

This announcement was made in the house of commons tonight by Lord Londonderry, secretary for air.

The subject was brought up by Viscount Elibank, who asked the government to consider, in consultation with the dominions, the desirability of creating immediately an imperial air force for the common defense of the empire. He was supported by Lord Mottistone, who recommended that Britain's air force be immediately doubled.

Air Chief Rejects Proposal.

Lord Londonderry turned down Elibank's suggestion. The dominions, he said, are autonomous and sovereign bodies in matters of defense, and he felt it would be incompatible with the self-government of each and the interests of all to attempt to set up a central defense force for the empire. Close coöperation with dominion air forces, however, had already been arranged, he said, and was being developed.

Until recently there had been reason to believe that something might be achieved from the disarmament conference rendering unnecessary any substantial addition to the air force, Lord Londonderry said. Now, however, the situation has become "all too clear. We can no longer hope that an international convention will solve the problems agitating the whole of Europe."

Censorship on Navy Talks.

Meanwhile, alarmed at the reaction abroad to the recent British demand on the United States for a bigger British navy, the government, apparently in agreement with the American delegates, clamped down a strict censorship on future Anglo-American discussions.

Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, when questioned in the house of commons tonight about the negotiations, replied:

"The conversations are entirely confidential. There is no shorter road to failure for any conference than to tell before the time is ripe what is being done."

DE VALERA PARTY LEADS VOTE FOR IRISH COUNCILS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 27.—(AP)—The Fianna Fail, President De Valera's party, was leading the forces of Gen. Owen O'Duffy two to one in yesterday's local elections on the basis of returns today.

De Valera's party apparently had won 40 seats in the county councils. O'Duffy's opposition party had won 27, Labor had won 15, and 12 independents were elected.

O'Duffy's men apparently were more successful in the southern sections of the Free State and were leading everywhere in County Cork.

POLAND TO SPLIT UP BIG ESTATES IN TAX ARREARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, June 27.—The creation of thousands of new peasant homesteads, from large estates unable to pay their taxes, and more energetic enforcement of the land reform bill is expected to result from a cabinet shakeup which is anticipated in a few days.

Marshal Josef Pilsudski, dictator and defense minister, has decided to appoint Julius Poniatowski minister of agriculture in place of Nakoniecznikow-Klukowski who will be elevated to the post of vice premier. Col. Belina-Prazmowski, governor of Lwow district, will be appointed minister of interior taking the place of Bronislaw Pieracki who was assassinated June 15. Pilsudski is conducting negotiations for solution of the Vilna quarrel and opening diplomatic relations with Lithuania.

Police have seized hundreds of suspects connected with the Polish National Radicals, Jewish Communists and Ukrainian patriots for questioning about the murder of Pieracki. These prisoners will be interned in the new temporary concentration camp at Kartuz Bereza, in Polesie. This was formerly an officers' training camp which was abandoned because of the ferocity of mosquitoes from the Pinsk swamps.

Woman Stabbed to Death by Sister Over $200 Debt

Because her sister, Mrs. Tacia Rollis, 38, of 7629 West 62d place, Argo, wouldn't pay her the $200 she had borrowed two years ago, Mrs. Catherine Vlachois, 30, stabbed her to death with a bread knife yesterday in Mrs. Vlachois' kitchen at 7627 West 62d street, Argo.

DAHLBERG SEEKS TO PAY OFF ALL ALIMONY IN CASH

Negotiations for an out of court settlement between Bror Dahlberg, president of the Celotex company, and his former wife, Mrs. Mary Dahlberg Chapin, over the latter's alimony claims of $41,250, are under way, according to Samuel A. Rinella, counsel for Mrs. Chapin. Mr. Rinella said yesterday that Dahlberg would pay cash, the amount not disclosed, in return for which Mrs. Chapin would release all her claims for back alimony. Judge Walter J. La Buy, before whom the case was to have come up yesterday, continued the hearing indefinitly at the agreement of both lawyers.

PRINTER SLAYS SELF.

Anton Cemaitis, 58 years old, 5724 South Albany avenue, an unemployed printer, shot and killed himself yesterday in the garage at the rear of his home.

YOUNG SPEEDERS FORCED TO VISIT COUNTY MORGUE

Three View Bodies of Trafic Victims.

Three youths, two of them found guilty of speeding and the third convicted of reckless driving, spent two hours in the basement of the county morgue yesterday viewing the bodies of victims of recent automobile accidents.

The youths are John Lanahan, 18 years old, 4337 Ottawa avenue, Norwood Park, arrested for reckless driving; Albert Henderson, 17 years old, 9820 South Hamilton avenue, and Douglas Fischer, 16 years old, 4853 North Monticello avenue. The punishment was imposed by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in the Boys court.

"I'm going to make a practice of doing this," Judge Gorman said. "I am confident it will do young autoists more good than a fine."

Sports Writer Injured.

James Corcoran, 34 years old, 1116 Columbia avenue, sports writer for the Chicago Evening American, was in serious condition yesterday at the St. Francis hospital, Evanston, of injuries suffered earlier when he was struck by an automobile at Albion avenue and Sheridan road. W. H. Rose, 24 years old, Glenview, a student at Cornell university, is the driver of the car which struck Corcoran.

Robert Duncan, 22 years old, of East Orange, N. J., and Miss Catherine Weary, 21 years old, 663 Walden road, Winnetka, were riding with Rose, who said that his vision was obscured by the fog.

Harry Milles, 65 years old, 3857 North Lawndale avenue, was killed last night when an automobile in which he was riding alone collided at Crawford avenue and Byron street with a surface car. Milles formerly conducted a drug store at Elston and St. Louis avenues, but retired about ten years ago.

EXPERTS PAY TRIBUTE TO MILTON C. WORK, U. S. BRIDGE 'MASTER'

Philadelphia, Pa., June 27.—[Special.—Milton C. Work, 69 years old, nationally known authority on the game of bridge and author of numerous works on the subject, died in a hospital here early today from an intestinal disorder. He had been a patient in the hospital for the last three weeks.

The card expert had been suffering from ill health since last October when he was stricken while playing in a contract bridge championship tournament in Reading, Pa. Experts joined in tribute today to his passing.

Work began his career as a lawyer following his graduation from the University of Pennsylvania law school in 1887.

While practicing law, Work wrote his first book on cards in 1893, entitled, "Whist of Today." With the advent of bridge he became a fan and evolved rules for bidding and for the playing of the cards.

His first book on bridge was printed in 1913, and altogether he has written more than a score of books on the game. He dropped his law practice completely in 1917, and during the world war he toured the country, giving lectures and participating in tournaments. Altogether he raised more than $100,000 for the Red Cross for relief work overseas.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will join the ranks of radio news commentators in her forthcoming commercial series. This was disclosed yesterday when John W. Hubbell, advertising manager of the company sponsoring the broadcast, reached Chicago to confer with NBC officials regarding final details of the program which goes on the air Monday evening, July 9, from the Globe theater at the World's Fair. Mrs. Roosevelt will speak twice during the half hour broadcast, the first time for six minutes and later for three or four. The plan for vocal soloists has been dropped. Mrs. Roosevelt will not make any comment on the sponsor's product. Josef Koestner's orchestra will play.

Steve Cisler, manager of WSGN, Birmingham, is fighting to have dissolved a temporary injunction obtained by the Birmingham Baseball association restraining him from broadcasting from the tree tops. When the ball club denied him entrance to the park with his microphone he shinnied up a tree and began giving birdseye reports of the games. This story brings to mind the old one about the sports reporter [wasn't it Ring Lardner?] who, after a tiff, covered the game "through a knothole."

For the many who have been inquiring about Deane Janis: The titian haired songstress long heard with Hal Kemp over W-G-N, is on the air from San Francisco with Carole Lofner's orchestra over CBS. Occasionally there's a local Columbia outlet Saturday night. Watch program listing. . . . Joy Hodges, another local girl, sings with the same orchestra. . . . Jeannie Lang, the "Giggle-O" girl of radio, will make her first Chicago appearance since she used to appear with Brooke Johns, the banjo ace. She goes to the Palace theater on July 6 with Jack Whiting, with whom she recently finished a broadcast series.

The Old Time Opera house is likely to be back on the air—this time over NBC. A much expanded version of the old WIBO melodrama program is in rehersal with Miss Patricia O'Hearn as author and producer. Leading players in the production will include Jack Doty, Bernardine Flynn and Loraine Andersen. Walter Blaufuss' orchestra is to be used and the Maple City Four, male quartet, is included in the tentative talent lineup. Plans call for a cast of more than 80 players and musicians for this half hour show. There will be plenty of opportunity to hiss the villain, for such shows as "Way Down East," "Count of Monte Cristo," "East Lynne," and "Jesse James" are contemplated.

The W-G-N Keep Fit club proved unable to keep its director, Capt. Paul Fogarty, fit or, at any rate, out of an automobile accident. Capt. Fogarty's legs were bruised. Announcer Ed Smith is doing the exercise program temporarily.

Those magpies of radio—Clara, Lu 'n' Em—will leave after tomorrow morning's broadcast over W-G-N—NBC for a week in New York. On Tuesday evening they will be guests on the Beauty Box theater, starring Gladys Swarthout. The gossiping girls will go on the air with their chatter between acts of "Robin Hood." Their programs will be piped back to Chicago daily.

40 NEW CASES OF PARALYSIS IN LOS ANGELES, CAL.

San Francisco, Cal., June 27.—(AP)—With 40 new cases of infantile paralysis reported in the Los Angeles area and four in the San Francisco bay region, the state emergency relief administration here today authorized a grant of $13,750 to combat the spread of that disease.

The number of cases in the state since May 1 was well over 1,300. In Los Angeles county alone, center of the epidemic, 1,067 cases have been reported.

In Alameda county, east of San Francisco bay, appearance only of one new case encouraged health officers to announce the disease well under control. There are 113 cases there and 71 in San Francisco.

Forty-four cases were discharged as cured in Los Angeles, leaving 330 under treatment in the General hospital.

Alarm in the states bordering California gave rise to reports that quarantines were being considered. At Phoenix, Ariz., Gov. B. B. Moeur said he is not contemplating a quarantine along the western Arizona border. At present there are but five cases in Arizona, he said.

Harbor Point Will Be Scene of Gay Party

Hostesses Plan to Make It Event of Season.

BY JUDITH CASS.

"WHEELER, Waller, Gordon, Ltd. [not very]" at the top of thirty or so invitations spells a marvelous time to the recipients, for it means that Miss Winifred Wheeler, Miss Virginia Waller, Miss Isabel Gordon, and Miss Marian Gordon are giving a party. They are giving it at Harbor Point, Mich., over the first week-end in August, and have invited just the young people who usually visit there at odd times during the summer.

That week-end has been set aside for the one big get-together of the season, and the guests are invited to be "bedded, boarded, wined and dined." They will be divided up between the homes of Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler, the William Wallers, and the Frank M. Gordons, and the overflow will be taken care of by the nearest neighbors—all friends.

Lowell Dillingham Engaged to Miss Blake.

Adding to the excitement of Mrs. Walter F. Dillingham's short visit here were the congratulations heaped upon the head of her son, Lowell, who was in town for an even shorter period than the 48 hours his mother and sister, Mary Lou, spent here as the guests of the John A. Carpenters, for his engagement to Miss Leslie Blake, daughter of the Arthur Blakes of Brookline, Mass., was announced just after his graduation from Harvard.

The three Dillinghams are en route to San Francisco now to sail Friday for their Honolulu home. Sailing with them for a two months' visit is Robert Hagey, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hagey's son, who was at Harvard with Lowell. Young Mr. Dillingham will go into business with his father, and as soon as he is on his financial feet he and Miss Blake will be married.

A son, who has been named Willett N Gorham Jr., will keep his mother from attending a luncheon, swimming and bridge party that she is giving today at the Glen View club for Miss Chloe Watson, who will be married Saturday to Pierre Bouscaren in Winnetka. The baby was born a week ago today at the Evanston hospital.

Miss Lois Truesdale, however, who is giving the luncheon with Mrs. Gorham, will do honors for both of them.

The most important guest at the junior Hamilton Voses' first wedding anniversary celebration yesterday was their son, Hamilton Vose III., who was born on June 15 at St. Luke's hospital.

Mrs. George J. Jaeger Jr. is in Cedar Rapids for the marriage today of her sister, Miss Barbara Douglas, daughter of Mrs. George Bruce Douglas of Cedar Rapids, to Gail Burck, son of Mrs. Lawrence E. Burck of Los Angeles.

Mrs. George Ives Haight and her daughter, Miss Valerie Elizabeth Haight, are giving a linen shower at their home in Evanston this afternoon for Miss Mary Callender of Naperville, whose engagement to Thomas Donovan of Joliet was announced recently.

Three Lectures For Garden Clubs.

Members of three suburban garden clubs will be garnering new ideas and fresh enthusiasm beginning today, when Miss Isabella Pendleton, noted landscape architect, begins her series of lectures. The Garden club of Evanston, meeting today at the home of Mrs. Willard Jacques on Sheridan road, will hear her discuss "The Small Garden." The lecture will be illustrated with slides.

Tomorrow Miss Pendleton will be featured on the program of the Lake Forest club, in the home of Mrs. Howard C. Phillips, on Hill road, Winnetka. Her subject will be "Informality in the Small Garden." Mrs. H. Still-

NOCTURNE.

BY NANCY CABOT.

An Ohio woman designed this effective pattern and gave it the romantic name of "Nocturne." The original quilt was pieced in a soft golden yellow, delft blue, and red. Modern interpretations may find expression in the new and lovely prints sold in the yard goods sections of department stores. The block measures ten inches square when completed.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

PRINCE ROSTISLAV is inclined toward monosyllabic replies of positively Coolidge-like abruptness. One evening recently at a dinner party, after a woman at whose side he was sitting tried once or twice to draw him into conversation, she asked:

Preoccupation—
Afflictions—
Efficiency—
Act of God—
Error.

"Don't you like conversation?"

"No," replied Prince Rostislav, with no further embellishment.

"Don't you like to listen to it, either?" persisted the lady.

"No," repeated Prince Rostislav.

"What do you do when you go out?" she inquired.

"Think of a little tune and hum it to myself," was his surprising answer.

It might be added that Prince Rostislav is passionately fond of music, and the "little" tune he was trying to console himself with on that particular occasion was the first movement of Tschaikowsky's Sixth Symphony.

AN example of the manner in which physical defects can be overcome by both man and beast was given the other day at Belmont and Sheridan road. A middle aged man was playing ball with his dog. At first glance the dog seemed to be having difficulty in catching the ball which his master threw to him, apparently feeling for the ball rather than seeing it. It developed that the dog was completely blind. And his master was completely deaf.

MR. FREEMAN P. MORRIS, Watseka, Illinois' No. 1 citizen, who is 80 years old and who has been state representative from Iroquois county since 1884, has efficiently solved the problem of keeping straight about the time. Both Mr. and Mrs. Morris like the radio, and in order not to get confused as to the time of radio programs coming out of Chicago [Clara, Lu 'n' Em is their favorite], they keep two clocks in the room where they listen to it. One of them is set at Watseka time and the other Chicago's daylight saving time.

AN act of God, as they say in legal contracts, settled a matter for the board of directors of Shoreacres last Saturday night. There has been some discussion in the club as to whether a large tree that stood directly in front of the club on the lake bluff should be cut down. It obstructed the view, some of the club members thought, and Mrs. Howard Linn, whose charming Provencal house Pointed Roofs is next door, also wanted it down. The matter was discussed in conclave at the club Saturday. And during Saturday night's storm the tree obligingly blew down, settling the matter.

PERHAPS you've already heard about the visitor to A Century of Progress from Minnesota. He spent two days in Riverview park, thinking he was at the Fair. And if you'd like to know how quickly jokes get around, the Fair visitor who made the mistake has been variously reported also as a pair of women from the south, a mother-in-law from Texas, a pair of spinsters from Iowa, and a trio of girls from downstate.

Sally Forced to Change Date for Cubs Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Attention, boys and girls!

We have an important change in our party schedule—so please read this carefully. The baseball game between the Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates which formerly was set for Thursday, July 5, has been changed to Friday, July 6, so our party will be postponed one day, and will take place on Friday, instead of Thursday.

So if your letter is on my desk this morning, and you should happen to be one of the winners, you'll see the game with me one day later than first announced.

You'll all know who the winners are on next Sunday, when the lucky 50 boys and 50 girls will see their names printed in THE TRIBUNE. Invitations will be mailed on Monday, and should reach you by Tuesday. If your name is in the paper, and you don't receive your invitation, or if your address is incorrect, please let me know so that we can be sure winners get their invitations.

Well, I'll get to work on your letters—I've quite a lot of them to read, and I'll tell you more about our plans tomorrow.

Sunday's TRIBUNE will also carry news of our second gay party—so watch for it!

Woman Expert Helps Moeller Direct Movie

Stage Producer Learning Film Trade.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 27.—[Special.]—Jane Loring, experienced movie writer and technical worker, is assisting Philip Moeller, the New York stage director, in his debut as a film director on the Irene Dunne-John Boles picture "Age of Innocence" at Radio-RKO. Miss Loring, who is a relative of Hope Loring, assists Moeller with his camera angles and effects.

Leon Tine Sagan, woman film director from abroad, is arriving shortly to direct pictures for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. She is a South African by birth, whose husband, a German Jew, became an exile from the Nazis. She directed "Maedchen In Uniform" abroad.

John E. Perkins, Paramount's assistant sales manager for the Orient, explains that in China they use two screens to exhibit American films for Chinese audiences. First there is the regular screen, and then there is a smaller one that translates the American dialogue and presents an explanation of the action in Chinese characters.

David Holt, kid player in "You Belong to Me" at Paramount, took suddenly ill on the set, and work had to be stopped while a nurse looked him over. The little fellow finally admitted he stole a puff from a cigar someone had laid down for a minute. . . . Ronald Coleman promised Bill Powell he would take him on a fishing trip to Alaska, if he had to buy a yacht. Powell is holding Coleman to it, and it looks as though he'll have to buy the yacht. . . . Joan Bennett is home from the studio with a sore throat.

Francis Lederer walked out of an invitation to Joan Crawford's dinner party the other evening to make a speech on world peace. . . . Some of the best sea shots this observer ever saw in a film show the wave buffeted bows of the giant American battleships in their long single file line, in Warner's new Cagney-Pat O'Brien picture, "Here Comes the Navy." A lot of entertainment is packed in the film, too.

Bette Davis walked out of her rôle in Warner's "Case of the Howling Dog" and immediately was suspended from the studio pay roll. . . . Mae West already is hard at work on several weeks of retakes for her film, necessitated yesterday by the New York censorship. The retake schedule ran into grief when Mae's studio sought to re-borrow Roger Pryor, her leading man, from Universal where he now is starring in his own film "Romance in the Rain" with Heather Angel and Esther Ralston. Pryor is so busy on his own picture he can help Mae out only on occasional nights and Sundays.

Incidentally Universal decided to star Pryor on the strength of the performance he gave Mae's unreleased and unaccepted film "It Ain't No Sin." It is now certain that the West story will not be released under its original title. When it reaches the public it may have no title at all.

Universal has two Charles Dickens stories awaiting the word to start, "Mystery of Edwin Drood" with Karloff and Heather Angel, and "Great Expectations" with Henry Hull and Douglas Montgomery. . . . U. B. Iwerks, who turns out color comedies, is now doing Spanish, German, French and Italian versions of "Puss in Boots" and "The Queen of Hearts."

The recently completed Warner film "British Agent" probably will have its world première in London. . . . Dick Arlen and Jobyana Ralston returned from their trip through Great Britain quite displeased with the way they do thing abroad. Their next vacation will be spent in this country, they say. . . . One of the items in which Gary Cooper takes pride is the autograph given him by Shirley Temple, five year old star.

Forty state and city secretaries of the Northern Baptist convention, representing 35 states, met at the Hotel La Salle yesterday to discuss promotional plans in connection with a $3.700,000 budget for missionary work. The conference will continue today. The total budget provides for home, foreign and educational work, 30 per cent of it being used for missionary work in foreign countries, where 700 missionaries are employed and baptisms number about 25,000 a year, according to the Rev. Bruce E. Jackson, secretary of field activities. Dr. W. H. Bowler, executive secretary of the board of missionary coöperation of the Northern Baptist convention, presided.

How Ice Fund Aids Sick Told by Miss Wray

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Through THE TRIBUNE's Free Ice Fund 300,000 pounds of ice has been distributed since June 1 to impoverished families in which there are babies, young children, or invalids who must have sweet milk, according to an announcement yesterday by Miss Edna Mae Wray, an executive of the United Charities.

Free ice tickets are distributed by the charities to 12 agencies, including nurseries, sanitariums for tubercular persons, and infanat welfare stations, and to the 13 district offices of the United Charities, which in turn supply needy families. The fund is maintained each summer by readers of THE TRIBUNE. Distribution of ice began three weeks earlier this season because of the excessive heat.

Among the recent emergency cases described by Miss Wray, who is in charge of the fund, was that of a family on the southwest side. The mother returned from the Cook county hospital with her newly born baby to join her husband and eight other children in a crowded flat. She was not used to ice and showed surprise when the young doctor who called to check on her condition and that of the baby told her that she must have ice to keep the baby's bottle milk fresh. The doctor called Miss Wray, who quickly sent the tickets.

Another case was that of Mr. M., an elderly man, seriously ill with heart trouble. His physician, knowing the family was unable to buy ice and that the patient's condition depended on the constant use of ice packs, called Miss Wray and explained the situation. She sent free ice tickets, special delivery, to the aged man.

Many patients recently dismissed from the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium cannot continue to recuperate in their homes without fresh milk, and are unable to buy ice, Miss Wray said.

City's Blind Guests of Women's Aid at Annual Parks Picnic

About 450 blind residents of Chicago were guests of the Chicago Women's Aid at a picnic in Jackson park yesterday.

With unerring sureness of touch, with never a slip between lunch box and mouth, the blind, who ranged in age from 7 to 75, who had come on crutches, in wheel chairs, and on the arms of their friends, ate heartily of the 400 pounds of fried chicken around which the picnic meal was built.

They ate seated on long green benches under the park trees, the boxes of food in their laps, the bottled drinks at their sides. By 4 p. m. it was all over, with only three or four still groping in their boxes for a last bite to eat.

The picnic has come to be an annual affair, open to all blind residents of the city. The committee assisting the blind of the Women's Aid, headed by Mrs. Leslie Wilson, was in charge of the picnic.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A last admiring glance at a good makeup job that began with a light foundation lotion, insuring a smoothly powdered nose throughout the day.

How's your summer makeup, lady? Ours, due to the heat and our chore of loping from place to place all day, was slipping horribly until we fastened on to a foundation lotion that we've had an eye on for some time. If your powder gets all squashy looking half an hour after dusting it carefully over your nose, you might look into this lotion's merits.

In the summer we're inclined to agree with the women who prefer liquid foundations to creams. They seem somehow to be lighter and cooler. The lotion we like so well feels beautifully cool. There's a shade for every skin tone, incidentally, and all the shades are rather flattering.

You can use it with a minimum of difficulty. It's one of those "shake the bottle" lotions and should be applied with the finger tips. But before it "sets" smooth it out a bit with a pad of absorbent cotton, let it dry, and you're ready to proceed with the all important task of making up your face for the day.

You'll be surprised at how long and how well the makeup job lasts, despite heat. The skin has been coolly prepared for powder, which in turn will adhere very nicely. It's a great help in flaunting a fair face during the hot days.

And while we're at it, we might remind you that rubbing powder in is never a hot idea, but it's downright murderous in summer. Dust it ON—not in—and you'll be guarding against that mottled, spotty look that mars many a cute nose. A foundation such as the one we found [and you can find it, too, in a couple of Chicago shops] with the right powder applied in the right way are the most important summer helps to makeup suavity.

Black and Blue Is Latest Motif of the Season

BY RHEA SEEGER.

"Black and blue" is the latest motif for summer. And you don't have to fight to get it. Stunning new summer ensembles of these two colors are acclaimed by shoppers who know, by trial and error, that dark street clothes can make you look unbelievably cool and impeccably well groomed, infinitely more than other colors.

Ingenious ensemble makers have sent some new numbers to tempt you. For instance, a dark blue taffeta suit, the long sleeved fitted jacket topping a simple one piece dress with the blouse section of spanking white cotton net. Another, of crinkled taffeta in blue, is tailored with sheer wide loops slipping through some shoulder slits and ending in a large squarish bow on the chest.

Plenty of black taffetas, thin and smartly tailored, have lapels of sheer white on the short snappy coats and white whiffs of the same sheer on the short sleeves and neckline of the one piece dress.

Sleek black satins have come to town very different; two piece effects with cascading front collars, and some very slim looking satin suits, liberally frosted with white wherever such knowing accents are needed.

One of the best looking black dull crêpe ensembles for dress parade is made with deep yoke of sheer banded with rows of the dull crêpe. The rather full, long sleeves of the almost knee length coat likewise have the banded sheer insets.

These dark summer ensembles are rated among the smartest things in town. Wear them with chalk white costume accessories, with the new fabric white berets, the clever new white handbags of pebbly silk crêpe, and the wide cuffed white fabric gloves with frilled effects.

The supply is endless, and if you want a different sort of a contrast plunge, and take all your accessories in pale pink or flesh and you achieve dramatic contrast for either black or blue.

Young Roosevelt Attends Debut of Ethel du Pont

Wilmington, Del., June 27.—[Special.]—Miss Ethel du Pont was presented to society at a dinner dance this evening by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene du Pont, at their home Owl's Nest, Greenville near here. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of President and Mrs. Roosevelt was one of the several hundred guests.

Aid to Hitler Will Attend Astor Wedding

Miss Gillespie to Be on Trip to Europe.

Newport, R. I., June 27.—(AP)—Dr. Ernst Franz Sedgewick Hanfstaengl, Adolph Hitler's piano playing aid, is going to see John Jacob Astor III. take Ellen Tuck French as his bride Saturday, and Eileen Gillespie, young Astor's ex-fiancée, isn't.

Hanfstaengl, whose dramatic dash from Berlin to attend the 25th reunion of his Harvard class at Cambridge, Mass., a couple of weeks ago, literally stole the Harvard commencement week show, is to be the guest of the bride's father.

At the same time the Lawrence Lewis Gillespies of New York, whose interest in young Astor and his matrimonial affairs apparently dwindled to zero with the return to him of his $250,000 engagement ring in exchange for an apology, announced that they planned to be aboard the Europe-bound Leviathan when the ceremony takes place.

Another prospective absentee at the wedding in fashionable Trinity church, where Washington once worshiped, is Mrs. Enzo Fiermonte, Astor's mother, now the wife of the Italian pugilist.

Mrs. Fiermonte, whose first husband perished on the Titanic, declared in New York she did not feel quite up to the exertion involved. An injured arm still bothered her, she explained, as she cantered off for a brisk ride on horseback.

Francis O. French of Dedham, Mass., father of Miss French, in announcing that "Putzy" Hanfstaengl, as the towering German press chief is known to his intimates, would be at the ceremony, denied a report he himself would not attend.

"Of course I will," he declared. "I received an invitation asking that the present Mrs. French and myself attend. In fact, I am going to give the bride away."

French, who during a period of temporary financial embarrassment once drove a taxicab in New York City, is divorced from Mrs. Livingston French, mother of Astor's 18 year old fiancée.

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young singer. She stakes him to Toronto, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for an opportunity of meeting his daughter. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer. Cara decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Anny will find friends for Jerry Flint, whom Cara has decided she loves. Cara sells her car for expense money and gives half to Jerry. He follows and joins her on the way. Harmer hears of Cara's plans from her father. He flies to Mulligan's ahead of her and hires the place from Dan Mulligan for a month and the use of his name. He meets Cara and Jerry as Mulligan. He and Jerry are antagonistic. After three days Jerry is fed up with camp life. He tricks Cara into leaving with him. They become lost in the wilds and lose their horses. Cara is disgusted with Jerry's stupidity.

INSTALMENT XXXIV.

STRANDED IN THE WILDS.

It was difficult, walking the eager whinnying horses along the bank, to find a place where they could go down to drink; but presently there it was, wide, rough, traveling in swirling eddies, with a yard or two of broken ground descending to the water. Jessie and Buck plunged their muzzles in.

"Horses swim," said Jerry assertively.

Cara's eyes opened widely upon him.

"You aren't going to ask these horses to swim that after the day they've had?"

"I'm not going to ask 'em to rest here. You've your swimming suit under those things, haven't you? You know we took a possible swim into our plans."

"Yes."

"Well, so've I. We'll put our kit into this waterproof pack, and Buck'll take it over fine."

"We're crossing here?"

"Why not?"

She looked downstream and saw two logs rushing along. "We must dodge driftwood. It might be heavy."

"Well, we'll dodge it. Come on! Come on!" he said, proud to be the one to rally her.

"It'll be a hard swim.

"It's short. And the bank opposite looks pretty sound from here."

"All right, Jerry." She laughed, and wanted him to be right, but knew that he was wrong. Still, they might achieve it. "There'll be the swim back across the current, too. We'd better drift a little down, and——"

"Will you follow me," he cried, "or not?"

"Will you follow me?" he cried, "or not?"

She felt horribly sure that here was no shallow water. No, not for miles, probably. The stream was still swollen with the avalanches of snow and ice that had only just finished tumbling from the mountains from which it sprang.

She said nervously, almost pleadingly:

"And after a rest and we've crossed again, Jerry, we'll trek for home?"

"After all that the deluge," he replied teasingly.

"Deluge enough here!"

She knew perfectly well that he had never before swam a horse across a river, but she offered no comment on that. Also she knew that this crossing was the epitome of stupidity. She had swum horses, however, once, on vacation with her father. She slipped off Jessie and pulled off her chamois riding shirt, boots and trousers. Jerry did the same. The pack with their riding gear now in it was lashed again by the cantle thongs behind the saddle on Buck. They waded in on a muddy bottom, leading the horses. Jessie went goodtemperedly. Buck did not like the task before him.

But soon they were all swimming, she and Jerry encouraging the horses with cheerful cries.

They were some yards apart, the strong current taking them in a cross line to the opposite bank, increasing the distance. But they had to give way to it. A little further down river she saw two logs swirling round and called to Jerry: "We don't want to get any further down than we can help. Quicker we're over the better!"

Then some driftwood above them traveling rapidly reached them and swirled about Buck. The young horse lashed at it frantically, pulled at his rein, and his whole bridle slipped over his ears and off. The horse, plunging and snorting, let himself be carried downstream, was swirled round once, and headed for the opposite bank that he had just left. Then the driftwood caught the peaceable Jessie. She, too, snorted, lashed out, hung back, tore her reins from Cara's arm, and went after her companion. They landed together and went galloping off over the prairie land they had so lately traveled.

Without a word to each other Cara and Jerry struggled to the point they were making for, landed, and looked back after the horses.

"Did the bridle break?" Cara asked.

"It slipped off."

"You hadn't got the jaw band fixed. Or you got the wrong bridle out of the saddle room. I thought it looked big—wanted tightening up——"

He stared at her, wringing the water from his hair with both hands squeezed over it.

"Did you?" he said very slowly. In a second he was resentful, hostile, dismayed and hurt.

The sun was still hot, and they were not yet within the shade of trees. The heat was enough to dry and warm them in a matter of minutes. Great gray boulders, very grim, that looked as if they had lain there for all time, were strewn sparsely about the ground near them. "Better wring out your suit," he advised roughly. He was still looking at her in the same way, insulted. She knew by the woman sense that had lately come to her that he was longing for her to obey his every word and gesture. He longed to out-Mulligan Mulligan. With a doubtful smile, then, she went to a giant of a boulder, walked round to the other side, took her suit off and wrung it nearly dry. When she came back he was sitting on the river bank immobile. "Not so much as a cigaret," he said curtly.

"I'm afraid not."

"You let your horse go, too."

"Yes," she said, penitently.

"I should have held Buck if it hadn't been for that cursed bridle."

She nodded, knowing that the most experienced horse master cannot always hang on to a flurried horse against a fast current.

He would have liked to ask her: "What are we going to do?" but rejected the words.

"Your compass?" she ventured.

"In the pack, of course."

She looked around her. They were warm, dry, and the sun and the earth looked beneficent, but she knew that they were not.

It was of no use going on, of little use—and she realized it and wondered what he was feeling—starting back. What then? Without the compass, in the devious trails they had come by, blazed by woodsmen to avoid bogs and thickets, how could they average their winding ways?

He announced authoritatively: "We're in exactly the right sort of spot, anyhow. Flat, close to water, woods in front of us. We——" but faltering, he realized their predicament if not so fully as did she. "We—must just make the best of it," he stammered.

Eagerly she backed him up. If only he did not guess what a fool she thought him!

"It's nearly sunset. There ought to be fish in that stream. By tomorrow morning we'll have to fix a rod and line, somehow."

Literally she saw realization breaking upon him wave upon wave, and she was sorry for him.

She was unafraid.

"For tonight," she said evenly, "we'll have to content ourselves with a fire if we can get one, and make our bed of browse. There's balsam here. It smells sweet. It's supposed to make travelers sleep."

"We've no matches." He spoke roughly again. "Can you make a fire with sticks like the Indians?"

"They carry their firesticks with them as we'd carry matches," she answered. "I could do it if I found the right wood, perhaps."

Wise Mothers Plan Layettes Ahead of Time

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"I'm going to have a baby. What should be in his layette?" is one question that keeps coming in in our mail. Another one is, "I'm going to have a baby but we have so little saved that I want to buy a few things at a time as I can spare the money. Can you give me any help as to what to buy?" Wise is the mother who plans her layette ahead rather than buying hit or miss on the spur of the moment.

Babies' clothes grow simpler and simpler. The "long clothes baby" swathed in elaborate lace trimmed dresses with long skirts draping his mother's or nurse's arm or getting in his way is a thing of the distant past, as are ruffled petticoats and elaborately embroidered flannel ones and wide hot "belly bands" as the mothers of other days called them, worn for months on end.

The modern baby is simply and comfortably dressed. He kicks his lively young heels around in an eighteen or twenty-one inch skirt and wears as little as possible. His body temperature must be kept even—modern mothers remember that—but he needs air and sunshine. And he must have freedom to kick and reach and squirm. So clothes grow simpler and more suited to the baby's needs.

Now as to supplying those needs. Of course there is a special kind of pleasure in making your baby's clothes yourself. That the mother who must literally watch every penny and buy her baby things gradually might make them herself was my first thought on reading some of my mail. But, being experienced in such things and having done my own baby sewing, my second thought was that unless she knew how to buy and cut and sew they might cost her more in the end. For baby clothes are extremely cheap to purchase ready-made.

The Stage

"As You Like It" will be added to the repertory of brief versions of Shakespeare's plays at the Old Globe theater in the English Village at the Fair next Sunday night. Miss Jackson Perkins will have the rôle of Rosalind. This performance will begin at 8:30 every night of next week.

Mrs. Louise Winter and Rudolph Reuter Give Joint Recital

Louise Hattstaedt Winter, soprano, and Rudolph Reuter, pianist, appeared jointly yesterday afternoon in the first of a new and what would seem to be highly attractive series of recitals at Kimball hall under the auspices of the American Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. Winter, who would seem to sing better each time she appears, took several items of her program from the works of Chicago composers, Jeanne Boyd, Rudolph Ganz, John Alden Carpenter, and the late Adolf Weidig among them. Miss Boyd's "Balloons in the Snow," a light, tripping, airy piece, was repeated at the unanimous request of the audience, and Mr. Carpenter's "When I Bring You Colored Toys," sung as an encore, became another high point of the program.

Mr. Reuter is highly successful in giving performances that are at the same time brilliant and presented with an air of detachment. Beethoven's "Waldstein" Sonata, Chopin's "Barcarole," and a group of Liszt were played to the great approval of the audience. E. M.

Harbor Point Will Be Scene of Gay Party

Hostesses Plan to Make It Event of Season.

son Hart will be hostess next Monday to members of the Garden club of Barrington at Hartwood, her home in Barrington. Following the buffet luncheon Miss Pendleton will again describe the small garden.

Mrs. Sagendorph Is Visiting Here.

The former Beatrix Thorne arrived in town yesterday for a two weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Thorne. The visit will be her first in two years. Since her marriage in 1928 to Robb H. Sagendorph Mrs. Sagendorph has lived in the east. Their present home is in Dublin, N. H.

Mrs. Sagendorph, who brought her daughter, Jane, along with her, will also be entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Dodge Horne Jr. in Barrington. The Hornes have taken a house temporarily in Barrington until their new home, a remodeled farmhouse, is completed sometime during the summer.

The Arthur F. Tuttles of Plainfield, N. Y., are spending a quiet two weeks in Chicago renovating their Lake Forest home, which they have rented for the summer to the Wallace F. Kirks. They are staying with Mr. Tuttle's sister and brother-in-law, the Kent Chandlers, in Lake Forest, and many informal parties, all small, are being given for these popular former residents of Lake Forest.

For her wedding last night to Edwin Ruthven Moore of Evanston, Miss Mary Wilson Clokey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson Clokey of Hinsdale, wore an ivory satin gown with a separate train and long sleeves; an heirloom cap of rose point lace to which was attached a long tulle veil, and an heirloom gold locket. She carried white orchids and lilies of the valley. She was given in marriage by her father, whose former classmate at Wooster college, the Rev. Alfred Lee Wilson, read the service. The ceremony was performed at 8:30 o'clock in the gardens of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Everett in Hinsdale and a reception followed in the house.

William North to Wed in East.

Mrs. Francis S. North of Lake Forest is in the east for two very important events in the life of her son, William S. North—his graduation from Harvard and his marriage next Saturday to Miss Sally Jackson, daughter of Mrs. George Jackson of Asheville, N. C. Mr. North and Miss Jackson met while he was attending the Asheville school, where her father before his death was headmaster.

Mr. North was a member of the Hasty Pudding and Phoenix-S. K. clubs at Harvard, and his bride-to-be is a member of the Junior league of Asheville. The wedding is to take place in Asheville, and Francis S. North will be his brother's best man. Hugh McB. Johnston and Otho H. Morgan, a cousin of the bridegroom, of Chicago; George P. Baker of Cambridge, A. C. McCabe and L. A. S. McCabe of White Plains, and William D. O'Brien of Detroit will usher.

Mrs. North will return to Lake Forest next Monday and her son and his bride will spend a week with her while they are on their wedding trip. They will be at home in Cambridge, Mass., early in the autumn.

Europe bound yesterday were two popular young Chicagoans. Miss Laura Thorne is sailing for England, where she will visit Miss Ursula Cull, a former schoolmate, and go to Dublin for the horse show. Radcliffe Kirk sailed yesterday, too, in a group of students who are going to do Europe under the guidance of two Harvard professors. He will return Sept. 8. When Miss Thorne returns she will bring Miss Cull with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Blair are sailing Saturday on the Bremen for Europe. They have taken a hunting lodge in Scotland for the season again and will be there during August to shoot to their hearts' content.

Clifford Barneses to Go to Maine.

The Clifford W. Barneses and their daughter, Lilace, left their home, Glen Rowan, in Lake Forest, yesterday for Northeast Harbor, Me., for the summer.

Mrs. Martin Howard and her three children left yesterday to occupy the Uri B. Grannis home, Red Mittens, at Desbarats until September. Mrs. Howard's brother, Paul Martin, who has been sharing the Harold C. Bodman home with her in Lake Forest, will visit her during the summer. The Bodmans, who have been abroad since last fall, will return in October or November.

The Harold Gladwins, who spent a week or so here with Mrs. Gladwin's brother and sister-in-law, the Owen B. Joneses, in Lake Forest, have gone to New Mexico for the summer. Mrs. Gladwin's daughter, Miss Nora McCurdy, stayed on a bit longer with her aunt and uncle and left Chicago yesterday for New Mexico.

Mrs. Chauncey Blair at White Mountains.

From the White Mountains, where many Chicagoans summer, comes word that Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair again has taken a suite at the Waumbek in Jefferson, N. H., for the summer. The Blair family for many years has been identified with the Waumbek summer colony, the late Henry A. Blair and Mrs. Blair and Miss Anita Blair having summered there for years.

The Mark S. Willings have spent little time at Wyndybrae, their home in Jefferson, since acquiring their estate in the Virginia hunting country and this year they plan to lease their New Hampshire home again.

From White Sulphur Springs comes word that Mrs. Potter D'Orsay Palmer presented the silver julep cups to members of the Greenbrier polo club that marked their defeat of the Washington County polo team of Hagerstown, Md.

Wed for Thirty Years, He's Mad About Another

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"After reading in your column about Heartbroken's discovery that her husband was untrue to her after fifteen years of married life, I beg to ask what is that compared to my situation? What do you think of a man who, after thirty years of married life, suddenly goes hay-wire over another woman? Just after an idolized daughter married and left for another part of the country, too? Pretty tragic to lose both husband and daughter in the same year. Thirty years is a long time to have worked hard as I did for this man and just when I thought I could sit back and take life easy, the man deserts me." Another Heartbroken Wife.

Tragic it is for any woman of middle age to be left alone after a record of years of servitude and promised security. So few of the type and age are qualified to battle for themselves, so few unprepared for the catastrophe, whether by death or desertion of the mate, together with the abandonment by children for lives of their own.

But when a man of corresponding age suddenly decides he has had enough of his legal mate, one of two things has happened. He either goes "hay-wire," as expressed, or he is fed up on what he thinks and has succeeded in making himself believe to be thirty years of prison. Many of our psychologists favor the "hay-wire" theory, but an emotional stage in which the wife's actions are not free of blame, either. The wife may put in her thirty years saving the man's money for him, all right. She may perform her household duties conscientiously, her family obligations ditto. But the mistake so many women make is misconstruing these duties as obligations for which the husband must pay, and pay.

After all, women attend their jobs because they are their jobs. They chose the home as their career because it looked the best career for them. If they worked and saved on said job it was as much for themselves as for the man that they were putting in time. It wasn't for the man only that the slaving was endured. If women would get this fact straightened out in their minds, there would be less harping on "how I struggled and worked for him," and, in turn, there would be more decent appreciation of the man's part in the partnership arrangement and perhaps he would not have to seek elsewhere the appreciation denied at home. It's often the resentful attitude of women toward their perfectly legitimate duties that breeds rebellion in the male soul. Also, the fact that said wife, conscientious as may be about her work, would bite her tongue off before she'd ever hand the man a kind word. We may be wrong in analyzing our Heartbroken Wife's case thusly, but it is a diagnosis that fits many of these middle age desertions.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11:45 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

Comes the cherry season again upon us, and with it great orgies of pitting, preserving, and general putting-up. For, with the first shipments of sour cherries speeding Chicagoward, comes the announcement that, while the fat red fellows may not be as great in numbers this year, they will still roll in sufficiently fast to give us good prices and all we can take care of in cans, cocktails, salads, and desserts.

As a rule we can line up our cherries in two camps, the sweets and the sours. But, just to be perverse, some, such as the Montmorency variety from Michigan and Wisconsin, are big and dark, but not quite as sweet as the true "sweet cherry" from California, Oregon, and Washington.

A little later, when the cherry season really swings into its stride, we'll get into the business of canning, preserving, and pickling said cherries. But I'm feeling the yen to have more immediate fun, to dish up the first cherries for you in ways that you can enjoy at once.

And if cherry toast isn't an eyeopener and taste-teaser at your house, then you had better have your house looked into, for some of our esteemed Wisconsinites declare it to be the best little dessert yet to pass the lips of man. Here 'tis.

CHERRY TOAST.
3 cups pitted sour cherries.
1 cup medium brown sugar.
½ cup butter.
4 inch thick slices bread.
½ lemon.

Cover the pitted cherries with the brown sugar and let stand 3 hours. Then simmer slowly for 30 minutes. Meanwhile, slice off the crusts from the bread and cut the slices in one inch cubes. Fry these in the hot butter till golden brown on all sides. Now with a skimmer or slit spoon, lift the cherries out of the sirup and drop them into a glass serving bowl. Squeeze the half lemon into a fine strainer, letting the juice run into the cherry sirup. Bring it nearly to a boil and drop in the fried bread cubes. Cook for 2 minutes and pour the sirup and bread all over the cherries. Cool a little and serve warm with top milk or cream.

Then, one fine day, take time out from stuffing tomatoes and apples and such to do a bit of stuffing on cherries. Last Sunday we stuffed the large black fellows with cream cheese and used them to fill the dip in the hearts of pear halves for a gay summer salad. So this time vary the stunt and do the stuffing with nuts. Either the large sour or the sweet ones will please. Remove the stones and fill the cherries with pecan meats. Nestle five or six of these fat ones in a nest of lettuce and serve with fluffy cream mayonnaise.

I wonder, by the way, if you've ever noticed that sometimes, when you eat grapefruit, there seems to be ever so slight a flavor of cherry in it? I can't account for it, but I'm sure I've noticed it. However that may be, cherries and grapefruit sections have a most pleasant way of blending their flavors. One chilly cocktail calls for nothing but the grapefruit sections in their sweetened juices, blended with slightly stewed, sour cherries. Or leave the sections in the half shell and pour into the center a little cherry juice, adding three fat red beauties for a hub for the grapefruit wheel.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won twenty national championships since 1924.

JUMP TAKEOUTS OF ONE NO TRUMP.

You will remember that our requirements for the forcing takeout in a lower ranking suit, when partner has opened with a suit bid of one, insist on a fit in the opener's suit as one of the conditions for forcing. Failing this, the responding hand must be enormously powerful, able to take complete control of the bidding and to count on opener's suit as merely providing stoppers, not trick winners for the purpose of discarding losers.

When the opening bid was one no trump the danger of a misfit is virtually nonexistent, as we know that opener has at least Q x or x x x in each suit, and is very likely to have not less than A x x or K J x. With feeble support for any one suit, he must be very strong in the others, thus providing sound material for a high contract in no trumps when partnered by a hand justifying a jump takeout.

Consequently, we do not have to set our requirements for slam tries quite so high when responding to an opening no trump bid, shading of which is, moreover, taboo for dealer or second hand. We may assume that a real misfit need not be feared. If the suit does not fit so well, there must be a splendid fit in no trumps; if the suit does fit, everything should be safe for a high contract either in the suit or in no trumps; even if we have to stop at a contract for five because there appear to be two aces against us, we should not fail to make our eventual declaration.

Definite Requirement for the Jump Takeout.

1. The suits in which the jump bid is made must consist of not less than five cards.

2. The hand must contain an ace.

3. If the suit is of only five cards, it must be headed by two of the top three honors, and the hand must contain two and a half primary tricks plus about a half trick in secondary form such as Q J x or counting king-jack as one trick instead of a half trick.

4. A six card suit must be headed by ace-jack or king-queen, and the hand must contain two and a half primary tricks.

5. A suit of seven cards may be headed by only ace-ten or king-jack. The hand must contain two primary tricks.

6. When a six or seven card suit is not headed by two of the top three honors, give only strictly primary rating to the honor combination by which it is headed, and look for about a half trick more in the hand as a whole, beyond the standards given above, accepting secondary values for this purpose. In general, the less solid the suit at the top the greater the outside strength needed to make the hand suitable for a slam try.

The fact that the opening bidder lacks these outside values which are then in your hand makes it probable that he holds good high card support for your far from solid long suit, giving at worst a finesse to lose no trick in it.

7. When your high cards are all in two suits, if they only just make up the primary requirements for that type of hand, refrain from the jump takeout. You should have a queen or a jack-ten in a third suit. This is a safeguard against a possible duplication when your partner gets to counting the losers for slam purposes. This slight outside value will give him a protective play on that suit, creating a tenace or finesse position for the opening lead or providing the stage for a finesse or end play later.

With a seven card suit and a singleton, you can dispense with this precaution. If with any of these hands you have about a half trick beyond the minimum requirements, disregard the necessity for having something in a third suit, as by inference the opening bidder should be that much stronger in the two suits in which you contribute nothing, and your bid will have something in reserve.

8. When at all doubtful whether to jump or not, make the minimum takeout on the first round and a jump rebid on the next round. This will give you a safe margin in the subsequent bidding, as you will have underbid the hand a trifle and can then safely slam if nevertheless your partner does not reply with signoffs.

9. Make no distinction between major and minor suits for slam try purposes. With a choice of suits consider only safety in rubber play. In a tournament under match point scoring, trick value would naturally become very important.

Smart Parisiennes Growing Bonnet Conscious; Three Models in the Lead

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris milliners have been playing around with bonnets and offering them to their pet clients for some time. But it is only in the last week or so that they begin to be worn by the élégante. Big sunbonnet shaped hats of straw and linen have been taken up by some of the smart Parisiennes, and, of course, they wear them when there's no sun.

The small bonnet is what they wear when the sun is out—like the one at the top, which I saw on Sunday at Longchamp. It has a crown of dark blue taffeta and a bonnet brim of white paper panama. The crown is banded with white grosgrain ribbon and it looks as demure as something out of "Little Women."

In the center is Suzanne Talbot's evening bonnet, which is made of black lacy straw and which is fastened under the chin like a real bonnet. Along the top is a wreath of field flowers—daisies, wild roses, and the like. Recommended only for girls with sweet and pretty faces.

At the bottom is the smartest of the bonnets, also from Suzanne Talbot, and made of white linen with the brim stiffly starched like a sunbonnet. It fastens under the chin with a buttoned strap of the linen, and it has a small rounded crown with a band of the linen around it.

Bridge Pairs Open Play for National Title

Dispute Delays Tourney for Two Hours.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Eighty-six pairs of bridge players, including experts from all over the country, last night began play for the All-American contract pair championship at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Misplays during the evening—and they were not infrequent—were not greeted with the loud reproaches heard in private bridge games, but the experts had their own way of indicating displeasure. A withering glance or a low voiced sarcasm was sufficient to cause the offending partner to squirm.

The evening began with a wrangle between the experts as to whether there should be one or two qualifying rounds before the finals. While the matches were delayed for two hours, Andrew J. Mouat, secretary of the American Whist league, which is sponsoring the tournament, attempted to pacify the players. It was finally decided to play two qualifying rounds, one last night, and another this afternoon with the finals tonight and tomorrow. Thirty-two pairs will qualify for the finals.

The defending champions, Sam Fry Jr. and L. H. Watson, went into the battle confidently. "It's in the bag," Watson grinned.

One of the most striking figures at the tournament is Sir Derrick Werhner an Englishman, who lives in Deal, N. J., and is a neighbor and occasional partner of P. Hal Sims, conductor of THE TRIBUNE'S "Conquering Contract" column. Sir Derrick is tall and heavy set and never appears ruffled. He played with Mrs. Anne Rosenfeld of Cleveland, O., as his partner.

One hand in which they set their opponents one trick was regarded by experts as the most brilliantly defended of the evening. It follows:

♥ 3, 2
♦ A, Q, 10, 6, 4
♣ A, J

WEST	EAST
♠ 3	♠ Q, J, 10
♥ A, Q, J, 8	♥ K, 10, 9, 5
♦ J, 9, 5, 3	♦ K, 2
♣ 10, 7, 6, 4	♣ Q, 9, 8, 2

SOUTH
♠ A, K, 8, 5, 3
♥ 7, 6, 4
♦ 8, 7
♣ K, 5, 3

With South playing the hand at three spades, Mrs. Rosenfeld, sitting east, gained the lead at the fourth trick with the king of diamonds and then took north's remaining club—the ace—from the board instead of trying to establish Sir Derrick's hearts immediately. This play set the hand, for South was forced to concede a club trick at the end, which would not have been necessary had his club entry been retained to allow him to cash established diamonds.

"That's a Rock of Gibraltar defense," was Sir Derrick's commendation to his partner.

Mr. Sims announced in New York last night that he was unable to attend the tournament because of illness.

"NATURALLY SKINNY FOLKS"
3 WAYS IN 1 TO ADD WEIGHT Quick!
Gain 5 Lbs. in One Week or No Cost
Thousands of thin, pale, rundown folks—and even "Naturally Skinny" men and women—are amazed at this new easy way to put on healthy needed pounds quickly. Gains of 15 to 20 lbs. in one month—5 lbs. in a week—are reported regularly.
Kelp-a-Malt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea—free from drugs—gets right down to the cause of thin, underweight conditions and adds weight through a "3 ways in one" natural process.
First, its rich supply of easily assimilable minerals nourish the digestive glands which produce the juices that alone enable you to digest the fats and starches in your daily diet . . the weight-making elements in food. Second, Kelp-a-Malt provides an amazingly effective digestive substance which actually digests 4 times its own weight of the flesh-building foods you eat. Third, Kelp-a-Malt's natural FOOD IODINE stimulates and nourishes the internal glands which control assimilation—the process of converting digested food into firm flesh, new strength and energy. Three Kelp-a-Malt tablets contain more iron and copper than a pound of spinach or 7½ lbs. of fresh tomatoes; more calcium than 6 eggs; more phosphorus than 1½ lbs. carrots; more FOOD IODINE than 1600 lbs. of beef.
Try Kelp-a-Malt for a single week and notice the difference—how much better you sleep, how ordinary stomach distress vanishes, how firm flesh appears in place of scrawny hollows and the new energy and strength it brings you! Prescribed and used by physicians, Kelp-a-Malt contains no drugs and is fine for children too—Improves their appetites. Remember the name, Kelp-a-Malt, the original and genuine kelp and malt tablets. There is nothing else like them, so don't accept imitations and substitutes. Try Kelp-a-Malt today, and if you don't gain at least 5 lbs. of good, firm flesh in one week the trial is free. Kelp-a-Malt costs only a few cents a day to use and can be had at all

Individuality Is Keynote of All Coiffures Today

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It is simply amazing, when you think of the limited hair length in vogue at the moment, how many hundreds of hair arrangements are seen that are lovely. Thousands would be nearer to it than hundreds.

Remember, back in the early short haired days, how every head looked like every other head? There was one style, maybe two; anyway not more than half a dozen. Today, the trick is not to have a coiffure like another if it can possibly be managed.

One of the artist coiffeurs known to me predicts that shortly there will be every bit as much individuality about coiffures as about smart dress today, for the same reason. In order to be outstanding, a woman has to create or have created for her a style that is not like any other woman's. A trick bang arrangement, a trick part, a trick lift of the hair in back, a clever rear-head shaping and now I note that a social light ties a gay ribbon in her curls just to be different. Another brushes her hair straight back unwaved, letting ringlets fly as they will over her ears.

One doesn't have to remember back shamefacedly to recall the dull sameness of early permanent coiffuring, or that hideous mop of unthinned hair flying wildly in the breezes. Even in permanents today, there is chance for originality. No waves on top of head, none in the back, the sides only done. Or waves put in a little below the crown in back, as I recently saw done, creating a psyche knot of curls at this point, but curls nowhere else. Just that Grecian knot that gave an unusual touch to the profile.

NORTHERN HALF OF STATE GREEN AGAIN FROM RAIN

Expect Good Corn Yield; Crop Map Changes.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ill., June 27.—[Special.]—Soaking rains have changed the entire crop map of northern Illinois during the last few days. Dusty fields that were bare or covered with stunted crops a week ago are now green.

With temperatures up around the 100 mark and an abundance of moisture, farmers say they could not ask for better corn growing weather. They have an excellent chance of producing a good crop of ear corn and corn for silage in counties north of here. Despite dry weather and pests, recent rains have pushed corn far ahead of its normal schedule.

Corn blades are lengthening at the rate of several inches every twenty-four hours. Even late corn that has just come up has a chance of producing an abundance of material for silos this fall.

Germinating After Weeks.

Fields along the highway from Joliet to Bloomington are somewhat uneven. The rains have forced germination of kernels that had lain in the dust for weeks. In many cases the young plants have just broken through the ground, while in other parts of the same field corn that sprouted early is waist high.

Down in this neighborhood many fields of corn are up half way between a man's waist and shoulders. A big percentage of McLean county farmers have cultivated their cornfields for the last time and have stored their cultivators for the season.

Since the spring drouth and chinch bugs destroyed or stunted wheat, oats and other small grain crops in northern Illinois, farmers have not left a stone unturned in their effort to raise enough corn and legumes for their live stock this winter. The first leg of this trip reveals that thousands of acres of small grain fields have been plowed up and planted to soybeans, cowpeas and other legumes that are not eaten by the bugs.

To Cut Only a Fourth.

R. J. Laible, farm advisor of this county, estimates that not more than one-fourth of the wheat in McLean county will be cut and that the yield will not average more than three bushels to the acre. H. N. Myers, farm advisor of De Witt county, estimates that the wheat in his county will not average more than eight bushels to the acre.

Chemically treated dust barriers are being used successfully by northern Illinois farmers in keeping chinch bugs from migrating out of small grain into corn fields. The effectiveness of the barriers has been clearly demonstrated this year along route 119.

Farmers in this part of the state say they have been able to keep most of their foundation herds of livestock. They have been brought through the dry period in fair condition. Today there were few herds of cattle being grazed along the highway, while two weeks ago there were thousands on the roads in the dairy region of northern Illinois.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Install Rain Gauge

June 27, 1934.

A RAIN gauge has been installed on the experimental farm. From now on the weather man can't get away with any funny stories about rainfall. This new gauge is going to be working 24 hours a day to check on the precipitation here at the farm, where more than 50 different kinds of crops have been planted.

In addition to the rain gauge, which is of the type used by the United States weather bureau substations, a thermometer has been installed near the information house. Paul Sleezer, the experimental farm guide, will read both of these instruments and take records from them.

The rain gauge was installed just in time to catch another dandy rain, which poured much needed moisture into the soil.

After a few hours of this rain the water collected by the rain gauge had crept up the measuring tube until it registered .87 of an inch.

These rains have made a tremendous difference in the appearance of the test plots here on the farm. Everything is just shooting up now. In fact, the black-eyed and the whippoorwill cowpeas are staging a growing race that is a thriller. These two varieties, planted side by side, seem to be trying to outdistance each other.

As if the chinch bugs weren't enough trouble when a farmer tries to grow certain crops, the rabbits have started in to get three square meals a day on the soy beans in the test plots. The friendly cottontails, probably a little tired of feeding on parched grasses and other vegetation that have felt the effects of the drouth, went exploring for food and immediately found this luscious soy bean crop.

Down the wild life "grapevine" sounded the call to all hungry rabbits to gather at the soy bean plot. The result has been far too many cottontails for the good of agriculture.

In fact, the poor soy beans, after surviving those hot dry days, have come through only to get a good trimming from the rabbits.

Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm, has been warring on the Canadian thistles during the last few days. Horse drawn mowers have been used to cut these pests, in addition to scythes swung by some of the boys. The idea was to get these thistles before they blossomed and then scattered their seeds.

While Clarence and the boys were scouring the woodlands for thistles they found a big elm tree that had been struck by lightning and pretty much shattered. Ed Johnson would be thankful from now on if all the lightning would kindly find a resting place in the woodlands because one bolt made a bull's-eye shot on the chimney of his house here on the farm. It partly demolished the chimney and sent a shower of soot through two of the rooms.

Irrespective of injured chimneys and trees hit by lightning, the recent rains which broke the worst drouth that this section has ever known have given everybody a chance to celebrate.

The foxes go for young pigs and now we have a skunk on the farm that considers young chickens just the thing for her young ones. Ed Gillow, a resident on the farm north of the Fox river, just caught a female skunk taking eggs and young chicks from his poultry house. This marauder had five little ones with her when she was helping herself to anything handy in the poultry house.

AAA MAPS FIGHT TO UPHOLD MILK CODE IN CHICAGO

Prepares to Seek a Stay on Barnes Ruling.

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—With the legality of its entire marketing agreement machinery at stake, the agricultural adjustment administration today planned a vigorous fight to set aside the constitutional objections on which Federal Judge John P. Barnes of Chicago yesterday denied the right of the government to interfere with the handling of commodities within state lines.

At the same time it was learned that AAA officials are preparing to grant an increase of .54 of a cent a quart in the milk price paid to farmers of the Chicago area as a drouth relief measure. This increase, it was said, might boost the retail price from 9 to 10 cents a quart. The retail milk price in Chicago was raised from 8 to 9 cents a quart on June 1.

Decision a Blow to AAA.

Judge Barnes' decision restraining enforcement of the Chicago milk license against six independent milk dealers strikes a serious blow at the farm adjustment act and the national recovery act, Jerome Frank, general counsel of the AAA, admitted. Should the decision be upheld by higher courts, the fifty marketing agreements now in force under the farm act and hundreds of the codes under the NRA would be without constitutional sanction, Mr. Frank declared.

The government's plan of campaign to set aside Judge Barnes' ruling has not been definitly decided, according to Mr. Frank, although it is certain that an order staying operation of the temporary injunction will be sought at once.

"It is only a temporary injunction," said Mr. Frank, "and the question we are now discussing is whether it would be better to wait until it is made permanent or to act now. There are certain intermediate steps, although we intend eventually to appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals."

Opposite of Holly Opinion.

Both Mr. Frank and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace pointed out that Judge Barnes' decision is the opposite of a decision on the same point of constitutional law handed down recently in Chicago by Federal Judge William H. Holly. Secretary Wallace declared that this was "rather interesting," but he refrained from discussing the Barnes' decision at any length.

Asked what the effect of Judge Barnes' ruling will be if it is sustained by higher courts, Mr. Frank said:

"If it should be sustained it will affect all licenses covering purely intrastate commerce. In other words, it would affect a portion of every marketing agreement now in force. The marketing agreements under such an interpretation of the law could apply only to commodities handled strictly in interstate commerce."

Two Decisions Contrasted.

Mr. Frank said that Judge Barnes' opinion cited no cases as precedent for his decision. Judge Holly's earlier decision, favorable to the AAA, Frank pointed out, referred to a number of cases upholding the right of the government to regulate intrastate commerce under statutes expressly stipulating the effect of such trade on interstate shipments.

The immediate effect of the temporary injunction restraining enforcement of the federal license on the six milk dealers involved in the suit will be to prohibit any governmental interference in the conduct of their business. Officials of the AAA admitted that these six dealers will be in a decidedly favorable competitive position inasmuch as they will be able to purchase milk from any producers at any price while their competitors who comply with the marketing agreement will still have to buy from producers at the fixed license price of $2 a hundred pounds [4.3 cents a quart].

The AAA plans to seek a stay order on the injunction at once in order to prevent a price war in the market, it was reported.

MORE DEALERS TO FIGHT.

Prospects for a wholesale upset of the Chicago milk marketing license appeared likely yesterday as more milk dealers indicated that they would defy AAA regulations.

Attorneys who represented the six dealers in the injunction case before Judge Barnes declared that they also represented nearly 40 other dealers, who had never complied with the license and would also ask injunctions if they were cited as license violators.

The lawyers are Arthur R. Seelig, Leo D. Schein, Joseph C. Kanak, and K. B. Czarnecki. Mr. Seelig, speaking for the group, said:

"If the government wishes to try our injunction case on its merits, we too are ready to proceed on the merits. Or, if the government wishes to appeal the case, we are willing and anxious to do that, and will resist reversal of the lower court's order."

It was also learned yesterday that a number of independent dealers who have hesitantly complied with the license—mostly through fear of citation as violators—might make additional attacks on the agreement unless conditions of their individual businesses improve.

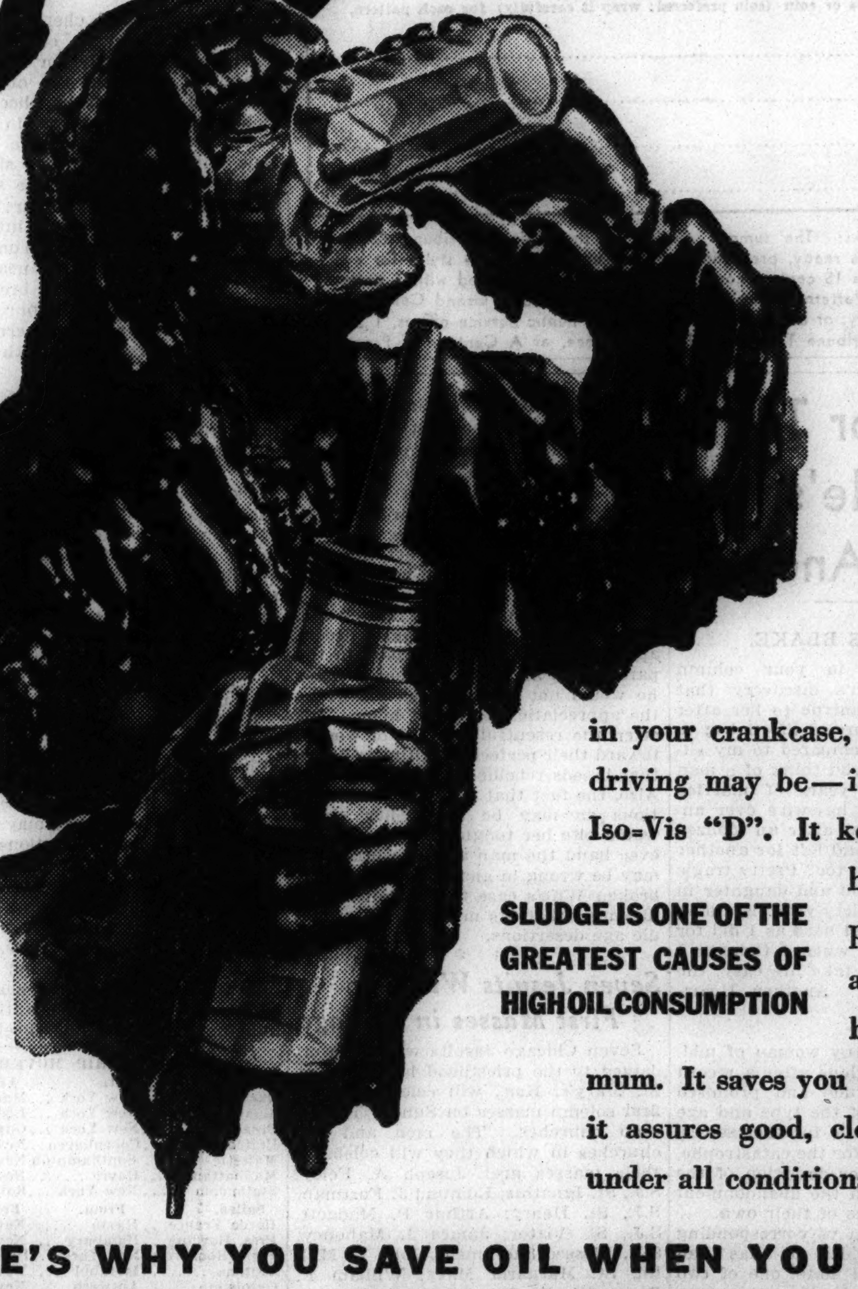
Sludge gulps oil

BUT THERE'S A WAY TO STOP THIS COSTLY WASTE



USE ISO=VIS "D" STANDARD'S ANTI-SLUDGE MOTOR OIL

● Sludge—that sticky, black, tar-like substance which comes out of your crankcase at the end of the drain—is one of the greatest causes of high oil consumption. It clogs oil lines and filters—sticks rings and valves—causes your engine to pump oil.

But now you can easily avoid the extra tax which the presence of sludge places on your motor oil. Simply have the Standard Servisman drain your crankcase and refill it with Iso=Vis "D", the anti-sludge motor oil.

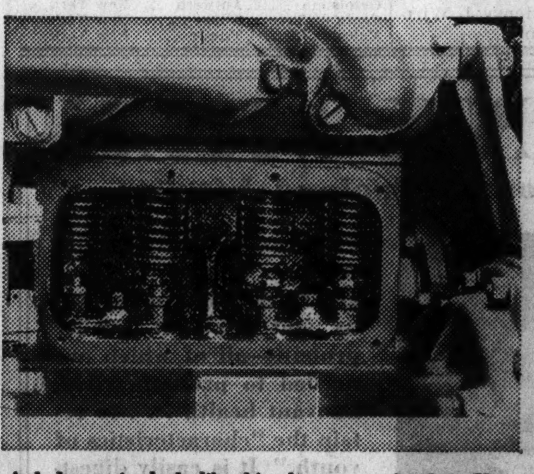
You don't need to worry about sludge formation in your crankcase, no matter how hard or hot the driving may be—if your engine is lubricated with Iso=Vis "D". It keeps rings free and lively, even helps remove sludge formed by previous oils. As a result the amount of oil you need to add between drains is held to a minimum. It saves you good money in the long run and it assures good, clean lubrication for your engine under all conditions. Try it.

SLUDGE IS ONE OF THE GREATEST CAUSES OF HIGH OIL CONSUMPTION

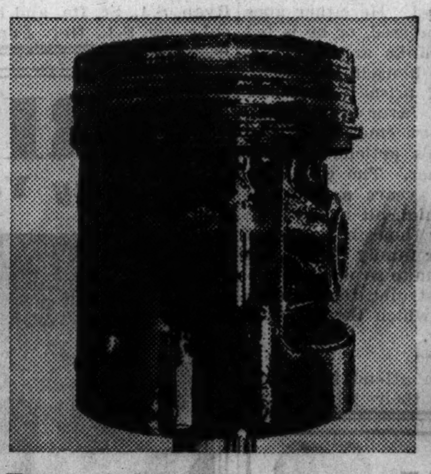
ISO=VIS "D" MOTOR OIL	25¢ a qt.
PLUS FEDERAL TAX	1¢ a qt.
TOTAL	26¢ a qt.

At all Standard Oil Stations and Dealers

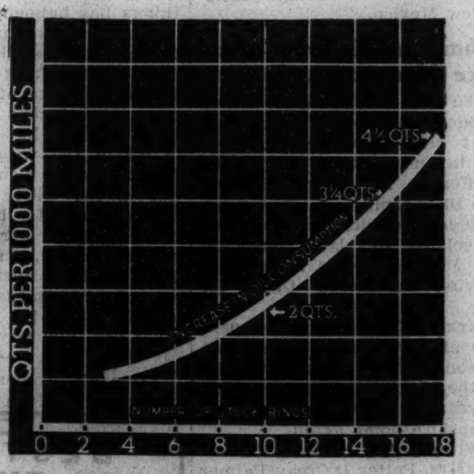
HERE'S WHY YOU SAVE OIL WHEN YOU KEEP SLUDGE OUT



A sludgy engine looks like this when you see inside it. Your engine may not be as badly "sludged" as this even though you have not been using Iso=Vis "D". But much less sludge still can do a great deal of harm.



Here enough sludge has formed to completely clog the piston rings—not only preventing proper oil control but also causing scoring of the piston and cylinder.



This chart, presenting results of tests at the Standard Oil Laboratories, shows how oil consumption goes up when sludge sticks rings. Iso=Vis "D" stops sludge formation, reduces oil consumption, holds down your oil cost.

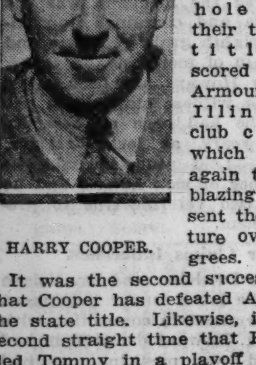
COOPER BEATS ARMOUR TO WIN STATE PRO TITLE

Whips Rival in Play-off for 2d Time.

Springfield, Ill., June 27.—[Special.]—Harry Cooper of the Glen Oak Country club successfully defended his state professional golf championship today, beating Tommy Armour of Medinah by one stroke in the 18 hole playoff of their tie for the title. Cooper scored 71 and Armour 72 at the Illini Country club course, which was baked again today by a blazing sun that sent the temperature over 100 degrees.



HARRY COOPER.

It was the second successive time that Cooper has defeated Armour for the state title. Likewise, it was the second straight time that Harry battled Tommy in a playoff to accomplish it. Last year at Medinah, Cooper took Armour's measure in an eighteen hole playoff by six strokes.

Cooper Comes from Behind.

By winning today, Cooper staged his third comeback in less than ten days. At Peoria, Harry beat Ky Laffoon of Denver for the western open championship in a double playoff after trailing. Yesterday he finished with a 68 to deadlock Armour at 141 strokes at the conclusion of the regulation 36 holes of play and today he had to come from behind again.

Cooper's 71 today coupled with the 141 yesterday gave him a 54 hole total of 212. Armour's 72 brought his total of 213.

As was the case yesterday, Armour led Cooper most of the way. Harry, however, caught up with Tommy this afternoon at the 13th, whereas yesterday he did not square the match until the final hole.

Cooper's victory today was worth $250 to him. Armour's share was $100.

McKelvey Leads Amateurs.

Overcoming a three stroke lead which Hunter Hicks of Chicago held after the first round, Cliff McKelvey of Decatur, won the amateur medalist honors with a total score of 110 for the 27 holes of qualifying play in the state amateur tournament which began today.

A field of 70 competed for the 32 places in the match play which starts tomorrow. Don Armstrong, the defending champion was exempt from qualifying.

Hicks' score of 112, however, was good enough to place him in a four way tie for second with E. G. Hedges, Decatur; Harry Moller, Quincy, and Bob Sawyer, Chicago.

S. A. Williams Jr. of Chicago won the 32d place by winning the first hole with a birdie three in a playoff against seven others who were tied at 121.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WAKE LETTER BOX.

SEVERAL contributors and valued Helpers have voiced good natured plaints that it is too difficult to break into this column; that repeated attempts resulting in failure are discouraging. Well, something ought to be done about that.

In support of their argument those with long memories recite that when this conductor was installed in 1919 it was announced that The Wake would be in part a contributors' column similar on the sports pages to The Line, then conducted on the editorial page by B. L. T. The latter was an admixture of original and contributed comment and quips.

Obviously it is not possible to publish all communications received. Another deterrent has been the length of many such articles, too long for the limited space allotment. However, we still wish sports followers to feel that The Wake is their mouthpiece. Therefore we'll devote the remainder of this column today to contributed articles, and continue the plan from time to time if circumstances warrant.

Or golf and fish and everything,
But can't forget their work.

But harken to a fool's advice
And keep your energy on ice;
Vacations come but once, not twice,
And to enjoy it best . . .

Go out and play with might and main
Until your body wracks with pain,
But ere you face the job again
Take a few days out to rest.

For Cheaper Seats.

To Lou Comiskey: You have the finest baseball park in the world. It is a fitting monument to your beloved father . . . but why keep it empty year after year because it is felt that a seat far to the rear of the outfielders should bring $1 when this identical space once brought 25 cents?

The period of inflation has passed. Comiskey park can seat a lot of people—three times the capacity of the old 39th street grounds where Ed Walsh and Frank Isbell made fame for the White Sox and a heap of money for your dad. There are thousands of loyal fans who have forgotten the Black Sox who would come out in large numbers if general admission prices were adjusted to meet their purses. Think this over.

SIGILIO KNOCKS OUT NEBO WHILE NEIGHBORS HOWL

Newest Lightweight Star Wins in Eighth.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Pete Nebo, whose proudest boast has been that he never has been knocked out in 12 years of fighting, went down last night for the count before the terrific slugging of Chicago's newest lightweight star, Frankie Sigilio of Cicero, a former Golden Gloves fighter. Young Sigilio dropped the Spanish Seminole with a right hand wallop to the jaw late in the eighth round of a bout at Sparta field while a crowd of 2,200, largely composed of Frankie's well wishers and neighbors, howled encouragement.

The victory was the seventeenth for Sigilio who never has been defeated. The young man, scarcely known outside Cook county, emphasized with each blow that he is ready for the best lightweights in the country, including the world's champion, Barney Ross.

Winch on Scouting Visit?

Among last night's crowd, which paid Promoter Harry Weiss $2,680 to see the bout, was Ross' mother, Mrs. Sarah Rosofsky and his co-manager Art Winch, who may have done a bit of scouting for the champion.

In the first round Sigilio gave warning when he knocked Nebo into the ropes with a left hook. He repeated in the third round and then in the fourth, a fast driven right cut Nebo's mouth. Frankie did not escape punishment. After three minutes, Nebo's sharp, short punches had puffed his nose a blooming red, but this punishment failed to subtract anything from the Italian's counter attacks.

By the seventh round Nebo's face was cut and bruised. Then came the sensational finish. Near the end of the round Sigilio loosed two dynamite blows, a left hook to the jaw, followed by a right as the Indian bounced backward from the impact of the first and Nebo dropped to the floor. He came to his feet as Referee Tommy Thomas counted five. Again Sigilio swung his left and as Nebo struck the canvas, the bell ended the round.

Not Enough Rest.

A minute's rest was not sufficient for the veteran and when Sigilio rushed at the start of the eighth round, he doubled up in his corner, protecting his head with his arms. Again and again Sigilio hammered at his defenseless opponent. Finally Frankie drove Nebo from the corner and across the ring. After more than two minutes of torture, Nebo raised to his full stature and swung weakly. This was Sigilio's opportunity and his right crashed to Nebo's jaw.

Lenny Cohen, former Golden Glover, won a six round decision over Bob O'Dowd, Sioux City, Ia., bantamweight, in the semi-windup. Cohen floored O'Dowd three times in the third round. Other results were:

Sailor Born, Birmingham, Ala., lightweight, stopped Frankie Keevil, Chicago, in five rounds; Mickey Misko, Saginaw, Mich., knocked out Einer Hedquist, Chicago middleweight, in two rounds, and Bob La Monte, member of the 1934 Golden Gloves intercity team, stopped Jack Mathews, Chicago welterweight, in three rounds.

Col. Bradley Smiles Winning Smile as Black Helen Scores

BY FRENCH LANE.

Now and then Col. E. R. Bradley of Palm Beach and Lexington spreads an enormous smile over his dignified countenance which completely wipes away the most noted poker face in the world.

Old time friends of the colonel in Chicago claim they first noticed this transformation back in 1921 when Behave Yourself and Black Servant finished one-two in the Kentucky Derby for the first Bradley Derby triumph.

They remember seeing it again in 1926 when the colonel's Bubbling Over and Bagenbaggage finished first and second in the Derby. They saw it again in 1932 when Burgoo King won the Derby. And they witnessed it once more in 1933 when Brokers' Tip won that Derby.

Wins Knollwood Purse.

At Arlington Park yesterday the Bradley smile once more broke forth. Billy McLean of Chicago, a lifelong friend of Col. Bradley, noticed it and so did everybody near the Bradley box when Black Helen won the Knollwood purse.

This was the third start of Black Helen's career, and it was her third victory. She faced some of the most stylish juveniles that have been out this year.

Three lengths back of Black Helen was Needle from the Joseph E. Widener stable. A length and a half back of the two leaders in third place was Hal Price Headley's Fraidy Cat. World Series, highly regarded Brookmeade stable colt, was fourth. Bye Lo finished fifth and Mrs. Fab was last.

Black Helen is an undersized daughter of Black Tony-La Trolenne and because of her daintiness Col. Bradley did not nominate her for any of the rich juvenile stakes this year. He was a little sad about this. Still he smiled and indicated to friends that Black Helen is the best 2 year old he has watched run this year and he has seen them all both in the east and west.

Backed by Wise Players.

Most of the colts and fillies which looked at Black Helen's flying heels yesterday are eligible to the Hyde Park stakes to be run on Saturday and to the Lassie stakes and Futurity later on in the season. Black Helen isn't eligible to any of them.

After she reeled off the five furlongs in 1:00 1-5 and appeared to be wanting to run for the rest of the afternoon, Black Helen, backed by nearly all the wise players in the crowd, paid $3.12 to win, $2.52 to place, and $2.36 to show. Needle paid $3.94 to place and $3.22 to show. Fraidy Cat was at $4.18 to show.

HENRY COTTON'S 67 LEADS FIELD IN BRITISH OPEN

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

SANDWICH, June 27.—Henry Cotton, 27 years old and one of England's "gentlemen professionals" employed at the Waterloo club in Brussels, shot a 67 in the first round of the British open today and thus obtained a four stroke lead over Denny Shute, defending champion and nearest of the United States invaders, whose 71 was one stroke under par.

Cotton's 67 is seven strokes ahead of Joe Kirkwood's 74, eight ahead of Gene Sarazen's 75, and ten ahead of Mac Smith's 77. The United States amateur hope, Robert Sweeney Jr., blew up with an 8 at the dangerous Suez Canal hole and finished with 80.

Cotton Hits Accurately.

Even Shute, whose golf today was more sound than it had been since his arrival in England, is going to find those four strokes a heavy handicap. There is a strong group of young British lads on the mark with him, including William Laidlaw, formerly assistant to Gordon Lockhart at Glen Eagles; Henry Padgham, and C. A. Whitcombe. Percy Alliss and the young amateur, Leslie Garnett, are one stroke behind.

Cotton was only twice off the course, once when a 360 yard drive ran into a trap in the center of the fairway intended to catch second shots and again at the 18th where a slightly pulled drive enabled him to make a spectacular spoon shot from the rough onto the green.

Sarazen Meets Trouble.

Sarazen's misfortunes started before 10 o'clock when his caddy found the weight of the clubs too heavy. Sarazen decided he would be better employed as a ball marker. This change of horses at the first stream was accompanied by a downpour of rain and three putts from a comparatively short distance on the first green.

Sarazen three putted at fourth. By this time the play had slowed down and there was a tieup before every shot. Sarazen somewhat impatiently cut his drive at the fifth, was trapped from his drive at the short sixth, was short with his second at the seventh and had to hole out from over two yards at the ninth to turn in 37.

Gale Springs Up.

The rain stopped, but to make matters worse half a gale got up from the wrong quarter for the homeward round. At the thirteenth Sarazen was bunkered off the second and then three putted for a six. In the teeth of the rising wind he could not reach the fourteenth in two and carded a five. He reached the ticklish long fifteenth with two fine woods, but the seventeenth and eighteenth both required three shots to reach the green, Sarazen saving himself with one putt on each.

In the afternoon Mac Smith was forced to cope with a tricky wind. One moment it was blowing half a gale, but by the time Smith had played his shot the ball was sailing through a flat calm.

Kirkwood Misses Putts.

It was much the same with Kirkwood. The greens were then caking on top and wet underneath and after missing three two foot putts on the way out and one of a yard on the tenth, he stopped for a few moments to explain to the spectators why it was.

Shute followed under better conditions and pursued an unruffled way to the eleventh, which has a plateau green sloping toward a trap six feet deep. It is the sort of a place where championships are lost.

Shute's ball rolled into that trap, but he played foxily after that. He took three cautious shots to reach the fourteenth green over the Suez canal and played his second to the fifteenth wide to avoid the cross bunkers, but he got a 4 from a well-judged pitch.

Shute Gets a Two.

His tee shot at the short sixteenth hit the flagstick and fell dead for a two. He was going well for 70 at the eighteenth when his second caught a trap and although he exploded out well against the wind he needed two putts.

At the end of tomorrow's round the field will be limited to the first 60 players and those tying for the sixtieth place for the final two rounds to be played Friday. Thus Mac Smith cannot afford another bad round.

Yankees Beat Sox on Homer in 11th, 8 to 7

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 27.—The White Sox went eleven heroic innings this afternoon before they finally succumbed to the Yankees, 8 to 7, on Ben Chapman's home run off Joe Heving.

The Sox first show of valor was when Al Simmons this afternoon knocked his No. 12 homer with the bases full to greatly embarrass the magnificent Lefty Gomez, who was making his second try for his thirteenth triumph of the year. Al's big smack tied the score in the fourth inning, the Yankees having previously scored four runs on Babe Ruth's No. 12 homer and miscellaneous other socks.

Sox Tie Score in Ninth.

The Yanks made an unearned run in the seventh and two more off Gaston in the eighth but the Sox still were fighting and succeeded in chasing across three runs after two were out in the ninth to tie the score. Singles by Boken and Swanson, a walk to Haas and single good for two runs knocked out Gomez for the first time this year. And it was Lefty's second incomplete game, he having withdrawn once before this season for a pinch batter.

Heving walked three in the ninth but escaped, and he halted a rally by the Yanks in the tenth in which Crosetti led off with a single. But then he threw the home run ball to Chapman after Gehrig had been retired in the eleventh. Gehrig, incidentally, was stopped all day for the first time in 17 games.

And so the Sox headed west on the last lap of a trip in which they lost 16 games while winning five. Today's setback was the seventh they have suffered in seven games at the Yankee stadium this season and their tenth in eight games played with the Yanks.

Yankees Score First.

The Sox didn't get a man to first base in the first three innings, but the Yankees were much more active. Crosetti opened the home offensive with a triple to left center, paused while Saltzgaver lined to Boken and Ruth walked, after which he scored on Gehrig's long fly to Simmons.

Chapman singled to center, Ruth stopping at second and the bases were full when Dickey was given credit for a single after Boken had failed to hold on to his easy grounder. Hoag flied to Swanson. In the second inning Heffner's single, Gomez's sacrifice, Saltzgaver's single, and that No. 12 of Ruth's accounted for three runs.

The Sox fourth was indeed pleasant to Chicago partisans and startling to Señor Gomez and his admirers. Swanson became the first Chicagoan to reach first when he led off the fourth with a single to center. Haas singled past third, Swanson stopping at second. Dykes was called out on strikes, but the bases were full after Bonura smacked a single off Gehrig's glove. Simmons ran the count to three balls and two strikes then socked homer No. 12, a 410 footer, into the left field boxes, tallying behind Swanson, Haas, and Bonura to tie the score. The amazed Gomez promptly walked Madjeski and let him go to second on a wild pitch. Boken and Chamberlin were quite helpless, however. The Sox started off well in the sixth,

BUSH PRESIDES OVER SEVENTH VICTORY IN ROW

Cuyler Continues Heavy Hitting.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The affable Dodgers from Brooklyn coöperated with the Cubs again yesterday so that the Chicagoan's current winning streak could be extended instead of being snapped. The visitors, not being able to figure what Guy Bush was throwing and not having much pitching on their own account, subsided in the final of the four game series, 5 to 1, making it seven in a row for the second placers. It also was seven in succession for the Brooklyn boys, but defeats, not victories.

GUY BUSH.

In his second start since an injury shelved him May 31, Bush went the full nine inning route on a limited yield of six hits, three of which occurred in the first two sessions. After that his chief trouble grew from an inclination toward wildness, but this never became serious, partly because of his own skill and partly because of the agile fashion in which his mates fielded. They made only one mistake behind him and this was sufficient to deny him the pleasure of his first shutout of the season. It marked his ninth victory against two defeats.

Munns Routed Early.

The Cubs snapped a padlock on the day's decision by rising up with an effective assault against Leslie Munns in the second inning just a few moments after the Dodgers had picked up their solitary run. Before the inning was concluded Munns was no longer among those present. His hurried removal was forced by a double by Babe Herman, Ki Cuyler's fourth homer of the year, a two bagger by Don Hurst, a slightly phoney triple by Bill Jurges and lastly a single by Bush. After this blast the Cubs were slightly feeble against Old Man Tom Zachary.

Cuyler's homer, along with a subsequent single, was just another episode in his recent activity as a hitter. In four days of work against the Dodger pitchers he rolled up a total of eight hits in 15 times at bat. In the last game in the Giant series he produced three safeties in five attempts. Three of his clouts in these five battles were homers into the right field seats.

Bush Almost Escapes.

Despite two solid hits with none out in the second, Bush might have dodged being scored on if Hartnett had not erred. Leslie opened the inning with a two bagger to left and Cuccinello singled in the same direction. Because there was nobody retired Leslie stopped at third. Stripp bounced to Hack, who threw to Hartnett. Leslie turned back and arrived safely at third when Hartnett's throw hit him. Leslie then scored on Lopez's fly. A couple of force plays with a pass in between ended the annoyance.

The business of shoving Munns out of employment in the home second began with Babe Herman's double to right. The Babe didn't have to wait long before getting transportation to the plate on Cuyler's homer into the right field bleacher. Hartnett was disposed of on a tap to the pitcher. Hurst doubled over first and continued to third on Frederick's wide return throw. Jurges hit a high fly to right center and Taylor, after getting his hands on it, stumbled over Frederick and dropped the ball for a triple, Hurst scoring. Jurges counted on a single by Bush, whereupon Zachary came forth to restore order.

Get to Zachary in Fifth.

It took the Cubs quite a bit of time to make any headway against Zachary. There were singles by Cuyler and Hartnett in the third, but two were out at the time and Bush fanned. The fourth brought forth one single, Billy Herman being the author. This also came after two were gone. Then Klein walked to open the fifth

HELEN HICKS AND MRS. REINHARDT AID GOLF PUPILS

Women Stars Pay Visit to Elmgate Class.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

HELEN HICKS.

Two unexpected instructors stepped into THE TRIBUNE golf school picture last night, choosing Elmgate for the occasion. They were Helen Hicks, former national champion who recently became the first business woman golfer in America, and Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt, who as Elaine Rosenthal twice won the western women's title. Accompanied by George O'Neil, Mrs. Reinhardt's first teacher, the two immediately entered into the spirit of the evening, and not content with giving a mere demonstration of shots, stayed on to assist Professional Jim Dwyer and his staf in teaching the class of more than 200 women who appeared.

Miss Hicks first gave an exhibition of shots, in which she took every club in the bag, called it by number, explained its purpose and the swing for it, and then hit an actual shot with it. Mrs. Reinhardt followed this with several shots with the mashie, which happened to be the club in use on all courses of the Chicago Daily Fee association last night, the midiron and the driver. So enthusiastic was the class in its appreciation that both Mrs. Reinhardt and Miss Hicks lingered on to give personal tips to the pupils when the lesson proper began.

Chrissie Lectures on Mashie.

Ralph Chrissie of Big Run lectured to a class of nearly 50 on the proper use of the mashie. Chrissie found a common tendency among his pupils to kill the ball with a too rapid swing, which he straightened out considerably by advising a slow backswing.

A huge class of 500, most of them from Austin, Oak Park and Forest Park, attended the lesson at Harlem, where Jack Yorgan and Al Crowley taught. They concentrated on mashie niblick shots, with practical demonstrations out of bunkers and traps, and concluded with a short lesson on putting. Next Sunday, the women students at Harlem will have an opportunity to prove their teachings in a tournament, for which there are already more than 200 entries.

George Jenkins confined his lesson to Northbrook's class of 75 on methods of coming up to the green from various distances, and lectured on the value of the mashie as an important short game weapon. Among the students in his class was Mrs. Madeline Aronson, 71 years old, who hits the ball well for her age, getting from 75 to 100 yards with her shots.

100 in Chicago Meadows Class.

Les MacArthur of Chicago Meadows gave a mashie lesson to a group of nearly 100. Les announced that al though a majority of the association courses will hold no lessons next Tuesday and Wednesday because of the Independence day holiday, he will welcome pupils on those two nights, as well as Thursday.

Dan Lynch gave a demonstration of the short game to 75 at Golfmoor, and then allowed each member of the class to hit a few shots. Both MacArthur and Lynch report more than a dozen pupils with excellent swings at their courses.

Frank Springer and his Mid-City assistants had their hands full with an attendance of 400, to whom they gave instruction in approaching the green, and escaping from traps and rough when in the vicinity of the putting surface.

Kocsis Wins Two College Golf Matches

Cleveland, O., June 27.—[Special.]—Charles Kocsis of Michigan, Western conference champion, escaped the jinx that frequently besets a medalist and won two matches today to enter the quarter finals of the 36h annual National Intercollegiate golf tournament at the Cleveland Country club.

Of the seven others who survived the first and second rounds today one is from Michigan and two from Notre Dame. The luck of the draw will pair Kocsis and his Michigan teammate, Woodrow Malloy, in one of the 36 holes matches tomorrow.

Johnny Banks of Notre Dame sank a 35 yard shot from out of a trap to win his second round match with a birdie three at the 21st green and accompany Vincent Fehlig, captain of the Notre Dame forces, into the quarterfinals.

Champion Loses, 3 and 2.

The remaining eastern contender for the championship, William Y. Dear of Brown, eliminated the defending champion, Walter Emery of Oklahoma, 3 and 2. The south still has three in the running with Frank Ridley and Charles Yates of Georgia Tech and Ed White of Texas.

Banks, co-medalist last year and former western junior champion, was one under par for 21 holes, shooting the best golf this tournament has seen, in defeating Fred Newton of Rollins in the second round. Fehlig also made a spectacular finish in his second round match when he holed a 25 foot chip shot to win, 1 up, from D. P. Seeley of Michigan. He had beaten Roy Ryden, southern California intercollegiate champion, in 19 holes.

Kocsis Wins Easily.

Kocsis had little trouble disposing of Bert Resnick of Yale, 2 and 1, and Berrien Moore of Georgia Tech, 4 and 2. Malloy defeated another Michigan man, Clarence Markham, 2 and 1, in the first round and then beat William Ward of Syracuse, 4 and 2.

Yates won a morning match from Winfield Day Jr. of Chicago, Notre Dame sophomore, 1 up. Yates was one over par and Day was two over.

Arthur Wood of Princeton, a Chicago resident, was Banks' victim this morning, 2 and 1.

The morning results:

Champion Scores 4 and 2 Victory in Women's Golf

Favorites survived the first round of match play in the women's city golf tournament at the Evergreen Golf club yesterday.

The defender of the title, Josephine Souchek of Big Oaks, came through with a 4 and 2 victory over Mary Beatty of Evergreen. Josephine shot steady golf, scoring two 45s, three putting only one green, the 15th.

The medalist, Shirley Ann Johnson of Sunset Ridge, had an easy time disposing of Evelyn Bailey of Cog Hill, 6 and 5. Shirley scored 45—44—89 for the best medal of the day.

Ann Conroy of Cherry Hill advanced to the second round at the expense of Georgie Light of Evergreen, 2 and 1. Miss Conroy was 3 up at the 10th but lost five holes by three putting. Miss Light carried the match to the 17th hole by virtue of a 20 foot putt for a two on the 16th.

Kay Evans of Skokie Playfield defeated Marie Henricks, 6 and 5, while Mrs. Isabel Meany of Cog Hill beat Eleanor Wendt of Pipe o' Peace, 8 and 6.

Rose Long of Cog Hill won over Cleo Brown, Evergreen, 5 and 4, after being 4 up at the turn, while Clarice Richardson of Jackson defeated Elizabeth Clauson, 5 and 3.

Ester Johnson of Cherry Hill had to go to the last green in the closest match of the day to win over Babe Ahern of Evergreen, 1 up. Miss Johnson was 1 down at the turn, but overtook her opponent coming in.

Today's play will bring together Shirley Ann Johnson and Rose Long in what should be the best match of the day. Pairings for second day's match play:

Josephine Souchek and Ann Conroy.
Kay Evans and Isabel Meany.
Shirley Ann Johnson and Rose Long.
Ester Johnson and Clarice Richardson.

Parker Faces Strong Field on Clay Courts

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The numerous Chicago tennis fans who like to follow the fortunes of Frank Parker will get an opportunity to see this versatile young fellow play next week when he begins his defense of the national clay court championship. The tournament will begin Monday at the Chicago Town and Tennis club and will continue throughout the week.

If Parker is to retain his title he will be forced to stand off the challenge of a number of brilliant rivals, the most dangerous contender appearing to be Bryan Grant of Atlanta, Ga.

Both of these young players are out for recognition as future Davis cup team candidates, and both have scored several victories over members of the American squad which is now campaigning at Wimbledon. Next week the rivalry between them will be brought to a showdown.

Ranked on Nearly Equal Terms.

The ranking committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association rates them on nearly equal terms, Grant being placed seventh in the national standing and Parker eighth.

Critics of the game have pronounced Parker's style to be thoroughly sound, and he has been making steady progress in the last few seasons, moving into faster company all the time. He was national boys' champion in 1931 and national junior champion in 1932. Leaving the ranks of the youngsters he has gained each year in his prestige among the senior players. Most experts consider it only a question of time and experience until he is playing on the American Davis cup team.

The contest between Parker and Grant next week might be called a natural. The Atlanta player, who upset every member of the American Davis cup team during recent months is out to show the committee that it made a mistake in leaving him out of consideration for this year's international competition. He is doing this by going through one tournament after another without a defeat.

Seeks Two Titles in Week.

He was to have played John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., for the title, but the meeting was postponed until next week when both players will be back in town for the national clay courts. Grant, therefore, hopes to win two championships next week—the western and the national clay courts, which would be something of an achievement for even as accomplished a young man as he.

Parker and Grant will not have the field to themselves by any means. Gene Mako of Los Angeles and Donald Budge of San Francisco are among the strongest contenders. Mako is thirteenth in the national ranking and Budge is one of the most formidable of the younger players. He won the national junior championship last year and is rated No. 1 in the men's singles standing of the northern California district.

Carolin Babcock Enters 3d Round at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 27.—Carolin Babcock hurdled the second round of the All-England tennis tournament today with an uphill victory over Mlle. Colette Rosambert of France, 7-5, 6-2.

Miss Babcock, Los Angeles' hope in the tournament and fifth in the American women's ranking, appeared out of form in the first set against the holder of the French covered court title. She recovered from an erratic start, however, and thrilled the gallery with a barrage of flashing drives to win the first set by a narrow margin. The American girl easily was the French woman's superior in the second set.

Today was women's day in the Wimbledon classic, devoted mainly to completion of the second round of the women's singles. All of the American contenders in the men's singles were given a rest until tomorrow, and the few men's matches on the schedule were marred or curtailed by rain.

Sarah Palfrey, one of the favorites to bring to America the women's title defaulted by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, routed Mrs. E. M. Dearman of England, 6-3, 62.

Virginia Rice of Boston was eliminated by Mrs. Harry C. Hopman of Australia, 6-4, 10-8. Miss Rice, ninth in the American ranking, went down fighting, carrying Mrs. Hopman to match point four times before accepting defeat.

Dorothy Round, No. 1 in the English list, had a walkaway 6-0, 6-1 victory over Miss E. V. Montgomery of England, while Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, England, conqueror of Betty Nuthall yesterday, eliminated a compatriot, Miss F. K. Scott, in an overtime match, 6-0, 5-7, 6-1.

Gottfried von Cramm, favorite German entry in the men's singles, put out E. D. Andress, No. 1 New Zealand representative, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4. Another Australian, Don P. Turnbull, met defeat at the hands of H. W. [Bunny] Austin, British Davis cup ace, 6-1, 6-4, 6-3, the victory putting Austin in the quarter-final bracket.

Frank Shields, United States, paired with the Briton, Nigel Sharpe, scored a doubles victory over the Dutch team of J. H. Knottenbelt and G. Leembruggem, 6-4, 6-0, 6-2.

Dave Barry may present a professional card at A Century of Progress next Wednesday. . . . The show scheduled at Northwest stadium tomorrow has been deferred until July 6.

Jimmy Christy, south side 126 pound boxer, and Bobby O'Dowd, Sioux City, Ia., have been paired for an eight round main bout Monday at White City.

Hayden [Young] Stuhley, Kewanee, I.., who was awarded a 10 round decision over Middleweight Champion Vince Dundee in a nontitle bout at Mills stadium Tuesday, will be inactive for awhile because of an injured right wrist. As soon as the injury is healed John Corbett, Kawanee business man, will forward a $2,500 forfeit check to the New York boxing commission for a championship match with Dundee in the east, Eddie Stanton, manager of Stuhley, announced.

Angler Thrills as He Hooks Bass on Rise

BY BOB BECKER.

On either a black bass or trout fishing trip it's always fun for the angler to fish a rise if he can. As many American fishermen know it is a common practice on some European streams to stalk trout and cast only for a fish that has just come to the surface.

When we were fly rod fishing for black bass near Crivitz, Wis., a few days ago we had just one opportunity to toss a fly to try to get a rising fish. But the stunt worked perfectly even though it was a hurried job to get our lure to the right spot. It was about 10 o'clock in the morning. Earlier a light shower had fallen. Then the sky began to clear up. With the appearance of the sun the small mouth black bass in the High Falls reservoir where we were fishing went down. We had to switch to wet flies in order to reach the fish. Moreover, under the bright hot sun the black bass naturally slowed up as one might expect them to do on a summer day.

Fisherman Enjoys a Smoke.

We decided to take a few minutes to enjoy a smoke, so we laid down our rod and stretched out on the seat in the stern of the boat. In the front Edward A. Sippel, of Chicago, our fishing partner for the morning, was keeping a yellow wet fly and gold spinner combination busy as he shot it toward the shore, against grassy islands and around old snags which are numerous in the High Falls reservoir.

There wasn't a bit of breeze disturbing the water where our boat was moving along, so the surface was placid. Suddenly a fish broke water not more than 20 feet from the stern of the boat. It had been two hours since we had seen anything with fins come to the surface. Just for the fun of it we reached out quickly, grabbed the fly rod, stripped off line as fast as we could, made several false casts and then dropped our floating lure on the rise. It came to rest among the widening ripples still visible on water.

And He's Hooked!

When the lure hit the water we worked it just enough to give it a semblance of life. That was all the black bass needed. Up he came with rush, opened his jaws and bang!. He was hooked. He only weighed around two pounds, but he put up the usual scrappy fight for which the small mouthed bass is famous.

High Falls reservoir, about 14 miles from Crivitz, primarily a stretch of bass water for the fly rod fisherman, must be classed as "artificial" since it is a man made body of water. However, it certainly has been a producer of small mouthed black bass. There also are wall-eyed pike in this and other reservoirs in that territory. Fly fishermen have been getting pike on wet flies, too.

RAIN POSTPONES KLICK-CANZONERI BOUT TO TONIGHT

New York, June 27.—(AP)—Rain, which started to fall a few hours before Frankie Klick and Tony Canzoneri were to have climbed into the ring at Ebbets field for their 15 round lightweight fight, tonight brought postponement of the bout until tomorrow night.

The crowd was filing into the ball park in Brooklyn when the rain set in and Promoter Al Weill immediately ordered the postponement as the forecast was for showers all through tonight but fair and warmer tomorrow.

The fighters will not have to weigh in again tomorrow. Canzoneri scaled 134 today, one-quarter of a pound more than his San Francisco foe.

JUDGE QUASHES TWO CHARGES IN DOPING HEARING

Court Rules Prosecution's Methods Illegal.

A partial victory was won by the defense yesterday in the trial of two men accused of doping race horses, when Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan ordered the evidence suppressed in two of the three counts against them, on the grounds that it had been illegally obtained.

However, the trial proceeded on the third count, that of violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic act. The counts in which evidence was suppressed charged concealment of drugs, and conspiracy to drug horses at the Arlington Park race track in Chicago, the Hialeah track in Florida and the Jefferson Park track in New Orleans.

Defense Scores Point.

Attorney William F. Waugh, counsel for the defense, scored a point when he produced as a witness Dr. J. M. Kizer, a veterinarian, who admitted he had prescribed a "medicine" for Howard's horses which involved both heroin and morphine. He declared, however, that the proportions were legal, regular, and purely medicinal in nature.

He declared the medicine was his own formula and contained approximately one-eighth grain of heroin and one-half grain of morphine.

Previously Howard had been called again to the witness stand. He testified that he had been a horseman for thirty years, as jocky, trainer, and owner. Last year, he said, he had a number of sick horses, and he had called two veterinarians to prescribe for them.

Owner Claims Innocence.

They were Dr. Kizer and Dr. Nelson Southard, the latter under indictment by the government in connection with horse doping. Howard declared he had administered the medicine, or had Mitchell administer it, as the veterinarians had ordered, but that if it contained narcotics he had no knowledge of this.

He stated he paid $5 for each prescription and denied the allegation made earlier by the government that he paid from $30 to $35 for the prescriptions if the horse won after the treatment.

Mitchell testified that he had given medicine to the horses at Howard's direction, and sometimes did so approximately 45 minutes before post time of a race. He stated that several of the horses named in the government testimony as having been doped had coughs and throat trouble.

BETTER IRON SHOTS . . . AND 3 REASONS WHY
Iron clubhead design stepped ahead last season, with the introduction of Bristol PYRAMID Irons. They are the only irons with all three of these essential virtues:
1 THE WEIGHTED SOLE, which puts the balance at the bottom of the clubhead, providing a distinctly sweeter feel.
2 THE PYRAMID BACK, which places the greatest weight on the back of each head directly behind the center of impact, adding power to the shot.
3 THE ADJUSTED WEIGHT. As the depth and loft of the blade increases, the pyramid weight falls lower. This means greater distance and top spin for long range clubs (low numbers), and more loft and back spin for short range clubs.

"Whip-It" Shaft PYRAMID Irons furnished in the regular Bristol Steel Shafts—or in the popular "Whip-It" Steel Shaft for Irons—tapered from top to bottom. More whip without sacrificing accuracy.
You have a pleasant surprise awaiting you the first time you go round with Bristol Pyramid Irons. Most golfers who have tried them out achieve greater distance, more accuracy and more complete control. Try them.

CARDS DEFEAT GIANTS, 8-7, ON HOMER IN NINTH

Dizzy Dean Fails to Finish, but Gets Credit.

St. Louis, Mo., June 28.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the New York Giants, 8 to 7, today for a split in the four game series and Jerome [Dizzy] Dean's 12th victory of the year.

Dean was out of the game when Bill De Lancey, St. Louis catcher, hit a home run in the last half of the ninth inning, but as Jim Mooney had pitched to only one batter in the ninth, when the Giants tied the score, Dean was credited with the victory.

It made two triumphs in one day for Dizzy, for he received notice just before the game that he had been awarded credit for Saturday's victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers, originally listed as a victory for Bill Hallahan.

Catcher Gus Mancuso went out in the second half of the first with a bruised finger before one man was out. The Cardinals then pounded Hal Schumacher for four runs on three hits, an error by Blondy Ryan, and interference with Pepper Martin at bat by Harry Danning, who had replaced Mancuso.

The Giants got two runs back in the second, went ahead in a wild third inning, which saw Manager Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals sent from the game for a too violent protest against a decision.

After Schumacher had hit a home run into the left field stands and two more runs had come in on three singles and a hit batsman, Ott tried to score on a bounder to Jim Collins and at first was called out. The Giants protested, claiming De Lancy had dropped the ball. After a consultation the umpires reversed the decision and called Ott safe. Frisch protested and was ejected from the game. Score:

PIRATES, 4; PHILLIES, 1.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 27.—(AP)—Showing the old form that made him the star of the Pirate pitching staf a year ago, Larry French proved better than Curt Davis today and Pittsburgh won from the Phillies, 4 to 1, in the last game of the series.

The southpaw allowed only seven scattered hits and until the eighth inning—in which the Phillies scored a run—he had not been scored upon for 16 consecutive innings. French has not walked a batsman in his last 22 innings on the mound.

The Pirates hit opportunely to win. They took four of the five games played with the Phils. Score:

BRAVES BEAT REDS, 8-4.

Cincinnati, O., June 27.—(AP)—Berger banged out his eleventh home run of the season, after reaching a count of two and three, as the Boston Braves defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 8 to 4, today.

Both teams hit freely throughout, but loose fielding was fatal to the Reds. Two errors by Mark Koenig alone in the fourth spoiled what should have been a double play, and meant at least two of the four runs the Braves scored in that inning.

Capt. Jim Bottomley of the Reds was on the bench, his left arm too sore after being thrown out of joint yesterday to permit him to play. Score:

Dykes hitting the three and nothing ball for a single to center and stopping at second on Bonura's single. For an instant it appeared that Simmons had duplicated his homer, but Hoag went against the rail of the left field boxes and speared Al's drive with a leaping catch. Madjeski fouled to Saltzgaver and Boken tapped to Heffner.

One of Chamberlin's picturesque throws enabled the Yanks to resume the lead in the seventh. Crosetti sent a grounder to Joe, who promptly missed Bonura's glove by some 10 to 12 feet. Saltzgaver sacrificed and Ruth singled to right, scoring Crosetti. Byrd ran for Ruth. Gehrig fouled to Madjeski and Chapman lined to Simmons.

Simmons doubled with two down in the eighth, but the threat died forthwith on Madjeski's foul to Gehrig.

Gomez Knocked Out.

Here's the way the Sox knocked out Gomez in the ninth and tied the score. Boken singled to left and paused while Chamberlin and Shea, batting for Gaston, popped to Heffner. Swanson caromed a single off of Crosetti's chest, Boken stopping at second. Haas walked, filling the bases. Dykes singled to left, scoring Boken and Swanson, Haas stopping at second. Whereupon Gomez was replaced for the second time this year, Murphy taking over the pitching job.

Bonura singled to left, scoring Haas with the tying run, Dykes stopping at second. Simmons lined to Chapman. Heving went into pitch in the Yanks' ninth and loaded the bases with three walks, but got the side out by fanning Murphy for the third out.

The Sox failed to get the ball out of the infield in the tenth.

CADDY AWARDED $10,000 FOR BEING HIT BY GOLF BALL

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—Failure of a golfer, expert or otherwise, to give a "timely and adequate" warning to those in the general direction toward which he intends to propel his ball constitutes negligence, according to an opinion handed down today by Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer.

This observation was made in connection with the justice's handing down a $10,000 judgment in favor of a caddy who was seriously injured by a ball hit by M. T. Powers of Forest Hills, L. I., on the Churchill Valley course, near Pittsburgh, two years ago.

At the time of the accident Mr. Powers was a member of a "sevensome" which was attempting to finish a round before darkness covered the course on the evening of July 27, 1932. Mr. Powers was the last to drive from the 14th tee, and it was not much of a drive. In fact, the ball finally rested in some deep grass only eight or nine feet from the tee.

Mr. Powers said he drove a second ball from the tee, but other witnesses said that he took his second shot from the rough, using his driver for this stroke. All agreed that the second shot struck the caddy, Steve Povanda.

Operate Today on Bill Jurges for Appendicitis

The Cub infield combination received a blow yesterday when Dr. John F. Davis, club physician, announced that Shortstop Bill Jurges would have to undergo an immediate appendicitis operation. Jurges went to the Illinois Masonic hospital last night and the operation will be performed today.

Jurges suffered his first attack while the Cubs were coming home from Pittsburgh May 2, but at that time Dr. Davis thought it might be possible to delay the operation until after the close of the season. Symptoms during the last few days indicated the need of immediate attention. Jurges will be out of action until about Sept. 1. Meanwhile Capt. Woody English will be stationed at short and Stanley Hack at third.

Injury of Center Fielder Ralph Boyle on Tuesday made it necessary to revise the Dodger outfield. This gave Hack Wilson a chance to do something more than warm the bench. Boyle, whose right ankle was sprained when he turned it running to first base, will be on vacation for a couple of weeks.

and Babe Herman beat out a single to Stripp. Cuyler tapped to Zachary, who threw to third, but Stripp dropped the ball. Klein scored and the two other runners advanced on Hartnett's fly. Jurges was purposely passed and Bush rolled into a forceout.

Bush didn't have much to worry about in the three innings following his slight shakeup in the second. The only hit in these three innings was a single with which Stripp opened the fourth. A double play fixed that. A couple of passes with one out in the fifth gave Wilson and Leslie a chance to do something, but they failed. Then in the sixth after Klein had sat down and risen in time to catch Cuccinello's fly, both Stripp and Lopez beat out bunts. Another double play, this one featuring Billy Herman, ended the inning without delay.

Almost Score Without Hit.

The Cubs almost had a run without the aid of a hit in the eighth. Jurges, the prospective invalid, walked after Hurst had been tossed out by Jordan. Bush bunted to Leslie, who made a wild throw into right field. Jurges immediately indulged in his last bit of strenuous exercise for a couple of months. He tried to race around to the plate on the error, but arrived a split second too late to beat Frederick's throw to Lopez. Then Leslie made a one handed leaping grab of a drive by Billy Herman.

Bush lost no time getting through the last three innings. Only two men reached base against him, and both were the result of passes.

TIDBALL BEATS SMITH, 6-4, 6-4, IN COLLEGE MEET

Philadelphia, Pa., June 27.—(AP)—The national intercollegiate tennis tournament reached the quarter-finals today with eight American stars remaining. Not only did the Canadian stars, Laird Watt and Bob Murray, both of McGill university, fall by the wayside, but the fourth round play also saw the elimination of three of the large group of Pacific coast contenders.

With Jack Tidball, defending champion from the University of California at Los Angeles, leading the way in a 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Gene Smith, California, four of the other seeded Americans had little difficulty in downing their rivals of the day.

Only Bill Reese, Georgia Tech, dropped a set, but his victory over Watt, the Canadian Davis cup player, 6-2, 3-6, 6-0, was considered an upset. Gene Mako hammered out a 6-2, 6-3 victory over George Stevens, Yale.

Murray lost to Wilbur Hess, Rice institute, 6-3, 6-3. Leonard Patterson, California Tech, was beaten by Martin Buxby, Texas, 7-5, 6-4, and Carl Holmes, California, dropped a close match to E. Ramey Donovan, Fordham, 6-4, 8-6.

The other easterner to reach the quarter-finals was Gilbert Hunt, Massachuetts Tech, who beat Ed Sutter, Tulane, 6-0, 6-3. Completing the surviving bracket was Kendall Cram, Tulane, who eliminated Egbert Miles, Yale, 6-2, 6-2.

Dr. Willing Loses, 7 and 6, in Northwest Golf Meet

Spokane, Wash., June 27.—(AP)—Ken Storey, 23 year old Spokane player, defeated Dr. O. F. Willing of Portland, 7 and 6, in the Pacific northwest golf tournament today. Don Moe of Portland, former Western amateur champion and Walker cup player, defeated Forest Watson, Seattle, 4 and 2, advancing to the quarter-finals with Johnny Shields, Ralph Hadley, and E. N Burnham, all of Seattle; Bob White, and Ward Wortman, both Spokane, and Bud Ward of Olympia.

Metcalfe, Hardin Most Likely to Score Twice in A. A. U. Meet

Although we are not overlooking Glenn Cunningham, Ben Eastman, Charles Hornbostel, and Bill Bonthron who will participate in two of the greatest middle distance races ever seen in America, the stars of the 47th national A. A. U. games Saturday afternoon at Milwaukee probably will be Glen Hardin of Louisiana State university, and Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette university. This prediction is based not on record breaking performance in one event but on the likelihood that each will win two events.

Double winners are scarce in a meet of the calibre of the impending contests in Marquette stadium. Last year, for instance, Metcalfe and Cunningham were the only double winners. Metcalfe captured the 100 and 200 meter sprints and appears able to repeat, judging by his double in the National Collegiate meet. Cunningham, in addition to winning his speciality, the 1,500 meter race, led Hornbostel across the finish line by five yards in the 800 meters.

A Difficult Task.

Cunningham, opposed by Bonthron in the 1,500 meters, one of the early events on Saturday's schedule, probably will find it an impossible task to come back an hour later and win the 800 meters from Hornbostel or Ben Eastman, who licked Hornbostel in the Princeton invitational half mile two weeks ago in world record time.

Hardin is the choice to share in double honors with Metcalfe if the southerner decides to race in any event besides the 400 meter hurdles, which he won in 1933 at Soldiers' field.

Hardin has a choice of two events in which to gain the second part of his "double." He has shown that he is the best low hurdler in the country and he likewise has proved superiority in the quarter mile, which corresponds to the 400 meter race on the A. A. U. list. Last year Ivan Fuqua of Indiana won the 400 meters; but in the N. C. A. A. Hardin defeated Fuqua.

Meet Draws 300.

Nearly 300 athletes are ready for the two day games, the junior A. A. U. finals tomorrow night and the senior events on Saturday afternoon. In addition to national championships, the chance of being selected in the list of 21 athletes who will invade Sweden and Japan this summer is the magnet which has attracted these men. The far west will be better represented than in recent years and the Olympic club of San Francisco is picked to fight it out for the team championship with the New York Athletic club, defending title holder.

Louisiana State and Indiana university, it has been announced, have combined to form a 1,600 meter relay team which will seek a world record. Hardin and Ted O'Neal, from Louisiana State, have paired with Hornbostel and Fuqua of Indiana for the race.

CUNNINGHAM ENGAGED.

Newton, Kas., June 27.—(AP)—Glenn Cunningham disclosed here today on his way to the National A. A. U. meet at Milwaukee that he is engaged to marry Miss Margaret Speir of Peabody, a graduate of the University of Kansas. He declined to divulge his marriage plans.

RULE ROSS MUST FIGHT FIRST IN 135 POUND CLASS

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—The New York State athletic commission, today ruled that Barney Ross must defend his lightweight championship before he risks his welterweight crown. The 135 pound title has not been fought for since Ross turned back Tony Canzoneri's bid for the crown last September.

A challenge for Ross's 147 pound title was made by Patsy Zulli on behalf of Bep Van Klaveren, and was placed on file.

Charley Harvey appeared to post a bond for a meeting between his heavyweight contender, Steve Hamas, and champion Max Baer, but the matter also was referred to a future date.

White Sox Pause for Single Game in Detroit Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 27.—The White Sox caught a 5:40 o'clock train for Detroit, where they will play a single game tomorrow before proceeding home. Managers Dykes and Cochrane had asked to have the game put over and President Harridge agreed until he heard that Rotarians in convention wanted to see the Tigers play.

The Sox will entertain the Cleveland Indians in single games Friday and Saturday, and Sunday a double header will be manufactured by moving up the contest scheduled for Aug. 9.

It is said that Manager Dykes is planning to recall Milt Bocek, the pride of Cicero, from Longview of the East Texas league. Milt has as much or more talent than half of the Sox cast and more spirit than 80 per cent of the young men on the outfit.

TERRY, MEDWICK ADD TO AVERAGES IN BIG SIX LIST

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Only three members of baseball's big six saw action yesterday, and the two who participated in the St. Louis-Giants game both fattened their averages.

Bill Terry gained two points to .368 to take undisputed possession of fifth place as Arky Vaughan of the Pirates went hitless against Curt Davis and dropped five points to .361. Joe Medwick moved up one point to .373 to tie Travis of Washington for third place.

Travis and the two leaders, Heinie Manush and Charley Gehringer, were idle.

Johnson Holds Cleveland to Three Hits.

Boston, Mass., June 27.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox scored their second shutout of the season today when they blanked Cleveland, 6 to 0, to move back into third place.

Henry Johnson struck out eight Indians and yielded only three hits.

Pearson started on the mound for Cleveland, but was removed in the fourth. Lee and Bean finished.

Cissell's single, Werber's triple and Morgan's infield out scored two runs for Boston in the first. A base on balls to Borgan, Roy Johnson's single, Solters' double and Porter's single accounted for three more runs in the fourth. Boston made its last run in the fifth on Werber's single, Morgan's and Solters' walks and Porter's infield out. Score:

50 SECONDS TO RUB . . Massage Vitalis thoroughly into your parched scalp. Tight dryness goes. Your hair has a chance.

10 SECONDS TO BRUSH . . It's manageable and it stays groomed. There's lustre in it, but no "patent-leather" look.

THE hot summer sun may tone and invigorate your system, but it is hard on your hair.

You golf, and the sun that bakes green and fairway dries out the natural nourishing oils of your scalp, leaving your hair brittle, split and dull. And your daily swim or shower completes the damage, washing away the last of the oils that your hair needs for its looks and its health.

You've got to protect your hair in summer. And you can protect it, keep it healthy and vigorous, keep it neat, manageable and handsome with Vitalis and the 60-Second Workout. For massage and Vitalis' pure vegetable oils stimulate circulation and replace natural oils.

Get the Vitalis workout habit. Your hair will gain new richness and lustre, be much more responsive to comb and brush. Loose dandruff disappears, as well as the threat of falling hair.

And no matter how active you are out of doors, you'll wind up the summer with a healthy scalp and vigorous, healthy hair.

ASK YOUR BARBER
A barber knows what your hair needs. When he suggests Vitalis, say "Yes!"

MR. DINE OWNS A HORSE AND NEW WARDROBE NOW

Ex-Jocky Rolls Up Small Fortune at Tracks.

All the romance of horse racing is found in the case of Joseph Dine, whose recently acquired Strait Jacket won the third race at Arlington Park yesterday.

In the language of the railbirds, "the seat of Joe's pants was out" when he arrived from Texas for the opening of the Illinois season at Aurora. Before leaving Texas Joe, who is a diminutive fellow, met a few plungers who agreed to make wagers for him providing he could dig up some winners.

Joe got lucky. Three times he wired his Texas clients Aga Ray and three times Aga Ray went galloping past the winning post. The returns from the Texans gave him $8,000.

He moved over to Washington Park and wired his Texas friends four more winners, one of them Secluded, which won at fairly tall odds. Twelve thousand dollars more which came by registered mail and telegraph rolled into the pockets of the amazed Ex-Jocky J. Dine.

"Why not become an owner?" Joe asked himself. He claimed the horse Broadstep and his cerise and white silks appeared on the turf. Broadstep won and ex-Jocky Joe and his Texas friends were all down, hook, line, and sinker. Somebody claimed Broadstep. That didn't stop the lucky Mr. Dine. He dropped a few thousand into the claiming box, obtained Strait Jacket, and bedded him away in Broadstep's empty stall. He sent Strait Jacket out yesterday and the horse led from start to finish.

COTTON OFFICIAL WOULD WEED OUT NRA EXECUTIVES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 27.—The first concrete suggestions from the head of an NRA industrial division for strengthening the national recovery administration during the coming year were made today by George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, Inc., and chairman of the cotton textile code authority.

In his statement Mr. Sloan reviews the tremendous gains that have been made in the cotton textile industry since its code—the first to be approved by the President—was signed last July 9. He praises Gen. Johnson, but by implication, calls for a weeding out of the executives in the NRA and investing in those who have shown a high regard for their responsibility even greater authority.

Has Six Recommendations.

His recommendations for "the immediate future of NRA" are as follows:

1. Full responsibility should be placed on those code authorities that have demonstrated capacity for sound economic thinking and a proper regard for public interest.

2. If code authorities are to be held responsible to the government for the conduct of their industries, the right to exercise administrative power must accompany such responsibility, always subject to government veto if this right is abused. If government is to assume the initiative, industrial leadership will be destroyed and in its place will follow an inefficient and burdensome burocracy.

3. Removal of the fear that basic code provisions may be subjected to further experimentation before policies heretofore agreed on can be fairly tested by experience.

For Rigid Enforcement.

4. Rigid enforcement of code provisions and prompt effective action by the government in case of wage and hour violations.

5. Avoidance of any compromise of principle or unwillingness to deal with facts in the face of threatened force, either from employers or employés.

6. A never-relaxing recognition of the partnership relation between industry and government, thus increasing the willingness and desire of individual business men to coöperate wholeheartedly with their respective code authorities and with the government.

In reviewing what has happened in the textile industry Mr. Sloan said there had been an increase of 40 per cent in the number of persons employed, the figures now standing at approximately 460,000. An increase of $113,000,000, or 78 per cent, in pay rolls during the first 10 months, was reported.

ARMOUR PLAN WINS ASSENT OF 50% OF HOLDERS

More than 50 per cent of Armour & Co. stockholders have assented to the proposed plan of recapitalization by submitting proxies to the company, T. G. Lee, president, said last night. A total of 21,793 shareholders, representing 2,302,045 shares—a majority in number of stockholders and outstanding stock—are included, Mr. Lee said.

He added that approximately 53 per cent of the preferred, 51 per cent of the A common and 50 per cent of the B common make up the total. Two-thirds assent is required to approve the plan, on which stockholders will vote July 6. Mr. Lee yesterday addressed a letter to those who have not deposited proxies, asking immediate consideration and action.

He told them new preferred and common stocks can be issued almost immediately on approval of the change.

To Be Listed on Issuance.

New York, June 27.—The stock exchange will list on official notice of issuance 572,313 shares of $6 cumulative convertible preferred stock, no par value, and 7,578,504 shares of common stock, $5 par value, of Armour & Co. [Illinois], it was announced today.

Holding Corporations Fined for Dodging Taxes

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, announced today tax penalties had been assessed against approximately a dozen holding corporations charged with passing profits to surplus for the purpose of reducing income tax payments required of stockholders. Under the revenue act of 1932, violating corporations may be fined up to 50 per cent of their net profits. The statute is aimed particularly at family holding corporations, although it covers corporations of every character.

Olds Auto June Output Sets Record; Will Be Increased

Lansing, Mich., June 27.—[Special.]—Production of the Olds Motor works will be speeded in July to care for an accumulation of orders, despite the fact that June production will shatter all records of the company, D. E. Ralston, vice president and general sales manager, said today. Retail sales up to June 20 exceeded by 96 per cent sales for the same period in 1933, he announced.

Illinois Steel Inspects Sites for New Rod Mill

Joliet, Ill., June 27.—[Special.]—Erection of a new rod mill in Joliet is being considered by the Illinois Steel company. Engineers recently inspected the proposed site for a plant, it was learned today. Charles T. Mason, general superintendent, said sites in Waukegan, Gary and South Chicago were likewise being considered, but nothing has been definitly decided.

LOSS OF GRAIN ELEVATOR RULE BY STATES SEEN

Pit Action Will Increase Federal Control.

Transfer of the nation's grain elevator system from state supervision under which it has always operated to federal government regulation was seen yesterday as the probable result of action taken by the Chicago Board of Trade.

The grain exchange filed a petition with the Illinois commerce commission seeking authority to change its rules so as to enable the Farmers' National Warehouse corporation, a government financed enterprise, to operate under the federal warehousing act rather than the state law under which all elevators now function.

This is the first time an elevator company has sought to take advantage of the federal warehousing act and it was predicted if the Farmers' National unit is successful in its plans other elevators will have to follow its example for competitive reasons.

Feud of Long Standing.

Farmers' National Warehouse corporation is a subsidiary of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, with which the Board of Trade has had a feud of several years standing. Farmers' National has been enabled to operate on the exchange because three officials of the corporation hold seats. These officials were cited this week on charges of violating the exchange's rules against commission rebating and will be tried by the board of trade directors July 24.

In the face of the known antagonism between the exchange and the Farmers' National the action taken yesterday by the board of trade aroused a good deal of comment. It was reported that the exchange's action in filing the petition came as a result of pressure from the federal government. Officials of the board did not comment on this report. It was stated that the issue was one between the state of Illinois, represented by the commerce commission, and the federal government.

Under State Control.

The board of trade, a state corporation under the state law, must seek permission of the commission when it wishes to change its rules pertaining to custody of grain in private warehouses. It was pointed out at the board of trade that its action is only what would have been done for any member of the exchange and every attempt is being made to be fair to the Farmers' National.

The state now has supervision over elevators in the inspection, grading of grains, and issuance of warehouse certificates. Transfer of these state powers to the federal government would be a tremendously significant development. Such action, it is said, would give the government domination over another important branch of the grain market system.

Federal Control Growing.

The government's regulation over the marketing system has been steadily increasing and the eventual aim is to bring the trade from the grain grower to the grain exchanges under strict federal regulation, opponents of the movement declare.

Hearing by the commission on the exchange's petition was set for Friday.

PROMISE QUICK SOLUTION FOR MIDDLE WEST

Discuss Details at Creditors' Parley.

A speedy conclusion of the protracted reorganization negotiations of Middle West Utilities company, largest of the former Insull enterprises, was promised yesterday following a conference in the chambers of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson attended by 50 persons including bank creditors, representatives of the note holders and attorneys for the various groups of stockholders. The conference was presided over jointly by Judge Wilkerson and Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley who has had direct jurisdiction in the Middle West receivership.

The meeting began at noon and broke up an hour later. Official announcement of what went on at the conference was withheld, but it was reliably reported that an agreement was reached for a separate meeting today of representatives and officials and the five large bank creditors of the company.

Bankers Seek Accord.

The banks which hold a great deal of the company's assets as collateral for loans will try to get together among themselves on a plan of reorganization. If an agreement is reached by the bankers a second conference will be held by the bankers and representatives of the $40,000,000 of outstanding debentures. Successive conferences will be held with stockholder representatives in an attempt to bring all interested groups together on a comprehensive program.

Among those who attended the conference in addition to Judges Wilkerson and Lindley were Edward E. Brown, president of the First National bank; A. J. Stilwell, vice president of the Continental Illinois bank; Charles A. McCulloch, receiver for Middle West; Robert N. Golding and Joseph Fleming, counsel for the noteholders; Bruce Johnston, counsel for Receiver McCulloch; Hugh McGee and W. J. Lippincott, vice president and assistant vice president, respectively, of the Bankers' Trust company, New York; Orville J. Taylor, counsel for a committee representing common stock holders of the company, and Lewis F. Jacobson, attorney for a creditors' committee which filed the bill seeking reorganization under the new bankruptcy bill.

Bank Loans 27 Millions.

Bank loans of the company approximate 27 million dollars. Of this the Bankers' Trust company advanced 10¼ millions and is the largest secured creditor. All the banks hold large amounts of securities of subsidiary properties as collateral. There is no collateral protecting the noteholders. The position of the common and preferred stock holders, who are junior to both the secured and unsecured creditors, is regarded as next to hopeless.

Indications were given that the Federal court will force the creditors and other interested parties to reach some early agreement. Th negotiations have been hastened by the threat of Receiver McCulloch to quit. He has indicated that he will relinquish his duties July 1.

Reserve Heads Lay Plans for Direct Loans

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Plans for extending to middle west industries the benefits of the new legislation permitting direct loans by federal reserve banks will be outlined at a meeting of the executive committee of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

George J. Schaller, governor of the Chicago reserve bank, announced this step yesterday after returning to Chicago from Washington, where he spent several days attending conferences of reserve bank officials from all of the twelve reserve districts.

Every effort will be made, Mr. Schaller said, to carry out the terms of the new law permitting the reserve banks to make loans for working capital purposes to industries unable to obtain bank credit from ordinary commercial banking sources.

* *

Under the terms of the law a committee of five industrialists must be appointed in each of the twelve reserve districts to pass on loan applications before they are placed in the hands of the reserve banks themselves.

Mr. Schaller is chairman of the executive committee of the Chicago reserve bank. Other members are Eugene Stevens, federal reserve agent; James Simpson, chairman of Commonwealth Edison company; James R. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company; E. R. Estberg, Waukesha, Wis., banker, and F. D. Williams, Iowa City, Ia., banker.

These men will name five prominent industrialists, three of them probably Chicagoans, who will serve as the special advisory committee on direct reserve bank loans to industry in the Seventh district.

* *

As soon as this committee has been named the bank will be ready to extend the new type of loans permitted under the law recently signed by the President. Application forms are being printed so that everything will be in readiness to accommodate borrowers.

Asked what the procedure would be in handling loan applications, Gov. Schaller said:

"Please make it clear that would-be borrowers will save time and be in a much better position to get quick service if they will make their applications through commercial banks. These applications can then be immediately forwarded to us by the banks and will be in such shape that we can act on them promptly.

"If applications are made direct to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago there is bound to be more delay because as yet we don't have the proper setup for handling direct loan applications."

* *

Under the law in order to get a loan the would-be borrower must show that the money is to be used for working capital, that it would be a sound loan, that the borrowing institution is an established concern, and that the loan is not available from ordinary commercial banks.

A year ago a law was passed by congress permitting federal reserve banks for the first time in their history to make direct loans to industry. This authorization, however, was entirely permissive and the federal reserve banks made scarcely any such loans. They found that if loans were sound commercial banks would take care of them, and if they were unsound the reserve banks refused to take them.

* *

The new law just signed by the President provides that industrial loans by reserve banks may either be made through the commercial banks or direct. If made through a commercial bank the latter assumes liability for 20 per cent of any losses that may be incurred on the loan. Loans may be made for periods up to five years.

Whether the reserve banks will make loans in large volume hinges on their finding borrowers whose credit is good enough to risk reserve bank money but who have been rejected as too risky by commercial banks. Commercial bankers doubt the existence of many potential loans of this type.

Rock Island's Interest Payment Is Approved

Trustees of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company yesterday were authorized by Federal Judge Wilkinson to pay semi-annual interest due Jan. 1, 1934, on the general mortgage 4 per cent bonds.

FIRST RAIL PLAN UNDER '77B' CUTS DEBT GREATLY

C. & E. I. Would Set Up New Company.

Steps toward the first railroad reorganization under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law were outlined yesterday by a bondholders' protective committee of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway. The plan was presented to the interstate commerce commission.

In essence it provides for formation of a new company to acquire all or practically all property and assets of the road. It differs from other reorganizations in that no assessment against stockholders is proposed. It will not be formally submitted to bondholders unless recommended by the commerce commission.

Debt Cut Drastically.

The proposed capital structure represents a drastic paring down of fixed interest bearing debt and preferred stock. Total funded debt will be reduced from $42,395,428 to $27,040,900, of which only $3,967,400 will continue to bear fixed interest. The balance will be placed on a contingent interest basis, which will reduce fixed charges from $2,308,881 to $351,464 annually. Contingent interest and sinking fund charges will amount to $1,181,035 annually, but are payable only if earned.

Outstanding preferred stock will be lowered from $22,046,100 to $15,354,500 and will be changed from a cumulative to noncumulative dividend basis, thereby reducing annual requirements from $1,322,766 to $921,270.

Would Refund RFC Loan.

Indebtedness to the RFC and Railroad Credit corporation amounting to $7,718,992 is to be refunded by prior and refunding bonds limited to an issue of $17,000,000. The remaining $9,281,008 will be available for refunding consolidated bonds and emergency financing.

The present issue of $30,709,036 general mortgage bonds will be 50 per cent refunded by an adjustment mortgage of $15,354,518 bearing 5 per cent. The balance will be refunded with new 6 per cent preferred stock, par value $100. In addition bondholders will receive common stock to wipe out arrearages, on the basis of ten new shares for each $100 of back interest. Holders of unsecured claims will be given 2 shares for each $100 of claims.

Old preferred stockholders will receive one share of new common for each three of old preferred. Common shareholders will receive one new share for each ten now held.

Lists Proposed Trustees.

The plan provides for creation of a voting trust for preferred stock of the new company. Proposed trustees are Alfred L. Auken, vice president of the New York Life Insurance company; Robert L. Hoguet, vice president of the Emigrant Industrial Savings bank, and Alfred Hurrell, vice president and general counsel for the Prudential Insurance Company of America. For reorganization managers the plan suggests a joint nominee of the RFC, RCC, and Carril M. Shanks, chairman of bondholders' protective committee.

ALUMINUM CODE TO BE TRIED FOR 90 DAY PERIOD

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson today approved an NRA code for the aluminum industry for a ninety day trial period to determine the extent it operates free "from any alleged oppression or discrimination." The Aluminum Company of America, a Mellon concern, is a major factor in the industry.

Johnson explained the approval was made for ninety days only in view of objections which had been raised to the code. These included assertions of a monopoly by Mellon aluminum interests.

During the ninety day period Johnson said he would receive and investigate "complaints of unfair competition in the sale of products at prices constituting unfair competition, or oppressing small enterprise, or tending toward monopoly."

The trial period begins July 11.

Pennsy Again Pays 50 Cents on Its Common

New York, June 27.—After estimating earnings of 59 cents a share for the first six months directors of the Pennsylvania railroad today declared a dividend of 50 cents a share, payable Sept. 15. This is 1 per cent on the $50 par stock. The previous dividend was 50 cents, paid March 15. This total of $1 thus far in 1934 compares with one dividend of 50 cents paid in 1933.

"Earnings for the first six months, partially estimated, will equal 1.57 per cent on capital stock, and after customary sinking funds are deducted will equal 1.18 per cent on the stock," a statement issued after the board meeting stated. The total disbursement is $6,583,848, shared by 234,246 stockholders.

Follows Pennsy Action.

Action of the Pennsylvania followed by a day the declaration of a $2 dividend by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway, which was the first since June, 1932.

Pan-American Airways corporations declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, payable Aug. 1 to stock of record July 20. This is the first distribution since the company was organized seven years ago.

Net income of the American Water Works and Electric company for the twelve months ended May 31, totaled $3,704,852 after taxes and other deductions, equal to $1.43 a common share. This compares with $2,850,869, or 95 cents a share in the previous twelve months. Directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, payable Aug. 1 to stock of record July 6.

Bangor Hydro-Electric company voted a quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share on common, compared with 37½ cents a share paid previously. Hamilton Woolen company approved $1 a share. The last previous payment was $3 paid Dec. 27, 1933. Dividends in 1933 totaled $8.20 a share.

Utility Votes Payment.

Central Power and Light company, a former unit of Middle West Utilities, declared 43¾ cents a share on the 7 per cent preferred and 37½ cents a share on the 6 per cent preferred, the first payments since November, 1933. Distillers Company, Ltd., ordered a dividend of 12½ per cent on the common, making 20 per cent for the year, compared with 17½ per cent in the preceding year.

Columbia Mills, Inc., authorized a quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on common, compared with $1 paid previously. National Bearing Metals corporation declared $3 a share on its 7 per cent preferred to apply on accumulations which will be reduced to $5 a share after this payment. Great Lakes Transit corporation omitted its dividend due at this time on the 7 per cent preferred.

Slight Rise in Railroad Freight Volume Predicted

New York, June 27.—(AP)—Revenue freight loadings of the country's railroads for the week ended June 23, are estimated to total about 621,000 cars, compared with 617,649 in the preceding week and 604,688 cars handled in the same week a year ago.

N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE PLANS AN ADVISORY GROUP OF OUTSIDERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 27.—Breaking a precedent that has stood throughout its history, covering a period of almost 150 years, the New York Stock exchange moved today to consider a change in rules whereby business, industrial, or economic experts may be called in as regular consultants to the governing committee.

Not only will the stock exchange be able to have regular advice from persons outside of the brokerage business, but, under a motion before the governing committee, members of the exchange who are not governors, and partners in firms who do not own memberships may become regular advisers.

The motion, which will be voted upon on July 5, provides that the governors invite at least ten persons, "either members of the exchange or of firms registered thereon, or nonmembers" for a period of one year to deliberate with the governing committee and to serve on special and standing committees.

"The governing committee," a statement issued by the exchange said, "has been advised of a widespread feeling among the membership that some form of representation on the board of governors should be granted to non-member partners of stock exchange houses. The basic reason for this feeling seems to be that there are non-member partners who have had wide experience in the security business and whose judgment would be of great value to the governing committee and to certain other committees."

WHEAT EDGES HIGHER; CROP NEWS BEARISH

Hedging Cancels a Part of Upturn.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Grain prices were firmer yesterday as added evidence was received that the spring wheat crop is no more than holding its own despite recent rains, and that corn is threatened with injury in certain sections by unseasonable weather.

Final quotations on wheat futures were unchanged to ⅛ cent higher, with the September delivery closing at 90¾ cents a bushel. Corn finished ⅝ to ¾ cent higher, with the September contract bringing 59½ cents a bushel.

The slight improvement here came in the face of moderate declines in both the Winnipeg and Liverpool markets. In both foreign markets wheat futures closed from ⅛ to ⅜ cents lower. Oats followed corn and wheat here and closed ½ cent higher, but rye and barley showed little change.

Rains Beneficial.

Rains in the northwest have been of immeasurable benefit to the spring wheat crop, but reports from that territory stress that while relief from the drouth staved off a crop calamity a short crop is certain. Fears that the spring wheat crop may not even yield the 100 million bushels forecast by the government June 1 are being expressed.

Poor threshing returns received from Illinois points yesterday and bullish reports from the northwest were enough to bring an early upturn in wheat. As the close approached, however, renewed hedging pressure canceled the gains.

The hedging pressure of the last few days has not been regarded as unusually heavy and the weakness in prices has been attributed to a lack of a speculative interest in the market.

Farmers Holding Grain.

Further indication that farmers are storing wheat in the hope of better prices rather than sell in the present market was seen yesterday. The Fort Worth, Tex., office of James E. Bennett & Co. wired yesterday that as much as 75 per cent of the wheat being brought to terminal markets in that territory is being stored for the account of growers or shippers and is not being hedged. The ordinary method is for the grower to sell to the elevators who in turn hedge their purchases by sales in the futures market.

Some good rains were reported by the weather bureau Thursday in certain limited areas of the northwestern wheat belt. Western Montana received nearly two inches of rainfall and soaking downpours were reported over the Canadian belt along the border.

Excessive heat was reported in various sections of the corn belt yesterday.

Commodities Exceed 1933 High Point, but Then React

New York, June 27.—(AP)—After breaking through the high point of last year the Dun & Bradstreet daily weighted index of wholesale commodity prices dropped to 112.70 on June 25, as against 113.44 a week earlier. The drop was caused by reactions in grains, flour, butter, silk, rubber, lard, and coffee.

Steel Activity Down 20 Pct.; Drop Expected

A drop of 20 per cent in production of steel occurred last week, according to the current issue of Iron Age. This is a decline of 12 points to 48 per cent of capacity, compared with the 60 per cent rate of last week.

The decline had been widely predicted after the general price advances in April and May. Output had been stepped up to an artificially high rate of production, as operators completed shipments against second quarter contracts this week, in compliance with code regulations.

Declines in ingot production were general except at Birmingham and Detroit, where the production rate is unchanged.

Curtailment to Continue.

Curtailment in production is expected to continue next week, but the necessity of building up raw steel inventories after heavy June shipments is likely to check the decline.

Construction jobs financed by government loans will require shipments of structural steel, reinforcing bars, sheet steel piling and other building products during the summer. Such projects are not influenced by code restrictions, but backlogs for these works are not particularly heavy.

Structural steel awards last week dropped to 8,700 tons, compared with 28,000 tons in the preceding week. A more promising outlook was furnished by new building projects that are expected to require 26,750 tons of structural steel.

Rail Output to Hold at 40 Per Cent.

Rail production here is expected to continue at 40 per cent of capacity during the next two months. Commitments at Pittsburgh will be completed in another month.

Automobile producers have been practically the only large steel consumers to place orders for third quarter delivery. Orders for a fair tonnage of sheets and strip steel have been placed at Cleveland with the understanding that July delivery at third quarter prices will be accepted in case shipments cannot be made by June 30.

Steel prices have been fairly stable. At Duluth, bars and semi-finished steel will be reduced $1 a ton on June 30. A Cleveland producer has filed a price $1 below recent levels for cold finished bars, effective July 1. Other sellers may not meet this figure. Iron Age composite prices for pig iron, finished steel, and scrap remain unchanged.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 27.—While bookings of fabricated structural steel in May were lower than average monthly bookings in the last seven months, they were 48 per cent larger than the same month last year, the American Institute of Steel Construction reports. The total is 35 per cent less than in April, the best month for the year, and 13 per cent under average monthly bookings for the first quarter of 1934.

Jesse L. Livermore Gets Bankruptcy Discharge

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 27.—Jesse L. Livermore, market trader who has won and lost four fortunes in his career, has another clean slate today as the result of his discharge from bankruptcy by Judge John M. Woolsey in federal court. Creditors whose claims against him aggregate between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 appeared unconcerned over the future of their claims as there was no opposition to his discharge.

POWER OUTPUT HIGHEST SINCE APRIL OF 1931

Chicago Total Also Shows Gain.

Electric power production throughout the country last week rose to 1,674,566,000 kilowatt hours, the highest figure since April, 1931, according to figures issued yesterday by the Edison Electric institute. The total compared with 1,665,358,000 kilowatt hours in the preceding week.

Despite the increase over the preceding week the total yield was only 4.8 per cent ahead of the corresponding period of last year, whereas in the preceding week the gain over the comparative 1933 week amounted to 5.5 per cent.

Chicago Reports Gain.

The totals for the Chicago area last week and the preceding week were 97,874,000 and 97,093,000 kilowatt hours respectively. Last week's output was the largest for any week excepting one since the week ended March 31, and stood 3.2 per cent above a year ago. A Century of Progress has caused the improvement here since early in May.

The output in kilowatt hours and percentage comparisons with last year for the Chicago district follow [last three ciphers omitted]:

Week ended—	1934.	1933.	% increase.
June 23	97,874	94,833	3.2
June 16	97,093	91,751	5.8
June 9	99,382	93,375	6.4
June 2	91,639	85,050	7.7

Changes by Districts.

Regional changes last week compared with the corresponding week of 1933 were:

New England, decrease of 4.9 per cent, against a decrease of 2.1 per cent the week before; middle Atlantic, a gain of 6.6 per cent, compared to a gain of 5.7 per cent; central industrial, gain of 5.7 per cent, against 7.3; west central, gain of 7.4, against 11.7; southern states, gain of 4.3, against 5.2; Rocky mountain, decrease of 0.3 per cent, against decrease of 0.7; Pacific coast, gain of 9.8, against 7.4.

GERMAN MARKS BOUND 50 POINTS; POUND CLIMBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 27.—In the face of the further fall in the gold reserves of the reichsbank to the lowest levels since the war and a drop in that institution's reserve ratio to 2.3 per cent the reichsmark rallied strongly today. It rose 50 points to 39.40 cents, the highest price since May 23.

The gain was artificial, according to the foreign exchange market. It resulted from the official restrictions which have so limited the supply of "free marks" as to cause even the existing negligible demand to raise quotations. The movement had no influence upon financial opinion with respect to the future of the German currency.

The dollar gained slightly against the French gold franc, but lost substantially to the British pound, which closed at $5.05¼ as compared with $5.03⅜ yesterday. Other principal currencies showed slight change for the day.

STOCK ADVANCE IS CHECKED BY PROFIT TAKING

Upturns Exceed Losses for Day, However.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 27.—A run of profit-taking in the afternoon checked efforts to extend yesterday's advance in share prices today. Selective trading rendered the list irregular in the final hour and the close showed recessions in many leading issues. Losses, however, were confined for the most part to fractions, while gains ran to more than two points, and in number exceeded downturns. Trading continued light and the turnover about equaled that of yesterday at 628,890 shares.

Throughout most of the day the list exhibited quiet strength that was impressive in the face of bearish steel industry reports.

Leadership Changes Quickly.

While profit taking blighted attempts to carry on the recovery, it was held in check by the process of rotating leadership. At the opening railroad and silver shares enjoyed favoritism, but in the afternoon buying enthusiasm switched to packing shares which remained in the forefront to the close.

Meat packing shares were given another fillip by news that the government had bought more live stock. The Armour group set the pace, the preferred getting up more than 2 points on the day. Cudahy and Wilson issues were well supported for fractional advancement.

Metal stocks also were conspicuous on the upside. Homestake was in a volatile mood again and advanced 10 points to a new record high. Dome also reached a new top with a small gain, as did Cerro de Pasco. A 2 point spurt in U. S. Smelting was in reflection of yesterday's dividend boost. Other strong features were American Smelting, Howe Sound, and McIntyre.

Steel Group Is Heavy.

United States Steel and others in its division were heavy on the adverse trade developments, but they were no worse than fractionally lower. Other industrials like American Can, du Pont and General Electric finished a shade down.

Interest in rails appeared to have dried up, the group easing fractionally after early strength. The Pennsylvania dividend helped for a time, but against it were disappointing trafic reports for eastern roads last week.

American Telephone and Consolidated Gas were strong features of a good looking utilities section, aided by bullish electricity output reports.

Motors remained close to previous finals, and the same was true of oils, foods, rubbers and amusements. Sugars were active but lacked staying power. American Sugar reached a new 1934 high, but was among the losers at the close.

COTTON EASES; REPORT FAILS TO CONFIRM DAMAGE

The government's weekly weather and cotton crop report, while saying Texas had received only 25 per cent of normal rainfall since June 1, failed to confirm damage to the crop outlined in recent private returns, and led to increased pressure from speculators. Closing sales were 10 to 12 points lower here and 8 to 11 points off in other markets.

A private report placed the acreage at 29,270,000, a decrease of 28.4 per cent from last year, and estimated the crop at 10,630,000 bales. In 1933 the yield was 13,047,000 bales. Spot cotton dropped 10 points, with New York closing at 12.35, New Orleans at 12.20, and Galveston and Houston at 12.25. Prices follow:

BUTTER PRICES DROP TO PREVIOUS LOW; EGGS OFF

Liberal receipts of eggs and an into storage movement well in excess of last year brought liquidation of October egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Prices dropped ½ cent to equal the lowest level of the season. Net losses for the day were ⅛ to ⅜ cents, short covering causing a rally from the inside level.

Land o'Lakes report showed butter production 6 per cent in excess of the previous week. While this is 13 per cent less than last year the report was considered bearish. Futures closed ¼ cent lower.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 27.—Bond prices moved within narrow limits today in quiet trading. The market was mixed throughout the day, with United States government bonds irregularly higher and domestic corporation bonds and foreign loans slightly lower. The general average eased slightly. Closing prices on government issues were up 4-32 to down 3-32 point. Volume totaled $9,431,000, par value, against $10,785,000 yesterday.

Speculative Rails Weak.

There was an outcropping of weakness in speculative railroad bonds. Among the principal losers were the obligations of Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville; Chicago and North Western; Denver and Rio Grande Western; New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, and certain divisional bonds of the St. Louis-San Francisco.

High grade rail issues pointed higher Utility and industrial issues were steady.

With numerous prime investment issues around their best levels for the last year or longer, buying appetite in these high grade groups was not particularly sharp, although a few of the "gilt edges" managed to advance into new territory with small fractional gains and equally restricted turnovers.

Several Touch New Highs.

Among bonds that reached new 1934 tops were Brooklyn Gas 5s of 1945, Chile Copper 5s, Burlington 4½s, Morris & Co. 4½s, New Jersey Power 4½s and Northern Pacific prior lien 4s.

Foreign loans were dull and irregular. French government, United Kingdom and most of the Scandinavian issues were firm. Advances and declines in the German group were about evenly balanced, with the market paying little attention to the efforts the British government intends to put forth in sequestering German cash in England. Latin American bonds showed minor changes in prices.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was generally steady today on further covering and scattered local buying, promoted by the further advance in corn and the firmness of crude oil. Final prices were 3 points higher to 1 net lower. Sales were 19 contracts, including 4 exchanges from July to September at 20 points difference. Bleachable spot nominal; July closed, 5.60c; September, 5.78c; October, 5.86c; December, 6.04c; January, 6.12c.

Mutual Life of New York.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me information concerning Mutual Life Insurance company of New York?—P. F.

Answer: This is one of the oldest and largest life insurance companies in the world. It began business 91 years ago. It is a mutual organization.

Admitted assets during 1933 showed a slight decline. They totaled 1,120 million dollars at the close of the year, against 1,127 million dollars, the highest figure ever reported by the company, at the close of 1932. Admitted assets on Dec. 31, 1933, however, were well above the amount reported two years previously.

Real estate constituted 3 per cent of admitted assets on Dec. 31, 1933; mortgage loans were 26 per cent; policy loans, 18 per cent; bonds [amortized values], 46 per cent; stocks [convention values], 2 per cent, and cash, 2 per cent.

The company set up a special contingency reserve fund of $7,815,000 as a liability to offset the difference between book value and market value of bonds not subject to amortization and of preferred and guaranteed stocks. Net surplus, excluding such special reserve, was $59,144,000.

Income in 1933 was $218,054,000 and disbursements were $217,153,000. In 1933 the company earned 4.4 per cent on its assets, against 4.7 per cent in 1932 and 4.9 per cent in 1931.

Mortality rate is favorable, but has shown an increase in recent years. It was 69.2 per cent of expectation in 1933, against 65.6 per cent in 1932 and 65.3 per cent in 1931.

Insurance in force hit its peak in 1930. It has since then, in common with the experience of life insurance companies generally, followed a downward trend. It totaled 3,904 million dollars at the close of 1933, against 4,227 millions the year before and 4,450 millions on Dec. 31, 1931.

The company is licensed to conduct business in every state but Texas.

Bond Commission.

Investors' Guide: Please advise me regarding commission on buying and selling listed bonds.—H. J. E.

Answer: The commission for the purchase or sale of bonds on the New York Stock exchange and the New York Curb exchange is $1.25 minimum on $500 bonds or less, plus 25 cents per $100 above $500. On thousand dollar pieces the commission is $2.50 per $1,000, except for United States government bonds. The commission on them is $1.25 per thousand.

On the Chicago Stock exchange the commission is $2.50 per thousand on all bonds.

RAMOVA THEATER IS LEASED FOR 12 YEAR PERIOD

Prospects of Bondholders Improved by Deal.

BY AL CHASE.

Following the recent acquirement by bondholders of the Ramova theater property at 3508-18 South Halsted street negotiations were concluded yesterday whereby the Halsted Theater company has leased the entire building for twelve years at an indicated term rental of $240,000. According to Alfred E. Stanmeyer, president of William C. Heinemann & Co., underwriters of the original bond issue, this transaction practically assures the bondholders of eventually getting 100 per cent on their investment.

When it was announced June 7 that as a result of coöperation by bondholders title to the property had been placed with the West Central Building Liquidation trust for them Mr. Stanmeyer stated that negotiations were under way with the present tenant for a renewal of the lease.

May Make Cash Payment.

Yesterday Mr. Stanmeyer announced as a result of negotiating the new twelve year lease with the present occupant a cash disbursement of 2½ per cent probably would be made shortly.

The new lease calls for a reduction in the rental from $20,000 to $18,000 annually for two years, beginning July 1, 1934. For the next eight years it will advance to $20,000 and will call for $22,000 annually for the last two years. The lease starts July 1. It was made between Alfred E. Stanmeyer, George J. Kaspari, and Felix E. Dreyer, trustees of the West Central Building Liquidation trust, lessor, and the Halsted Theater company, as lessee.

The property is improved with a two story building containing seven stores, lofts, and a 1,200 seat moving picture theater. The original bond issue was for $200,000, which was paid down to $186,000 at the time of default in February, 1932. The three trustees, it is stated, reorganized the property without expense to the bondholders.

Acquires Apartment Title.

As a step in the reorganization of the Glenlake-Rockwell apartments at the southwest corner of Rockwell street and Glenlake avenue title to the property was conveyed yesterday by the Glenlake-Rockwell Building corporation to Frank Marshall, nominee of the bondholders' committee, for $62,000. This twelve flat building was financed with a $65,000 bond issue underwritten by J. H. McCortney & Co. and the North Avenue State bank.

According to Austin L. Wyman, attorney for the committee, a corporation is to be formed, the stock in which will be owned by bondholders. Foreclosure proceedings have been instituted but not completed as the committee hopes to secure the deposit of all bonds and thus avoid unnecessary court costs.

INSURANCE FIRM SOUND, STATES' REPORT REVEALS

Results of an examination of the Continental Assurance company, 910 South Michigan avenue, by the insurance departments of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Nebraska, was filed with Ernest Palmer, insurance commissioner of Illinois, yesterday. The company writes life, health and accident insurance.

The report said the financial condition of the company is sound and the policyholders' interests are amply protected. Its cash position is good and the liquidity of its assets can take care of any emergency which may arise. Policy claims of all nature are met promptly and in accordance with the policy contracts. Affairs of the company are conducted economically and efficiently by the officers.

The report disclosed that admitted assets at the close of 1933 totaled $18,627,632, of which real estate comprised 9.2 per cent, mortgage loans 24.6 per cent, policy loans, 17.7 per cent, bonds, 29.6 per cent, stocks 6½ per cent and cash 5.8 per cent.

Pacific Gas to Pay Interest Abroad in Foreign Money

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 27.—The Pacific Gas and Electric company has informed the New York Stock exchange that interest due on and after July 1 on its general and refunding mortgage bonds held abroad will be paid in foreign currency, upon satisfactory evidence that the interest coupons had been detached from bonds which were actually owned and held abroad continuously since May 1, 1934. All other holders are to be paid in lawful money of the United States.

Germany's Exchange Ban Hurts Tourist Business

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 27.—The first consequences of the new drastic currency restrictions imposed by President Hjalmer Schacht of the Reichsbank are being felt in the German trade and tourist business. The travel bureau was informed today that it will receive only 10 per cent of the foreign currency formerly allotted it. In many cases the sale of tickets to foreign countries has been stopped.

MUNICIPAL BOND NOTES

Halsey, Stuart & Co. was the successful bidder yesterday for an issue of $440,000 Sioux City, Ia., sewer improvement bonds, due serially from Nov. 1, 1936, to 1950. Of the total half was purchased on a 3 per cent basis and the balance on a 3¼ per cent basis. It is expected public offering of the bonds will be made today.

Two small issues also were purchased and offered by Halsey-Stuart, both of which brought premiums to the issuers. A price of 100.18 was paid for part of a $200,000 Nashua, N. H., issue and the balance were bought at 100.13. The bonds carry 3 per cent interest, maturing serially from one to twenty years, yielding from .75 to 3.10 per cent, depending on maturity.

The firm purchased an issue of $125,000 Turtle Creek, Pa., school district 4 per cent bonds, maturing 1941 to 1960, at a price of 102.64. The bonds yield 3.50 to 3.70 per cent, according to maturity.

The state of South Carolina, which marketed an issue of $4,230,000 of notes on a 3.96 per cent basis on Tuesday, now plans to sell about July 10 a new issue of $4,239,700 of bonds, due from 1939 to 1953, to refund a like amount of 6 per cent certificates and notes which are callable. The new bonds are to be sold as not exceeding 5s.

The city of Syracuse, N. Y., announced yesterday a new issue of $135,000 of bonds for award on July 6 at noon. The bonds will mature serially from one to thirteen years. Proceeds of this financing will be used for stadium construction purposes.

The town of Milton, Mass., has scheduled a new issue of $228,000 of bonds for award on July 3 at noon. The issue will mature serially from one to nineteen years. The bonds will be issued to finance school and sewer construction.

No bids were reported received by Passaic county, New Jersey, for its issue of $2,317,000 5 per cent park, road, bridge, and building bonds.

PENNSYLVANIA PLANS SALE OF $50,000,000 BONDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 27.—The Pennsylvania railroad has placed informally before the interstate commerce commission a plan for the sale of $50,000,000 of its series C general mortgage bonds of 1970 now held in the treasury. The company would give the issue of a 4¼ coupon rate and sell it at a price between 98 and 99, but the commission is said to favor a higher rate and an offering price at par or above.

The company is described as having ample funds now, a substantial proportion of which is invested in government bonds at favorable prices. The management believes, however, that the present security market is favorable to its purpose and is desirous of taking advantage of it. The proceeds of the issue would be for general purposes, although they might be used in part to repay $60,000,000 of 6½ per cent secured bonds due next Feb. 1.

Kuhn, Loeb and company are prepared to market the proposed issue through a syndicate in accordance with methods in use before the enactment of the national securities law. There have been more than $100,000,000 of railroad bonds sold under this law, although without advertising or formal syndicates. Through the advertising and syndicate the issue will be subject to more provisions of the law than applied to the previous offerings.

GERMANS FEEL LESS OBLIGATION FOR YOUNG LOAN

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 27.—German delegates attempted to draw a distinction between Dawes and Young loans when the debt negotiations with the British began here today.

The outcome of the discussions will determine whether the British government will impose an exchange clearing system next Sunday and whether there will be a trade war between two countries as a result. Both groups of negotiators are anxious to avoid hostilities and an official communique described the conversations as "very friendly," but treasury circles were pessimistic tonight.

It is reported the Germans admitted the priority of their Dawes loan obligations, but argued no equal obligation is attached to the Young loan. They also contended Great Britain must take more German exports to enable the interest to be paid.

URGE SUPPORT OF WHOLESALE MARKETS HERE

Merchants Discuss Ways to Aid Trade.

Mutual advantages to manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of women's wear and fabrics which will come from further development of Chicago's wholesale market in those lines were explained yesterday at the merchandising clinic conducted by the Chicago wholesale market council.

The clinic, conducted in connection with the showing of fall fabrics sponsored by the council, at 371 West Adams street, attracted an especially large attendance of Chicago buyers and merchandising executives, in addition to buyers from the middle west. For the first time fabric manufacturers are showing their fall lines at this show at the same time that they are bringing them out in New York.

Cites Value of Home Market.

The advantage of a source of wholesale supply such as the Chicago market affords, close to the store selling to the consumer, was stressed by Elmer T. Stevens, president of Charles A. Stevens & Co. He told of a merchandising executive who on State street was able to turn over the stock of his department seven times a year, but who, now on Fifth avenue in New York, has been able to increase the turnover to 15 times a year.

"The man has not changed greatly, and his methods have not been altered radically," said Mr. Stevens. "The explanation which he gives for his greater success is that in New York he has a wholesale market close at hand."

Favors Western Plan.

Frank Mitchell, a leading Chicago dress manufacturer, urged that Chicago department stores follow the lead of stores in Los Angeles and San Francisco in building up a wholesale market in their own cities, by setting aside a certain portion of their monthly appropriations for merchandise to be spent in their local markets. One of the points emphacized by Bruce MacLeish, of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., was that buying at home spares the department stores' buyers out of town trips and increases their usefulness in superintending sales efforts in their departments.

Code Price Fixing Opposed.

"We certainly have been forced to believe that some manufacturers," said Mr. Kelly, "in their desire to take full advantage of the opportunity and make more money for themselves have very often reduced their cash discounts and eliminated or curtailed certain traditional privileges which retailers have enjoyed for many years."

Taxation rather than the codes Mr. Kelly blamed for the failure of many merchants to wipe out, under the NRA, the deficits which they incurred during the depression.

"Although retailers have attempted to increase their gross profits in order to take care of the increased cost of wages," he said, "the occupational tax [Illinois sales tax] and other new burdens have defeated them in almost every instance with the result that they have not been able to make a fair return on the investment of their stockholders."

REORGANIZATION OF 6 REAL ESTATE PROJECTS ASKED

Reorganization under the amended bankruptcy act was sought yesterday by three creditors of the South Shore Country Club Building corporation, owner of the property on which the club is located. Liabilities were placed at $1,323,000. The petition was filed by Wilhartz, Hirsch & Schanfarber.

The same attorneys also filed a voluntary petition for the South Shore Manor Building corporation, 7263 South Shore drive. The petition listed liabilities of about $400,000, and assets of about $500,000.

Sheridan-Melrose Building corporation, 3240 Sheridan road, was named in a creditors' petition filed yesterday under the new law by Attorney M. L. Rubin. Mr. Rubin said that liabilities are $1,700,000 and assets about $1,000,000.

Reorganization petitions were also filed on behalf of the Michigan-Lake Building corporation, valued at $2,000,000, liabilities $3,200,000; the Sixty-third and Maryland Theater Corporation, with liabilities of $1,868,000; the Arence Building corporation, with liabilities of $868,000, and Carlsen, Holmer & Bromstad, building supplies and office fixtures concern. Assets of this firm were listed in the petition at $195,000 and the liabilities at $274,000.

TOP CATTLE SELL AT $10.40, BEST SINCE EARLY '32

Hogs Decline Unevenly on Lighter Demand.

Prime 1,220 pound steers sold to Wilson, presumably for World's Fair trade, set up a new $10.40 top in the cattle market yesterday. This was 5 cents above the previous high mark. The new top goes back to January, 1932, and stands highest for June in four years. A year ago yesterday top steers sold at $6.85.

Demand was mostly for the highly finished steers exceeding 1,200 pounds, those above this weight outselling the 900 to 1,000 pound yearling steers of similar quality by $1.50 to $2.00 in most cases.

Top 1,000 pound steers brought $9.00, and choice 950 pound averages sold at $8.50. Medium grades of steers showed the only weakness. Butcher stock showed some unevenness due to a slightly heavier supply of "fed" hefers. A year ago at this time there was a broad demand for yearling hefers.

Hogs Unevenly Lower.

Recent weaknesses in lard and grain markets and slower demand for fresh pork were blamed for a setback in the hog market yesterday. Members of the trade regard the movement as a natural reaction after the sensational advance of the last two weeks. Packing houses carried lighter buying orders for swine and prices fell unevenly 5 to 25 cents, comparing extremes of the last two days. Light weights and packing sows, or "lard hogs," showed the most loss.

A break below the $5.00 line would curtail the receipts, members of the trade believe because of the bullish attitude of farmers on hogs lately. S me are advising even lighter loadings as a result of the setback yesterday. Receipts are running abnormally low for this time of the year, and it has been largely because of the abbreviated supplies that sellers have managed to drive the average price of hogs up from $7.25 per head to $11.25 per head in less than three weeks.

Average Declines 10 Cents.

Selected 200 to 260 pound butchers topped the list yesterday at $5.05 which was 10 cents under the top early Tuesday and 20 cents under the high point of last week. The general average declined 10 cents to $4.70, but still showed a gain of 46 per cent over the low spot early in the month.

Most of the 275 to 325 pound butchers closed at $4.85 to $5.00, while the majority of the light hogs weighing 150 to 180 pounds cashed on local account at $4.25 to $4.65. It was estimated at a late hour that about 5,000 would be carried over for today's trade.

The break in yesterday's lamb market was the first severe setback lamb price have had in some time. Large local packers were the principal buyers as prices fell 25 to 50 cents, taking top grades of natives closely sorted largely around $9.00. A few to city butchers reached $9.25. Shorn yearings sold at $6.85.

LARD FUTURES DECLINE 2½ TO 10C, DUE TO SELLING

The bulk of the trading in lard futures was in transfering holdings of July into the distant futures or in selling the July outright. The undertone was easier from the start with the close at net losses of 2½ to 10 cents. Cash lard was 5 cents lower at $6.47½; loose, 7½ cents lower at $5.97½, and leaf unchanged at $6.00. Bellies declined 5 to 7½ cents with cash lots off 7½ cents at $9.50. Prices:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—Cotton goods were firm today with trading quiet in the gray goods division, and filling in lots being bought in finished goods lines.

Wool goods traders are buying very little until after the week end which closes the fiscal year. Resistance to high wool prices continues.

Silk goods in the higher priced qualities are attracting more attention than for some seasons past and a better fall business in them is predicted. Burlaps were quiet with trading light.

HAROLD TEEN—A BRIEF HAPPINESS

Miscellaneous.

PULL UP YOUR CHAIR AND LET'S TALK IT OVER.

It wouldn't do to start out by missing anything or getting a wrong idea, because men who click in this profitable business are men who begin with an open mind. Men who prejudge are hard to deal with, and we don't want them. This is not because we feel hurt, but because such men are not capable of properly contacting the customers of this big organization. One impertinent or poorly informed man can do more harm than four capable men can do good. Therefore, we are after men with the right mental attitude, who believe that a business with 8 plants world-wide, plus assembling works, leading in its field in the newest in electric, unit construction and installation, must have some basic merit in order to succeed.

Most men starting here make modest sums for their first few weeks, but enough to take care of their families and themselves. There are exceptions; some men earn large sums from the outset. There are men with us who have been here for months or even years, whose June earnings will exceed $400 and even $500. These facts are important to you, because you receive the same proposition they have, and are paid the same full comm. on the gross transaction plus the same bonus rate which they receive. There is something to work for here—the business is permanent. Every one of these successful men called to see us exactly as you would call. They did not permit weather, temperature or prior plans to deter them. A man with a fade-out mind has only a fade-out income. You can spend the money you get here and make more and more of it. In return, while you invest no dollars, you must invest time and energy, be sincere and consistent and learn what we teach you.

If you live on the North or N. W. sides or nearby suburbs and are the type of man we have tried to picture to you here, call and talk it over. Come at three o'clock Thursday afternoon, June 28, to Suite 215-226 at 1046 Wilson-av. If we appear to get along together, we shall require the balance of the afternoon to cover the details clearly. And a sound mutual understanding is what we both need!
